

WEDDED FIFTY YEARS

Former Centre Mill Couple Celebrate Happy Event at Their Home in Montandon.

Fifty years ago on August 23rd, at Centre Hill, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Kooner were united in marriage and last Wednesday a week ago they very pleasantly celebrated the golden anniversary of that happy event amidst a hundred of their friends and neighbors at their home in Montandon.

At noon the happy couple with their friends surrounded a long table, which was graced by a beautiful wedding cake baked and presented by William Gramm, of Harrisburg.

The table placed on the lawn under large shade trees, was spread with an abundance of good things to satisfy any appetite. While thus seated, Miss Clara Kerstetter, of State College, a granddaughter, recited an appropriate poem.

The bride received many beautiful and useful presents, including forty dollars in gold and bills.

Among those present were a son and daughter, nine grand-children and eight great-grandchildren. A number of people from State College, Spring Mill, Rebersburg, Coburn, Linden Hall, Lewisburg, and other points, were present.

Five Lock Haven parties were included in the forty-six autoists who were fined for speeding through Millheim a week or more ago. The fine and costs amounted to $14.75 each and netted the boro a tidy sum. A hearing was held in Millheim last Wednesday when the greater part of the money resulting from the violations was paid. The "coughing up" was a severe task for the auto owners who were loud in the protesting against the alleged injustice.

Zettle and Lucas have a string of work in the building line that will keep them going until the cold weather sets in. At the present time three houses are going up on John H. Weber's lots in Pleasant Gap. Following this a new barn will be erected on the Michael Spieker farm, tenanted by Robert Glasgow, which was destroyed by fire several weeks ago. The local firm also has the contract for building the new State house in Forester William Montgomery's ballwick, at Pottery Mills.

DEATHS.

George Corman, a native of Brush Valley, but for the past fifty years living in Freeport, Illinois, was accidentally killed on the railroad, on Sunday, aged seventy-two years, five months and twenty-two days. Sheep Corral is Equivalent to Insurance. It is an unfortunate fact that the sheepkilling dog constitutes one of the greatest obstacles to sheep raising in Pennsylvania. The farmer can do much, however, to protect his flock by building a corral into which sheep may be driven at night; since it is night that most losses from dogs occur.

On the farm of The Pennsylvania State College a corral surrounded by a dog-proof fence is provided. The fence is 5 feet high, and is constructed of woven wire and has a barbed wire at the base, two inches off the ground. Two barbed wires also are stapled at the top; the first, for inches above the woven wire, and the second, eight inches above the first. Thus a fence about six and one-half feet high is provided.

The corral should be large enough to maintain a good stand of grass at all times. One acre is enough to accommodate 100 head of mature sheep. Dividing the corral into equal parts and alternating the sheep on each portion every ten days is a good practice. Shade is desirable. Provided it is well drained, the apple orchard would make an ideal location for a corral.

An open shed with southern exposure and good drainage, built in the corral, will protect sheep from cold rains and thus materially lengthen the pasturing season. The equipment, including fence and shed for 100 mature sheep, will cost about $125. It affords dog protection, simplifies the breeding of ewes, the feeding of grain and the weaning of lambs, and safeguards against exposure to severe weather and wet quarters.

It's a Pretty Good Reason Too.

Cosmopolitan Magazine has staked $250,000 in new manufacturing equipment as one of the first steps necessary to enable it to print the 2,000,000 copies that it has made its new circulation mark.

The publishers of Cosmopolitan are convinced that they will attain this figure quickly, and base their conviction on their belief that Cosmopolitan, long having been the greatest magazine, is in its new enlarged size, the largest, also. They say this will double the value and consequently will double the demand.

Sheet steel is the latest material utilized in the making of furniture. It is used for sideboards, wardrobes, chiffoniers, writing desks, and is finished in such perfect imitation of the various woods that the difference cannot be detected. The wood finish is applied under a very high temperature, becoming an integral part of the metal and never cracking. This unique furniture, however the recommendation of being fireproof, and a lighted match held on a pressed steel sideboard would have no effect whatever on its surface.
