ARE YOU STARVING YOURSELF?
Little Talks on Health and Hygiene by Samuel G. Dixon, M. D., LL. D., D. Sc. Commissioner of Health.
Last week the health talk was on the sin of overeating. This week I want to surprise many readers by mentioning the fact that notwithstanding our markets are full, and the wheels of industry moving with unprecedented steadiness, keeping the dinner kettle of every able bodied person full of things to eat, we have many among us who believe themselves intelligent, and yet are starving to death.

The human body represents the most complicated piece of machinery known to man. To maintain it we must supply it with albumin found in meats, beans and some of the other vegetables. It must have starch or sugar found in bread, potatoes and sweets. We must have fats also, found in meats, nuts and so on, and of course, preeminently in butter and good milk.

The body also demands certain salts such as are found in many of the vegetables if they are not robbed of them by being soaked in water before or during the process of cooking.

These constituent parts of the diet must be intelligently proportioned.

The lower animals know somehow what foods nature demands to keep up healthy bodies and a strong physical development, while man's artificial life has extinguished that intuition which may have existed during his primitive existence.

Today we must urge our educators to teach children of understandable age the scheme of selecting a rational combination of foodstuffs.

At present we want real all-round family physicians whom mothers can consult as to how to feed their little flocks including the grown-ups of the household as well as the small children.

Proper feeding is one of the necessary factors in the development of the human body and in preserving a natural resistance to cancer and other diseases.

At 8:30 p. m., the first bulletin of election news appeared in the Reporter window, and read that the returns were such that forecast Hughes' election.

Reagle bought a lot of hogs, but he didn't get them all judging from the number of heaps of corruption discharged on the side walks. Any ordinary being ought to be enough of a gentleman not to spit on the side walks. To say spitting is hoggish is putting it mild.
