Save Pennies-Waste Dollars

Some users of printing save pennies by getting inferior work and lose dollars through lack of advertising value in the work they get. Printers as a rule charge very reasonable prices, for none of them get rich although nearly all of them work hard. Moral: Give your printing to a good printer and save money.

Got Something Want to Sell?

Most people have a piece of furniture, a farm implement, or something else which they have discarded and which they no longer want.

These things are put in the attic, or stored away in the barn, or left lying about, getting of less and less value each year.

WHY NOT SELL THEM?

Somebody wants those very things which have become of no use to you. Why not try to find that somebody by putting a want advertisement in

PLAIN DUTY OF PROGRESSIVES IS TO FOLLOW WILSON.

Republican Party Has Proved Its Inability to Subdue Standpatism-True Progressive Organization Is in Control at Washington.

Mr. Wilson received the votes in November of more than a million persons who favored no other Democrat. It is to this element that he appealed at the dinner to Chairman McCormick when he urged all Progressives, as a duty to the country and to themselves, to ally themselves with the Democratic party.

The attempt to liberalize Republicanism is a demonstrated failure. With its leadership unchanged and undisciplined by the great revolt of 1912, the organization had a candidate in Mr. Hughes as reactionary as Mr. Tuft. and it never stood more resolutely in the way of progress. At the very time, however, when Republican Progressives were making their unavailing effort to subdue standpatism, the Democracy passed under the leadership of its most advanced elements and has so remained, with legislative and administrative achievements without a parallel.

Unless the people make intelligent use of political organizations with whose aims they are in sympathy, popular government must work at crosspurposes. The original Republican party became powerful because the Free Soil Democrats and Conscience Whigs filled its ranks. These recruits had to abandon party names and traditions, but they found that easier and wiser than continued association with reactionaries. Their help was necessary for the creation of the new political instrument which later fought the war and preserved the Union.

A progressive party is now in control at Washington, and it is the only organization of the kind in existence. The one sure way to maintain its present character and prevent its own evil influences from regaining the ascendancy is, as the president says, for all forwardlooking men to co-operate with it. As between Democratic advance and Republican retreat, Progressives ought not long to hesitate.

Unique Political Situation.

Republican leaders in congress, who are quoted upon the proposal to admit former Progressives to the Republican executive committee are apparently proceeding upon the principle that while it is never too late to mend, it may be too early. The members of the recent Progressive conference at Chicago make the point that the Republican campaign committee contained six Bull Moosers, and that the election showed that a majority of the old party is progressive, as evidenced by the success of La Follette, Capper, McCormick and Johnson, and the defeat of Lippitt, Du Pont, and Sutherland. All they are asking, therefore, is that the majority of the party be given a minority representation on the executive committee. Was there ever anything just like this in our politics? Half a dozen years ago people spoke of the old guard and the "insurgents," and upon occasion the lines were drawn with sharpness, as in the fight against Cannon in the house. But when before did one section of a party act as an unabsorbed mass, propose terms, plead for recognition as the guaranty of party success?

Underwood Exposes Attack.

Senator Underwood exposed the falsity of another Republican attack on the Underwood tariff in his speech at Cincinnati, when he said that the customs receipts for 1914 showed that the revenue was coming in largely under It, and this was before the war broke out. For six months prior to the opening of hostilities the country was prosperous and beginning to recover from the period of depression that had set in before Taft went out of office. There is no reason to doubt that the prosperity would have continued had there been no war, for the records of the department of commerce show that war material constitutes just 15 per cent of the six billion of imports and exports of the country.-Mobile Regis-

Tariff Taxes Consumer.

That protection, no matter whom else it protects, does not protect the wage worker is abundantly proved by the fact that wages in our two most generously protected industrieswoolen and cotton manufacture-have been for many years notoriously low in comparison with the agricultural implement industry, having low protection-latterly none at all-and the railroad industry, which, of course, cannot be protected by tariff. The only thing a tariff can keep up is prices to the consumer, thus enabling the favored manufacturer to tax the public for his own personal profit.

For an Executive Budget. The executive budget plan would throw a new responsibility upon our departments. A great range of the current expenses of government it would not affect at all; and it would not obviate the necessity of still spending for waterways and courthouses, army posts and navy yards, pensions and special claims. But it would treat our financial affairs as all other great governments treat theirs. Before President Wilson's second administration is far advanced, we hope to see

Over a quarter of a million industrial accidents occurred in Pennsylvania during 1916, according to figures compiled by the State Department of Labor and Industry, from the reports of employers who are required underthe State laws to send information on all accidents to the Capitol. The figures show that 2,587 persons were killed out of a total of 251,488 killed and injured, the department calculating that there was a monthly average of 215 killed, and of 20,957 killed and injured. October had the largest number of fatalities, showing 287, while March had the largest total of killed and injured, giving it a daily average of 999 killed and injured.
