THE QUARTERBREED

The Story of an Army Officer on an Indian Reservation By ROBERT AMES BENNET

ners," came back the cool rejoinder.

the stream. As they rounded the spur

"See my house, sir," he said.

on this corner of the roof."

Vandervyn.

It was told in the first installment of this story how Capt. Floyd Hardy, U. S. A., just back in the States from the Philippines where he had put down a savage uprising of Moros, arrives at Lakotah Indian reservation in the Northwest. He finds a party of angry Indians firing on three white persons who have sought shelter in the canyon. The whites are old Jake Dupont, a trader, his beautiful daughter, Marie, and a young Easterner named Vandervyn. They are ill-mannered toward Captain Hardy, but he risks his life and routs the Indians. He becomes friendly with the whites and learns that Vandervyn, nephew of a United States senator, had expected to get the agency appointment, following the killing of Nogen, the regular agent, by an Indian. Also, he discovers that Marie is a great granddaughter of Chief Sitting Bull, and that she has been educated in a French-Canadian convent. This installment contains some revelations of conditions on the reservation.

CHAPTER III.

Confidences. The rescuers from the agency had reined in their sweating ponies to a lope when they first caught sight of the six months in this God-forsaken jumpparty on the butte side of the coulee. ing-off place. I wouldn't have stayed on Hardy's right, and pointed to a Vandervyn lingered behind the oth-They straggled down the gulley at a six days if it hadn't been for Marie." walk, eight short-haired Indian policemen in blue uniform, and a tall, looselipped young halfbreed in ordinary mented Hardy. frontier clothes. As they stopped in furtively studied the rider who was approaching on the big, rangy mare.

the butte, and the whole bunch hit

"Soldiers?" queried the halfbreed. him alongside Hardy at the edge of the Says she took a course in domestic stream. "Captain, this is Charlie Redbear, our issue clerk and interpreter." give odds, one of her paternal ances- ried."

bear do any of the police understand the halfbreed. horse soldiers-the Longknives. I have family or culture. Fancy Jake Dupont been sent here to be the agent." Redbear interpreted in musical Lakotah, accompanying his words with swift signs. The swarthy policemen grunted approvingly, and their leader rolled out a sonorous reply. The halfbreed interpreted mechanically: "He says your eye is straight. He says they are ready to trail and fight the Indians whose hearts are bad."

ordered Hardy, "I shall call a council of the chiefs, and ascertain the cause of the tribal unrest. Tell them."

Redbear hesitated, and looked uncertainly at Vandervyn. The chief clerk spoke to him in sharp reproof: "Do as you're told, Charlie. Captain Hardy is now in command of the reservation."

The halfbreed stared in astonishment, but hastened to interpret. At once the faces of the policemen became stolid. They cast covert glances at Vandervyn. Without seeming to notice their sudden change of manner, Hardy selected four to act as escort to the Indian trader and his daughter. The rest of the party followed him back up the gulley.

From the first the mare walked out in the lead. She would soon have left behind even Vandervyn's quick-stepping pinto had not her rider happened to glance about and catch the troubled expression on the younger man's face. Hardy waited for him to come alongside, and gravely remarked: "I wish to express my regret, Mr. Vandervyn, that my detail here has deprived you of your expected promotion."

Vandervyn's small mouth curved with a cynical smile, but softened to a more agreeable expression as he met the other's gaze. "You admit it?" he

"Having accepted the detail, I cannot "But the extra pay was not one of the a copy in the office at the agency." inducements. Permit me to suggest that arrangements can be made to di- tack a white man that way," observed vert to your salary the amount in ex- Hardy. "Was the cause ascertained?" cess of my regular compensation as an

but that's no excuse-

"My fault, sir. Pardon me," apologized Hardy. mountains, considered, and turned to boss the tribe their own way." his companion with what seemed a cordial smile. "I am not used to be- them in hand before fall." ing patronized, captain; but as you did not mean it that way-'

"Not at all." Vandervyn nodded. "You now understand that I'm not one of the common run of Indian service employees. I was slated for attache to our embassy at the Court of Saint Jamescelebrated the coming event with some friends, and wound up by heaving a brick through a window of the White this reservation, I am in charge of the everything checked accurately. House. Uncle shipped me out here until the storm should blow over."

Vandervyn. "I didn't wake the presi-The watchman sent me home in a taxi. | were ever heard of."

don." "Best thing for you."

"You think so?" said Vandervyn, his willow-fringed bank to the crossing of it." wide-open eyelids drooping. "I've been spirited young woman," dryly com- the left.

the stream to water their ponies, each | She was three or four years at a confarmed her out as a parlor-maid in "You're too late, Charlie," called some select British family. She can Vandervyn. "Captain Hardy climbed give a perfect imitation of a real lady -when she chooses.

"Yes?" said Hardy.

"How old is she?" come. She says she will die." "Very well. But you must take good in the still air. care of her until she is married."

"Yes, sir. I've got a lot of money," "-Almost enough to buy you two equaws," cut in Vandervyn. Hardy did not notice this. They had mare and ponies had been left. rounded the toe of the spur ridge, and lay outstretched in a circle of hills Hardy's inquiry. larger and far more picturesque than the Catskills. Sioux creek swirled out of a canyon at the far end, to meander down a winding channel fringed with

On a natural terrace, or "bench," two miles up, the glasses showed the log handsome face with childish shyness buildings at the agency. Midway down as Hardy wheeled his mare and reined reservation?" to Redbear's cabin but across the creek was a large post-and-rail corral. Vandervyn had resumed with zest his talk about the social gaieties of which he had been deprived for half a year. Hardy said little, but his eye was busy taking in the natural features of the beautiful valley. When they came to the slope of the bench, or terrace, Vandervyn noticed the intent look of his companion, and inquired: "Well, what do you think of it? Talk about Siberian exile! That is the Dupont place over here." Hardy glanced at the large double cabin a hundred yards off to the right to give the particulars of the killing of of the road. The broad front porch gave it a homelike appearance. The two cabins before him were very small. opened again in a wide, guileless stare. Beyond them stood the big agency warehouse. Its overhanging upper story showed that it had been built for use as a blockhouse, but the many windows had rendered it less defensible than one of the cabins. The only persons in sight were the two Indian which of us it was. That's all. You'll police who had been left in charge by

> "Well?" repeated Vandervyn. "Not an easy place to defend," said guardhouse?" "The office is in the near front corblond mustache. "Well, it may be all ner of the warehouse. The police quar-The offer was as unexpected as it talk, but I gather that the trouble was ters are in the other end. You see the your luggage in a few minutes. You was generous. Vandervyn flushed, bit over this ore-buying. Nogen thought it white tepees over there across the need not dress for dinner." that's not quite- You may mean well, paid to them instead of to the laborers first cabin is Nogen's-yours, I should

"I board with the Duponts, but I can "Let us trust that we shall have scare up a cold lunch," said Vandervyn. As they dismounted, Redbear came up and successfully curried favor with pect to stay all summer? That shuts the new agent by offering to curry his mare. He led her away to the low his long ride, Hardy put in the rest of porch. the day inspecting the agency property The gravity of the officer's face hard- and examining the accounts of the two with bluff cordiality. "Glad to see you. ened to sternness. "Mr. Vandervyn, clerks. With the exception of two or kindly bear in mind that, as agent of three small items on Redbear's books,

In the bunk, blew out the candle, and | Vandervyn, lolling in an easy chair found him not yet finished with his have inherited their gentlemanly man- troubling to close either the door or looked up and smiled in boyish enjoythe one small window. ment of the new agent's surprise.

Vandervyn's reddened face went crimson. The veins of his forehead began to swell. But with a strong effort dervyn were seated in the agency of-he repressed his anger and forced a fice when Redbear came in and started unless she had things just like in Ot-parlor and no less tasteful. The small smile. "You went me one better, Hardy. to shuffle around to his desk, on the tawa. Cried till I had to give in." other side of the office partition.

"Wait!" said Hardy. "I wish the chuckled Vandervyn. "It was Jake who chiefs and headmen of the tribe sum- wept because Marie sent off the mail "I see no reason why we should not moned to meet me in council as soon order and he had to foot the bills." become friends and work together for as possible." "It is a day's ride to the camps she could hire to do the work, and I

if cleared of all ill temper by his out- marked Vandervyn. burst, he began a lively conversation | Hardy considered, and looked up at on official society in the national capi- Redbear.

"Does not this tribe use smoke sig- down, Cap. Make yourself to home. The party topped the rise between nals?" "Not for a long time, not since I was Hardy. Bring in that bottle me and down the winding road that skirted its a boy, sir. I never learned how to do Mr. Van was sampling, will you?"

"That old sergeant of police will ridge on the far side, Redbear rode up know," predicted Hardy. "Come!" small cabin among the quaking asps ers, and followed them only to the the side of the room-a young lady in "Miss Dupont seems to be a very in the mile-wide curve of the stream to rear corner of the warehouse. When a semidecollete gown, of lines irrehe had seen them ride off across Sioux creek towards the highest of the moun-"Looks well built," remarked Hardy, tains that encircled the valley, he went his fieldglasses at his eyes. "Quite back into the office, opened the safe, vent in Ottawa. They must have new, I see. You have still to put dirt and carefully sorted over its conas highly colored as if rouged. tents. All letters addressed to the late "And to put a squaw inside," added agent and to himself he took out and brand of admiration that passes over locked in his desk. The halfbreed's jaw muscles Meantime Hardy and Redbear with twitched, but he did not look away the police sergeant passed through the from Hardy. "I got a letter from my camp of the families of the police, sister Olnna. She says she can't stay where they added two old bucks to at school. She says she will die if they their party. A pony trail led up through make her stay at school. I want her the pines on the mountainside to the afternoon found the Indians standing around a greenwood fire, alternately "More than seventeen. She is sick to covering it with a blanket and permitting puffs of the dense smoke to rise

In less than half an hour Hardy's glasses showed him an answering replied the halfbreed, with the prone- smoke on a peak fifteen or twenty ness of a weak nature to boast. "I've miles distant. When he called attention to it, the police sergeant pointed out still another smoke signal off to the left of the first and several miles far-Redbear started to speak, caught the ther away. The old bucks turned from other's eye, and reined in his pony, the fire and started down to where the

"The chiefs will come tomorrow," he was gazing up the green valley that Redbear interpreted their answer to

The jaded buckboard ponies were silent mockery was wasted. Hardy tugging their load up the slope of the was watching Dupont uncock the terrace when Hardy came down the whisky bottle. line of agency buildings at a gallop. bushes and aspens and other small Marie Dupont was driving; but on the "As you are my host, the question is olive-skinned girl, who averted her not a law or a rule of the Indian bu-up alongside. Marie flushed under the officer's direct gaze, though, unlike her companion, she did not seek to avoid it. He raised his hat with punctilious polite- strict letter of the law, captain, you marked: "Good afternoon, Captain the Indians?" Hardy. I have brought your luggage." "That was very kind of you," said it's ten-year-old rye," qualified Dupont.

Marie smiled in instant appreciation Canada. Marie made me buy some of the fact that he had spoken to her wine, too, to celebrate your coming. as to an equal. She patted her com- She said it was up to us to loosen up. panion's work-reddened hand with her seeing as you had shooed off them gioved fingers. "This is Charlie Red- bucks." bear's sister Oinna. They did not treat her well at school, so she ran away to Hardy accepted the explanation. "I brother. You will not send her back?" river." The young girl looked at the new as quickly drooped her head in bashful didn't read the law as you do; but if such a dinner as this!" embarrassment. Hardy's gaze softened, and he answered reassuringly: "Redbear spoke of his sister. It will be all right."

"You are most kind to say it," ap-Hardy. "Where is the office and the proved Marie with the condescension of a gracious young queen. "Captain Hardy, we shall expect you to dine with us this evennig. I shall send over

CHAPTER IV.

The First Card. As Hardy was unpacking his scant wardrobe, an Indian boy came to the door, thrust in his head and announced gutturally :

"M'ree him say you come six:" Hardy nodded to the boy and signed him to go. Ten minutes later he stepped up on the porch of the Dupont house. Before he could knock, Dupont stepped from the rear door of his After lunch; though still weary from trade store, which faced away from the

"Hello, Cap!" he greeted the guest Walk right in."

paused. The floor was covered to re- the boss." Vandervyn brought bacon, coffee, semble waxed hardwood. The oriental crackers and canned food, and the new rugs were real. The walls were pa-Vandervyn quivered like a thorough- agent cooked supper with the skill of pered with a quiet tapestry pattern. Dupont. bred flecked with the lash. His voice an old campaigner. After they had The adobe fireplace was set with a eaten, the chief clerk produced cigars | modern grate and faced with a tile "Damn your impudence! I'll have in anticipation of a social evening. But, mantel. The few pictures were well glass. His own and Vandervyn's dis-"Oh, I don't know," carelessly replied you understand you're not talking to Hardy was so drowsy that he asked to chosen. There was no. sign of the appeared at a gulp. Hardy took a sip, one of your rough-neck recruits. My be excused. The moment he was alone, guns, skins and Navajo blankets that and asked for a seltzer. The bottle

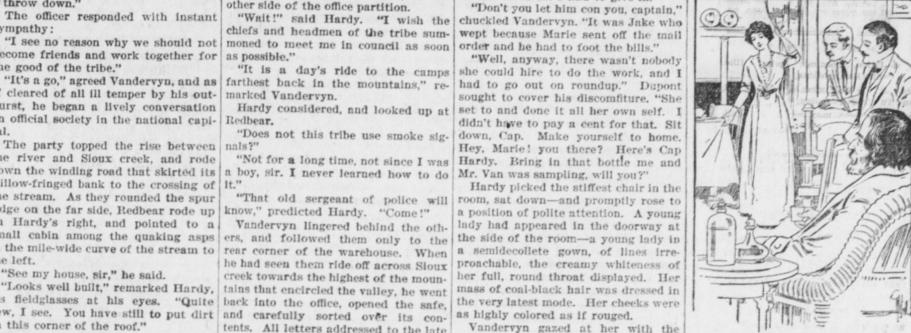

"Stand-up collar and a white shirt. It's sure a high-toned celebration. Better wear 'em careful. You'll have to mail 'em a hundred miles to the nearest Chinaman when they git dirty."

begun to mellow and was in gay mood. "Here's to your boiled shirt, Cap," he "Cheaper to throw them away, and send a mail order to Chicago for new ones," put in Vandervyn. He added, as he adjusted the fashionable tie that was hardly in keeping with his gray flannel shirt: "But you'll soon take to the local styles."

Marie again appeared in the doorvay. She bowed to the guests with imressive formality.

"If you will enter, gentlemen." Hardy went in between Vandervyn Dupont grunted apologetically: and Dupont. He avoided the girl's The next morning Hardy and Van- "Don't think I'm plumb crazy. It's all proud gaze by looking about at the

"If You Will Enter, Gentlemen."

the footlights from the first-row seats oval table was spread with a cloth of to the prettiest girl in the chorus, snowy French damask. The silver Hardy bowed as he would have saluted was real antique ware. The unsmiling his colonel's lady or the daughter of a hostess bowed Hardy to the seat of Moro chief, if either had been his honor.

"This here layout is Marie's," ex-The girl's eyes sparkled as she noted plained Dupont. "She was bound to his change of dress, his immaculate turn herself loose to even up on what linen, and clean-shaven chin. His happened at the river yesterday. bow won a smile that may have been Needn't figure on us dishing up the due either to gratified vanity or to a same rations regular."

commendable self-respect. She greeted "I have yet to learn whether I am to him in a tone that caused Vandervyn to have the pleasure of boarding with straighten in his chair. "It is a great Miss Dupont," remarked Hardy. "You sure have, if you're ready to

"The pleasure is mine, Miss Dupont," shell out for it. Grub comes high here. "You've hit it, Cap," put in Dupont. "And Marie is a real chef," added

"You can just bet your bottom dollar Vandervyn. on it you won't kick yourself for com-Hardy waited until the Indian boy had served the soup. At last he suc-The girl's sable-black eyes dilated ceeded in fixing the cool gaze of his and her perfectly molded chin rose a hostess. "Please do not consider that fraction of an inch. She placed the hospitality requires you to do me the tray on a tea table, bowed composedly, favor, Miss Dupont," he said. "I do and left the room. Vandervyn looked not wish to intrude, highly as I should

The deference of his manner soothed the girl's wounded pride. She smiled, and combined a friendly response with "One moment, Mr. Dupont," he said. a side thrust at her father:

"Indeed, we shall be delighted to seat beside her was a brown-eyed, an awkward one to ask-yet is there have you Captain Hardy-I, because of your company, and Pere because of the reau against bringing liquor upon a cash."

"By Gar, he won't git no better feed Dupont stared around at the inin no hotel," vowed Dupont.

quirer in blank surprise. Before he "I can foresee that," agreed Hardy. could find words to answer, Vandervyn His faith was justified by each sucreplied for him: "According to the essive course. Though all the vegetables had come out of cans, they were ness. She bowed, and, gazing back at are right. You can't fancy that Jake prepared with consummate skill. The him with a level glance, quietly re- would be fool enough to sell liquor to trout were fresh from the creek; the grouse and beef had been hung exactly "By Gar, you bet I don't-not when the right length of time in the dugout icehouse; the champagne was frappe. Hardy as he glanced at the other girl. "You can't git no better stuff out of Between the girl's vivid beauty, the good cheer, and the cordiality of his companions, his usually half-sad and wholly severe expression had given place to genial animation.

Upon the return of the hostess from one of her visits to the kitchen he spoke to her in a tone that drew a come home. I want her to live with must ask you, however, not to bring stare of open resentment from Vanme; but she says she must be with her anything more of the kind across the dervyn: "You are wonderful, Miss Dupont, wonderful! One day in an In-"Of course he will not, if you ob- dian attack, followed by a fifty-mile agent with a smile of timid appeal, and ject," assured Vandervyn. "Nogen drive; the next, fifty miles back, and

"First the great-granddaughter of Sitting Bull, then la bonne cuisiniere Francaise," flashed back the girl. Where is the wonder? Two streaks of heredity, plus childhood in the saddle and a course in domestic science,"

"Yet you must be fatigued." "When I have done what I set out to do, then I permit myself to consider whether I need rest. There was a time when my red ancestors had no horses. They ran down their game afoot."

"You will always ride-or drive," bantered Vandervyn. "By Gar, she won't never be driven," declared Dupont with conviction. Vandervyn smiled over his champagne glass. He did not notice that Marie was looking at him. But Hardy was watching her. He saw her proud face soften and her brilliant eyes melt with tender passion. His own face became grave. A moment later she was rallying him for his seriousness, and her animation soon compelled him to forget what he had seen. Vandervyn had not been mistaken in his assertion that she could act the lady to perfection when she chose. Though the cigars proved to be Havanas, they were

Do you believe that Marie and Captain Hardy will become really good friends? Will he get her influence for his purposes in dealing with the dissatisfied In-brought in much sooner than suited

(TO BE CONTINUED)

"Ah, since you put it that way."

pleasure to have you dine with us."

ing when you git to her feed-trough."

declared Hardy.

Interpreted Redbear. you believe in dry weather for our-Hardy crossed the threshold and selves as well as for the Indians, you're

"Sure, and here's one all round to Hardy. show there ain't no hard feeling," said

He poured out three drinks, each measured to the brim of a whisky was handed around another time and But the infernal grafter must have | "I regret that you do not seem to tumbled in on his blankets, without beside the small, well-filled bookcase, first drink. But Dupont had already Hardy may have recalled the hazings in which he had shared at West Point. His only comment was: "You were shook with passion: fortunate to get any appointment."

The officer responded with instant sympathy:

I throw down."

the good of the tribe."

peached. I got this instead of Lonthe river and Sloux creek, and rode

"Wait till you see her put on dog.

"You'd take It for the sure-nuff ar-"No, he's alone-our new agent," ex- ticle," went on Vandervyn. "And that's plained Vandervyn as his pony brought not all. She can cook like an angel. science. But it must be hereditary. I'll to come and cook for me till I get mar- bare granite crag of the summit. Mid-"Interpreter?" repeated Hardy. "Red- tors was a French chef. French, that's the word. The way she has with men! Even this halfbreed Redbear thinks "No, sir, only a few words," mumbled he is in the running. Nogen was mad over her. He even would have "Tell them I am a captain of the married her. But he was not a man of

"I'm Not Used to Being Patronized,

for a father-in-law! Only thing, his squaw died five or six years ago. That was when he sent the girl to Ottawa." Hardy looked at the mountains and changed the subject: "May I ask you

Mr. Nogen?" Vandervyn's eyelids drooped low and There's little to tell. Nogen and I and Redbear were riding into the mountains. We met the murderer. He and Nogen quarreled. He shot Nogenkilled him. Then Redbear and I fired, and one of us got him-we don't know now ask to be relieved," said Hardy, find it in the coroner's report. I kept Redbear, "Strange that an Indian should at-Vandervyn twisted the tip of his his lip, and replied half inaudibly: a good thing to encourage. The chiefs creek? Most of the relations of the "You needn't think just because No, felt ugly because the goods were not police camp near the agency. This -the bucks and squaws who dug the say. The second is mine." ore, you know. The chiefs stirred up "Your quarters? May I ask you for a lot of bad blood. No doubt they in- a bite of lunch as soon as I have Vandervyn looked ahead at the stigated the murder. They want to rubbed down my mare?"

"Fall?" echoed Vandervyn. "You ex-me out of my promotion." "You may receive the appointment of brush stable beyond the warehouse. attache."

"Perhaps I don't want it just now. You forget Marie."

moral as well as the material welfare of every member of the tribe."

dent, and I had some of my wad left. ancestors were gentlemen before yours he laid his rifle and automatic pistol Hardy had expected to see.