Harrisburg News Letter.

Senator Penrose's Investigating Recession now goes to the Governor for such action as he deems proper. It is predicted that he will veto it on the ground that it is unfair and factional, and as the Penrose gang cannot master the necessary two-thirds of each House to pass it over his veto, we are just where we were the day the Legislature convened seven weeks ago, and the only persons benefited are the six-and-seven-dollar-a-day employees who regularly "earn" their stipend during these dilly-dallying and jockeying for position by different Republican factions. Thus in the exactly fifty days since the Legislature has convened, it has cost the State $70,000 to put up to the Governor a loaded investigation proposition which he will surely veto.

Representative Edwin R. Cox, late candidate for speaker said: "If this resolution goes through, it will sound the death knell of the Republican Organization. It's a can of nitro-glycerine, which if exploded will blow up both sides and result in the election of an independent or Democratic governor."

This is how the Penrose-Grundy gang play politics:—

Representative Stiles recited how his vote on the speakership fight was being sought by both sides. Senator McNichol had a conversation with him along these lines. "If you are on the losing side in this fight you'll get two pamphlet committee assignments, and as for a seat you'll be lucky if they let you in the House at all." He adds, "bitterly," looking over my committee assignments and at the location of my seat in this chamber, I can with great truth and solemnity say "A prophet has arisen in Israel."

And this is how the Brumbaugh-Vare crowd play politics:

Representative Stern: I know two jobs that two men got for their votes in the speakership fight. They did not get the jobs themselves, but in one case the man's brother got the job, and in the other case the man's son got the job. Both of these men were known to be allied with one of these factions, but after the jobs showed up they were allied with the other faction. Both of these jobs were in the Insurance Department.

With more than half the states in favor of prohibition now, and 85 per cent. of the total area having outlawed the saloon, and more than 60 per cent. of the people living in "dry" territory, the slogan of the temperance people, "A Saloonless Nation in 1920," is quite possible of realization.

Free-for-All Fight in Millroy.

A free-for-all fight in which from sixteen to eighteen men figured, took place in the pool room in Millroy on Saturday night, with the result that Jerry Aumiller, aged forty years, narrowly escaped death when his head was laid open, requiring about a dozen stitches to close the wound. The indications are that a billiard ball or chair struck him. The source of the disturbance is traced back to one word—rum. The county detective, on Monday was busy rounding up the offenders. Following the brawl the citizens of Millroy held an indignation meeting resulting in the organizing of a law and order society to prevent as far as possible any such orgy to occur again.

To Repay For Damage By Deer.

Plans are being worked out by the State Game Commission for the bill to provide a fund to pay farmers, orchard owners and others who may suffer loss of crops by reason of deer, elk or bear. Numerous complaints have been made of the depredations of game animals in orchards and about farms the last few years, and while many of them have not been substantiated upon investigation, it has been found that some losses were suffered.

In a number of instances fields of grain were grazed by elk and deer, especially corn fields, while does were seen attacking orchards. A dozen or more instances of bears overturning hives have been officially brought to attention of State officials.

The plan is to appropriate $15,000 from the revenue received from hunters' license, to be administered by the Game Commission and to have all claims made by affidavit. The secretary of Game Commission will then send inspectors to look over the damaged property, and if an agreement cannot be reached three persons are to be named, one a sportsman, one a farmer or orchard owner and the third to be selected by them.

Dr. Joseph Kalbfus, secretary of the Game Commission, expects to have the bill ready shortly and will urge its passage.

TUSSEY SINK.

A general mix up and tangle occurred some distance west of Tussey Sink last Thursday afternoon while George Zerby and son Eddie (better known as Weary Willie) were returning home from the Yarnell sale. They were in the vicinity of J. B. Wert's home when a few sleighs in the rear excited and unbalanced the nerves of their old grey horse Max, which started down the road away beyond the speed limit and when he came to the short curve in the road old Max became unmanageable. A smooth glitter of ice on the road caused the sleigh to over turn and spill the occupants out and old Max went on down the state road still faster with Weary Willie hanging to the ribbons, being dragged something less than a mile and a half, and finally at a spot near the old school house he was able to bring old Max to a standstill. The senior Zerby gathered himself up and looking around after the smoke and mist had rolled away found himself tangled up in a woven wire fence somewhat twisted but no staves broken and the cries of Weary Willie soon brought the old gentleman within speaking distance. They soon succeeded in getting blankets, robes, whips, tie ropes and other paraphernalia gathered again but not before the school marm and all the students had rushed to the outside to see what had gone wrong and so the scholars were discharged for the balance of the week. The old grey was thought to be worn out but they have decided to keep him another year on parole.

Ben Gentsel was appointed stable boss at the Book View penitentiary.

Last Friday the mail carrier from this place to Coburn figured in a runaway in the vicinity of Kline's grist mill. His team became frightened at an object and at once got the best of the driver. With the assistance of a lady passenger they managed to keep the team in the road until they got near Smulton when one of the horses fell when the harness broke, as well as the doubletree. This caused the team to dart into a wire fence, thus ending the runaway. No serious damage was done to horses or occupants.
