Be "Hanged" His Dogs.

It is said that a certain dog owner living in an adjoining county was "too slick" for the assessor when he made his rounds registering dogs for tax. It was known that this man had several dogs, but he told the official that he hanged those for which he was not paying. After the assessor left, the admirer of the canine tribe went to the barn and cut down several burlap sacks in which the fugitive dogs were hanged. They soon joined the dog anthem quite familiar around the premises.

COMFORT HOUSES.

Little Talks on Health and Hygiene, by Samuel G. Dixon, M. D., LL. D., D. Sc., Commissioner of Health.

Comfort houses in cities and towns are essential to the health and comfort of our people, yet in Pennsylvania the traveling public that comes to a town for a day or two for sightseeing is not provided with lavatories or comfort houses.

These good people, often strangers in our towns, are driven into saloons in search of lavatories, and men often buy a drink before leaving as they feel indebted to the innkeeper. In many cases this drink may be taken for the first time by one of weak character, who has not sufficient force of mind to deny himself another. It is the beginning of a sad ending for the young fellow.

On Sundays and holidays, when the stores and taverns are closed, our visitors are hard set to find places of rest and comfort. Comfort houses, kept in sanitary condition, cost some money, but how essential they are!

The absence of such houses, not only causes discomfort, but ill health. When Governor Fener gave the Health Department charge of Gettysburg to prepare it the great meeting of the Blues and Grays at the Fifteenth Anniversary of the Battle of Gettysburg, and we were reviewing the necessary things to be done, such as ample water supply, hospitals, dispensaries, sewage disposal, etc., we conceived the idea of having a liberal supply of comfort stations, well placed throughout the town of Gettysburg along the roads leading to and from the battlefield.

These houses had male and female attendants—thousands upon thousands of people made use of them—and these places of rest and comfort represented a large factor in making our phenomenal health record of this memorable occasion.

During the gathering of the Blue and the Gray at and around little Gettysburg, with a normal population of about eight thousand people, during the seven days, with a census of one hundred thousand people, notwithstanding the old age of veterans and their families, the records only showed nine deaths.

Let our health boards and councils awake to the necessity of comfort houses, designed and maintained to keep up a sanitary condition, and they will help to advance not only the health, but the morals of our people.

Farmers' Institutes Popular.

Marked increase in attendance and interest in the Farmers' Institute conducted under the auspices of the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture has been growing in various sections of the State during the present season of Institutes and shows that the farmers are looking forward to one of the best seasons of agriculture in the history of the State.

Reports of institutes held in forty-five counties show a total attendance of over 20,000 more persons than in the same counties last year and in several of the counties the full allotment of days has been completed. It is expected that the total attendance figures for the season will reach a higher total than for a number of years.

Despite unfavorable weather conditions, the attendance in York county broke the record and was close to the 14,000 mark for the fourteen days of institute. In Somerset county 5,400 people attended as compared with 3,390 a year ago, while in Indiana county the attendance was 5,020 as compared with 2,854 a year ago.

Washington, Butler, Beaver, Crawford, Erie, Venango, Schuylkill, Luzerne, Montour, Northampton and other counties show big increased attendance, but Crawford county carries off all honors of the year to date with an increase of from 2,785 a year ago to 10,815 for the institutes closed just a few weeks ago.

The total attendance at the present time is over 130,000 and twenty-two more counties to report it is expected that the showing for the year will amount to over 200,000.

Shaffer, of Columbia county, introduced in the House, at Harrisburg, a bill providing that hereafter when a veteran of the Civil war dies the county shall allow $75 instead of the customary $50 it has paid in the past for a funeral. The same provision is made to apply to another measure relating to the burial of veterans' widows.
