

Why That Lame Back?

Morning lameness, sharp twinges when bending, or an all-day back-ache; each is cause enough to suspect kidney trouble. Get after the cause. Help the kidneys. We Americans go it too hard. We overdo, overeat and neglect our sleep and exercise and so we are fast becoming a nation of kidney sufferers. 72% more deaths than in 1890 is the 1910 census story. Use Doan's Kidney Pills. Thousands recommend them.

A Pennsylvania Case

D. R. Pringle, 913 Oak St., Indiana, Pa., says: "I suffered acutely from pains across the small of my back. The kidney secretions passed too frequently, especially at night and I felt miserable. Two boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills rid me of the back-ache and regulated the action of my kidneys. The cure has lasted and my kidneys are now in good shape."

ECONOMIC RULE IS UNBROKEN

The More Money, the Higher the Prices, Has Been the Law Since Earliest Days of World.

When the Indians of New England found plenty of seashells out of which to make their money called wampum, the more of it they would give for a blanket, basket, kettle, pair of moccasins or feather bonnet, says Girard in the Philadelphia Ledger.

The political economy of King Philip's race and time still prevails. Every day this year the rest of the world has dumped a cool $3,000,000 of gold upon the United States. Now we have nearly 1,000,000,000 more gold than we had when the war began.

If we had cheap wheat, shoes, overcoats, vegetables, or coal after having added nearly 50 per cent to our gold hoard, we should be obliged to tear up all those fine spun and dusty political economy books we were taught in school.

But the books stand, and rightly so, for the very paper they are printed on has been boosted upward by this colossal wave of gold. When this unmatched crest of yellow metal breaks and recedes after the war—well, we shall follow King Philip and his wampum and pay a smaller amount of it for what we buy.

The Modern Law.

"Look here, sheriff," said the irate householder, "this section is filled with second-story men and sneak-thieves. My house has been robbed five times in the three weeks. Do I get any protection from you, or don't I?"

"I have done all I can for you, Mr. Blickensdorf," returned the weary officer. "I warned you after the second robbery to move out of that house, and it isn't my fault if you continue on there knowing that these burglars are after your stuff."

"There's a Reason"

PENROSE IN GRIEF

PENNSYLVANIAN DISSATISFIED WITH TARIFF COMMISSION.

Possibly Fears Monopolists Will Not Get the Consideration They Have Always Received From the Republican Party.

Senator Penrose is filled with forebodings for the success of the tariff commission appointed by the president. He is afraid it won't take the tariff out of politics—something he has always contended for and which the finance committee of the senate, of which he is a member, always did when it framed the tariff bill. Was there politics in the Payne-Aldrich tariff? Certainly not.

Then, too, Senator Penrose has no hope that the commission will treat the tariff scientifically. Here again it will appear to disadvantage beside the senate finance committee, which always treated the tariff scientifically. When the committee came to the cotton and woolen schedule, for instance, it sent for the textile manufacturers who knew all about it and they came and told the committee what protection they wanted. Could anything be more scientific? Instead of that Senator Penrose now looks to see the commission try to find out the facts for itself—and, of course, get them all wrong. That result, as he sees it, is inevitable, for as he looks over the president's nominee he finds but one member—and he is a free trader!—who can be said to have any scientific and essentially non-political subject. Now, the senator, if he had been naming the board would have named men who did know the subject. They are easy to find—the protected interests would have been glad to submit any number of recommendations.

There is only one ray of hope in the situation which the senator can discern, and that is that when this commission makes a mess of the job the people will turn to the Republican party and its leaders—of which Senator Penrose is one—and with one voice demand a scientific and non-political tariff, such as only the Republican party and its leaders know how to provide.—Kansas City Star.

The Tariff Commission.

The completion by President Wilson of the tariff commission is a matter of great importance to the country. Questions arising out of the European war may make a readjustment of the tariff necessary at any time, and we should be prepared to make these changes promptly and on scientific lines. It would be better if the tariff commission were empowered to readjust rates within certain limits without an appeal to congress, with the consequent possibility of reopening the tariff fight along political lines. We believe it is the sentiment of the country that the tariff shall not again become the football of partisanship, and the president's tariff commission offers the first opportunity to turn the whole question over to experts.

Urges Support of Wilson.

"The loyal support of every true American should be given the president in this critical hour," said Cornelius A. Pugsley, former member of the house and president of the New York State Bankers' association, in an interview at Washington. "No president since Lincoln has been called to meet such momentous problems and responsibilities. All partisanship and selfish interests should be laid aside; sound thinking and cool judgment should prevail. I believe that as never before men and women in all walks of life are thinking upon our great social, economic, governmental and international problems, and when our citizenship thinks soberly our republic is secure."

Republicans Interested.

The one issue that the Republicans have always had ready for use ever since Lincoln has been the protective tariff. Many believe that if the tariff could have been brought into action last fall Mr. Wilson would not have been re-elected. They beat Cleveland with it in 1888 and again in 1896 they routed the Democrats with it and the full-dinner pail. It's an heirloom that they would not like to have stolen, even if its days of usefulness were passed, and they are not willing to admit that it is no longer an issue. The doling of the tariff commission will be watched with the keenest interest by the Republican politicians.

All Should Be on the Job.

Though the country does not particularly enjoy having congress in session, it will recognize the great need for its co-operation with the executive at the present time. It is a time when the whole government should be on the job. The president has decided wisely, and his action will be generally approved.

Subject Familiar to Knox.

Senator Knox "amazed" his Republican colleagues a few days ago, by both voting in the foreign relations committee for the Colombian treaty and afterwards issuing a statement in favor of its ratification. The amazing thing, we suppose, was that a Republican senator could be reasonable and non-partisan on this subject. But Mr. Knox does not approach it for the first time. He himself sought a settlement of it, as had Secretary Hay before him.—New York Evening Post.

IS LAND OF UNTOLD WEALTH

Mountains of the Various Countries of South America Contain Fabulous Fortunes in Minerals.

Fifteen million ounces of silver is one of South America's annual contributions to the world's pocketbook. This would make more than 17,000,000 silver dollars.

Silver to the amount of more than $2,000,000,000 has been mined in the last 300 years from Potosi, the famous "peak of silver" in Bolivia.

The hills of South America are studded with gold. It is found in every state. All this gold and silver could be studded with precious stones from Colombia. Seven hundred thousand carats of them are dug out of her hills annually. Almost all the emeralds in the world come from there.

Our famous copper mines in Michigan, Montana and Arizona are surpassed in richness by those on the west coast of South America.

Enough silver is mined with the copper of one Peruvian mine to pay all the expenses of the mining, of shipping the ore over the mountains and up to North America smelters. It also pays the cost of smelting.

The Bethlehem Steel works in Pennsylvania could be kept busy for 75 years with the iron ore of one of Chile's provinces, Coquimbo.

More tin is mined in Bolivia than anywhere else in the world except the Federated Malay states, and only a few of the mines have yet been opened.

Although South America imports most of her coal, there is enough tucked away in her mountains for ages to come. But there are no rail-ways to bring it out.

Chile's nitrates fertilize the fields of the world and bring her an annual revenue in export duties of more than $15,000,000. The value of the deposits must be reckoned in ten figures.—World Outlook.

When Strength Begins to Go.

A medical authority states that the muscles, in common with all organs of the human body, have their periods of development and decline, our physical strength increasing up to a certain age and then decreasing. Tests of the strength of several thousand individuals have been made, and the following figures are given as the averages derived from such tests—the lifting power of a youth aged seventeen years is 280 pounds; in his twentieth year this increases to 320 pounds; and in the thirtieth and thirty-first year, respectively, it reaches its height, 365 pounds. At the expiration of the thirty-first year the strength begins to decline, very gradually at first. By the fortieth year it has decreased eight pounds, and such diminution continues at a slightly increasing rate until the fiftieth year is reached, when the figure is 330 pounds. Subsequent to this period the strength falls more and more rapidly until the weakness of old age is reached. It is found impossible to obtain trustworthy statistics after the fiftieth year.

Pullman Washrooms.

Pullman washrooms are the only places where it is possible to brush your teeth and comb your hair at the same time you are pulling on your shoes. In the confusion of hastily dressing in a crowded Pullman washroom one very often is exasperated to find that he has spent five minutes lathering someone else's beard. Then again it is startling to discover that you seem to have grown bald over night. And to have the fat man whose head you were brushing dig the soap out of your ear with no gentle thumb. A Pullman washroom is excellent in many ways and if you hold a grudge against a man persuade him to dress and wash with you in the same Pullman washroom. You will find it easy to batter and bruise him horribly, though you may have to take an awful beating yourself. Never cross your legs while seated in a Pullman washroom. You may kick someone in the face.—Detroit Journal.

Why They Like to Dance.

It's funny, but the women are crazier about dancing than the men, says the Acheson Globe. In nearly every home in Atchison, Kan., a civil war is raging. The wife is wild to accept an invitation to a dancing party and the husband says he won't go. But he goes just the same. Bachelors grumble about going, too. But they go. Why do women care so much for dancing? One Atchison woman says: "It's because we look so well in our party clothes." Another woman (married) says: "It's the chance we get to talk to any man except our husbands."

Boiling Eggs in Vinegar.

All albuminous compounds, such as the white of eggs, are quickly acted on by acids. An egg will become as hard by being put into vinegar as if it were boiled. If there is a little vinegar in the water, then, when an egg is to be poached, the acid starts to act on the albumen and hardens it enough for it to keep its shape. This is valuable in serving, because if the water boils too hard it will break up the white of the egg into little flakes and a great deal of it will be lost.

Outgrowing Poetry.

"You never say anything about the American eagle in your speeches." "No," replied Senator Sorghum. "My people out here get tired of that style of oratory. They sent me word that they weren't keeping me in Washington to specialize on ornithology."

His Memory. "Do you remember," she asked when they met after the lapse of years, she having become a widow and he having remained a bachelor, "do you remember that evening long ago, when you and I walked in the gloaming?" "I remember the swamp we walked into, but I don't remember the gloaming," he replied.

Then a loud hope died in her breast and she turned away to make herself agreeable to others. A little salt rubbed on earthenware pudding dishes will take away brown spots.

To Prevent Old Age Coming Too Soon!

"Toxic poisons in the blood are thrown out by the kidneys. The kidneys act as filters for such products. If we wish to prevent old age coming too soon and increase our chances for a long life, we should drink plenty of pure water and take a little Anuric," says the world-famed Dr. Pierce of Buffalo, N. Y. When suffering from backache, frequent or scanty urine, rheumatic pains here or there, or that constant tired, worn-out feeling, the simple way to overcome these disorders is merely to obtain a little Anuric (double strength) from your nearest druggist and you will quickly notice the grand results. You will find it many times more potent than lithia, and that it dissolves uric acid as hot water does sugar.

Canada Offers 160 Acres Free to Farm Hands

Bonus of Western Canada Land to Men Assisting in Maintaining Needed Grain Production

The demand for farm labor in Canada is great. As an inducement to secure the necessary help at once, Canada will give and allow the time of the farm laborer, who has filed on the land, to apply as residence duties, the same as if he actually had lived on it. This special concession is the reduction of one year in the time to complete duties. Two years' residence instead of three as heretofore, but only to men working on the farms for at least six months in 1917. This appeal for farm help is in no way connected with enlistment for military service but solely to increase agricultural output. A wonderful opportunity to secure a farm and draw good wages at the same time. Canadian Government will pay all fare over one cent per mile from St. Paul or Duluth to Canadian destination. Information as to low railway rates may be had on application to
