Cooperation in every department of farm work is practiced, which means a minimum of expenditure and the best results.

One of the heaviest rains of the season passed over the valley Tuesday evening and night, when more than an inch of rain fell. Storm accompanied the rain in some sections, working havoc with wheat fields. Practically every farmer in the valley has grass cut and not in years has the hayging season opened under such unfavorable weather conditions. Rain is the order of the day with no immediate fair weather in sight.

Messrs. F. P. Geary and Harry W. Harper tried their luck in the waters of Penns Creek, below Coburn, which abounds in big trout, on Monday morning, but the looks of their creels on their return home was evidence that it was a "poor day for fishing". They were forced to admit that their fishing companion—Jacob B. Kerstetter—of Coburn, found the "luck" rather good, for besides hooking a number of fair sized trout he also landed another 23-inch speckled beauty of the California species. Of course, this is commonplace with "Jack", for he has become so accustomed to finding the big ones on his line that it doesn't give him the slightest concern, and instead of taking the prize home, he presented it to his friend Geary, who was unfisher-mar-like enough to disclaim the honor of catching it.

Silo Building Materials.

The dairy husbandry department of the Pennsylvania State College is receiving numerous inquiries from farmers of the State concerning the merits of different silo building materials.

Almost all kinds of building materials are used for silo construction. It frequently happens that one particular type of material becomes practically universal in a particular locality, leading to the belief that no other material will successfully preserve silage.

Wood stave silos were among the first to be built above ground. For a number of years they have been advertised and sold in all parts of the country. In some localities farmers will not risk other construction material.

Tests made by the Pennsylvania experiment station to determine the relative value of wood-stave and concrete block silos do not prove one type superior to the other.

New Idea in Flooring.

The floors of a building recently erected in Pennsylvania, where heavy material is to be stored, form an experiment. On a five-inch layer of sawdust has been placed a half-inch covering of red cement. The process was discovered in, and the materials are imported from Greece. It deadens sound and is easier for those who do their work standing.

PLAYS SOLOMON WITH DEER

Judge Unable to Decide Who Shot Buck, So He Has the Animal Halved.

All day a lone deer, a three-pronged buck, was lying in an automobile in front of the new courthouse, awaiting Justice Willis' decision as to who owned the animal. The animal was shot a week ago in the wilds of Jacks mountain, and James F. Kern of Beavertown claims he shot it, and swore out a warrant for the arrest of five men for stealing the deer. Joseph Hummel of New Berlin, one of the men arrested, also claims he shot the deer.

The justice decided that the costs, $35, should be divided equally between the parties, and that the deer should be cut in halves with the hide on.

Meanwhile the Beavertown party took the deer home and the justice sent Constable Specht to bring it back.—Middleburg (Pa.) Dispatch Philadelphia Record.

British Empire's Possessions.

In the Woman's Home Companion Laura Spencer Porter has an article on the traditions of England in which she says:

"This is the most dominant and conquering nation of the world today, governing an empire which possesses something over one-fifth of the known surface of the globe, and more than one-fifth of all its inhabitants, a people whose far-flung battle line projects, we are told, a country fifty-three times the size of France, fifty-two times the size of Germany, three times the size of Europe entire, with three times the vast populations of all the Russias, embracing four continents and ten thousand islands—this, the most dominant nation, this little home island, possessed now of this overwhelming vast empire, was, with its people in their childhood, more conquered, seemingly, than any other people; conquered by the Romans, the Britons, Saxons, the Danes, the Angles, the Jutes, and, finally, the Normans. Conquest after conquest. A strange and one might even think a humiliating childhood. Yet the very contrary, when one looks closer, is true."

Collies a Failure With Cows.

Cows, apparently, cannot be herded on the "moral suasion" plan. A farmer writes to the "Rural New Yorker" complaining that his imported Scotch collie dogs are too gentle with the stock. These dogs, he says, are very bright and intelligent, and would make good stock dogs if they would only bite the cows "enough to make the cows afraid of them." The dogs are probably hereditarily disposed not to bite their charges, collies having been for generations accustomed to herd sheep. Their indisposition to attack the cows ought to go to their credit, as being genuine collie.

Most Produce Tax Receipts.

When the army of Centre county hunters who desire to search for turkeys, cotton tails and other game, this fall, apply at the office of County Treasurer Chambers for a hunter's license, they will find a new proviso tacked to the hunting law.

The new proviso requires that the applicant must show his tax receipt for the last year. If a woman or a minor, no tax receipt will be required. It goes without saying that this arrangement will materially reduce the number of hunters' licenses, but it will at the same time, aid in keeping the taxes paid up and may also be the means of getting the names of the young voters on the registration books.

In adding this trouble to the applicant, the state lawmakers had in view several things, among which was that a man who is unwilling to pay a county tax and school tax, to help keep up the running expenses of the government, is unfit to possess the privileges of a hunter's license.

STATE AGRICULTURAL NOTES.

It is estimated that during the past year 627,350 fleeces were clipped by sheep raisers in this State which is just a slight fraction of a per cent. below last year, while the annual increase for the past ten years has been three per cent.

Farmers are urged by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture to plan for forage crops and build silos in order to keep as many dairy cattle as possible. The milk question and the reduction in dairy cattle is becoming serious in the State.

Wheat is reported as stealing out thin in many sections of the State and the general average indicates a decrease of almost 5,000,000 bushels below last year's crop.

A killed regiment, while on the march through a part of Scotland, halted for a Sunday's rest at one of the remote villages in the Highlands, where some of the braw laddies were billeted on the inhabitants.

One old lady had to find a lodging for two of the soldiers, Sandy and Tam, and she was delighted to know they were going to the kirk in the evening, she herself being unable to go. Her pleasure was increased when one of her guests, who happened to be an accomplished shorthand writer, promised to tell her all the minister said in his sermon, though she had her doubts as to how he would be able to remember it all.

Sandy and Tam came back from church, and the former read the sermon out from his notebook, to the admiration and astonishment of his landlady, who had never heard of shorthand, and had no idea how any one could write as fast as the minister spoke.

When Sandy had finished, and the good lady had expressed her thanks for the privilege of hearing the sermon, she asked him to let her look at the book he had been reading from. She seemed much disappointed, however, because she could make nothing of it.

At length, after a close inspection of the mystic signs, she said to the blushing warrior:

"Ye're a grand laddie and a verra gude reader, but I must tell ye, and if I was your ain mither I wad hae to admit it, ye're the verra wurst writer I ever came across."

MILLHEIM

TUESDAY

HOW the old range does love to heat things up, especially when it's sizzling hot outside! Then, there's always the coal or wood to carry, always that constant raking and poking, pulling this and pushing that, to keep the fire going.

But the ironing must be done. There's no other way to do it, is there? No, not unless you have a New Perfection Oil Cook Stove in your kitchen.

NEW PERFECTION OIL COOK-STOVES

have made thousands of women happy—freed them from the ironing day and the everyday drudgery and overwork you have now.

A Perfection will heat the irons on Tuesdays. And it's always ready to bake, fry, boil or roast at the strike of a match. You'll be particularly interested in the separate oven and the fireless cooker. Your dealer will explain about them. Ask him.

THE ATLANTIC REFINING COMPANY Philadelphia and Pittsburgh

One of the many good points about a Perfection is that it burns the most economical fuel—kerosene. And the best kerosene is Rayolight. It's so highly refined that it burns without smoking, sputtering, smelling or charring the wicks. Look for this sign:
