

152 MEN TO RECEIVE SUMMONSES TODAY FOR PHYSICAL EXAMINATION IN DRAFT CALL

Dr. L. E. Kidder, of Boalsburg, Mace a Member of County Exemption Board, to Take the Place of Vice Dr. Locke, Resigned.

Sheriff G. H. Yarnell, of Centre county, informed the Reporter on Wednesday morning that 152 summonses are all ready filled out for mailing to that number of Centre county men who will be called to appear before the local board for examination for service in the draft army. The board is awaiting the receipt of the official quota from Harrisburg, and while it is reasonably sure that the figures will be around 62, no definite action can be taken before official notice is received. Sheriff Yarnell expected to have this knowledge at almost any time on Wednesday, so it is almost certain the first 152 men drawn in Centre county will receive by mail to day (Thursday) their summonses to appear for examination.

A change in the county exemption board has been made by the appointing of Dr. L. E. Kidder, of Boalsburg, in place of vice Dr. Locke, resigned. Official announcement of this appointment was received from Harrisburg on Wednesday morning. The other two members of the board are Sheriff Yarnell and Commissioner D. A. U. Ove.

Front Jars for Canning.

Women of the home, now is the time to do your bit—Can! Buy your fruit jars now.—H. F. Roseman, Spring Mills, Pa.

With "Business as Usual" State Will Re-open Sept. 12.

Classes in ordnance stores, mechanics of aeroplane, signal service and field hospital work will be added to the curriculum of the Pennsylvania State College this fall to meet the demands of education in war time. Military drill for men in all departments will be continued under regular army officers, just as has been practised for the last fifty years.

With every prospect of a full freshman enrollment, the college has adopted the slogan "Business as Usual," and has called this motto on the gateway of the main entrance to the campus. President Sparks has said that through this method he seeks to strengthen public sentiment throughout the State with regards to the war. The plan to push educational forces vigorously at the State College at this time is in line with the resolutions adopted by the conference of prominent schoolmen held there recently.

Official notification of the date of opening, September 12, is being mailed to all undergraduates although many of them being in various kinds of military service will be unable to respond. In addition to the regular session, a special session will begin August 23 for those who left early to engage in patriotic service.

Spring Mills.

Several of our young men talk of enlisting.

Mrs. Charles Zarby is spending some time with her parents at Howard.

LOCALS

Serve, con-serve and pre-serve are words much heard about these days. All mighty words and full of meaning.

Ralph E. Dinges is back on the railroad section after having spent the past two weeks in the hay and harvest fields.

The mountain huckleberry is having its inning. They are selling at ten cents a quart, and are reported quite plentiful.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Meeker, of Johnstown, are guests of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Meeker, at the Old Fort hotel this week.

Miss Julia Brill, of Bloomsburg, who is taking the teacher's summer course at State College, was the guest of her cousin, Dr. A. G. Lieb, and Mrs. Lieb, on Sunday.

Millheim will hold its annual community picnic in Frank's grove, west of Millheim, some time this month, the date not having been definitely decided upon.

O. to Bailey, of Boston, Massachusetts, was an arrival on Wednesday afternoon for a brief vacation in Centre Hall, where he will visit his brother, Edward E. Bailey, and sister, Miss Freda Bailey.

Mrs. James C. Goodhart, of Centre Hill, was affected by the heat on Sunday night while attending a church in Centre Hall and after reaching the home of her mother-in-law, Mrs. G. L. Goodhart, received medical attention. She was removed to her home the next day, but has not yet fully recovered.

Mrs. Ammon Burkholder, of Phillipsburg, New Jersey, is the guest of her mother, Mrs. Margaret Stroh, for a short vacation. Accompanying her on the trip to Centre county was Martha Geisel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. Wagner Geisel, of Bellefonte. She returned home after a delightful visit of a month or more with her aunt, the Misses Elsie and Verna Geisel, in Philadelphia.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Stahl and two sons, of Altoona, spent a week's vacation at the home of the former's parents, near Centre Hall, returning to their Altoona home on Monday. Mr. Stahl, who for the past seven years has been employed in the Morgan & Luckett meat market, has given up his work there and accepted a position with the Pennsylvania Railroad company, in their Altoona shops, where he will have charge of an automatic machine.

Twenty members of the Clover Leaf Club, of Centre Hall, motored in four cars to Millheim on Friday afternoon and took supper at the Allison hotel. The trip was an enjoyable one. Luther Peters and family, Wayne Rishel, and family, motored to the home of Mrs. Dan Corman, at Spring Mills, Sunday.

DEATHS

Peter Shires passed away at his home in Millheim at one o'clock Tuesday morning, after an illness of ten days. A hemorrhage of the brain resulted in a paralytic stroke which affected his throat so that speech for the past week was impossible. For that length of time he was also practically unconscious.

Mr. Shires was born at Warriors Mark sixty-three years, four months and eight days ago, and when quite young moved with his parents to Pottery Mills where the family lived for some time. He had been a resident of Millheim for many years where he was engaged in the draying business. He was held in high esteem and respected by all who knew him.

Surviving him is his wife, nee Ellen Wallizer, and one son, Harry, of Philadelphia. Also three brothers and one sister: Michael Shires, of Scranton; Emory Shires, a twin brother, of Roaring Springs; James Shires, of Johnstown, and Mrs. Charles Bollinger, of Altoona.

Funeral services will be held at the home on Friday morning; burial at Millheim.

As a result of a stroke of paralysis suffered while at his work in the Standard Steel plant at Burnham, William Wilson Worrall, of Milroy, and a former resident of Centre Hall, died in the Lewistown hospital Wednesday, July 18, in the fifty-eighth year of his age.

Deceased was a member of the Lutheran church. He is survived by a wife, five children, two brothers and six sisters.

Funeral services were held in Milroy Saturday afternoon at 2 p. m., interment in Woodlawn cemetery.

DIXON'S HEALTH TALK.

"Tuberculosis and Proper Nourishment" Discussed by State Health Commissioner This Week.

While tuberculosis is caused by a well-known germ, we often have a right to be suspicious of its coming from want of proper nourishment. This would seem to be a forerunner of the true disease of tuberculosis.

This want of nourishment is to be accounted for in several ways. The digestive system may be naturally weak, that is, born weak; it may have been strong in early life but abused by the use of alcohol, eating rapidly when physically or mentally tired or by gulping food without proper chewing or mastication.

A plunge bath just after eating will often arrest digestion. The drinking of ice water during a meal, or iced tea or coffee, will reduce the temperature of the stomach so that the natural process of digestion is interfered with. As a result the food is not properly prepared for the organs to absorb it. Therefore, it is not taken up by the blood stream as it travels through the system of arteries to build up the different tissues of the body.

The increase of tuberculosis of late in Belgium, in France, and other warring countries is largely due to the want of things that nature demands for building up healthy bodies. We must have some nitrogen in the form of meat or eggs or beans. We must have some starch. Otherwise the body will be partly starved and germs will thrive in the different tissues. This occurs more often in the lungs than anywhere else, but there is hardly an organ in the body that will not, under certain conditions, become tuberculous.

It is to be hoped that here in America where we have such a variety of climates and of soil we will be able to keep up a general food supply and shall not be restricted in any of those things which Nature requires. They will reduce our power to produce foodstuffs, munitions of war, and all of those things that are essential for our living.

One great drawback in fighting the battle against tuberculosis is that it is not recognized early enough for us to combat it successfully. The State Health Department of Pennsylvania is examining about ten thousand people a day for this disease and finds many cases that are sent to our Dispensaries too late for us to guarantee a cure. Yet we may, even in some of those cases, arrest the disease and discharge a patient with enough good lung tissue left to enable him to lead a comfortable and useful life.

The recognition of tuberculosis requires a special medical training. Here in Pennsylvania we have tuberculous cases finding their way into Federal service through various paths. This is because we are confronted with a great necessity to form an army and navy in a short space of time and those responsible for this onerous work are unable to get special training in diagnosing this widespread disease.

We who are unable to go to the front because of being too young, or too old, or physically defective, will have to take the responsibility of keeping up the home conditions. We must see that foodstuffs are produced for all, not only at home but for the faithful and brave who have gone to the front to risk their lives for the continued freedom of America.

Those about to be drafted have a duty too. They must make it a rule never to try to deceive the Federal forces engaged in forming the army and navy. When they come before them for medical examination they must be absolutely honest. They must not tell part of the truth but the whole truth. Thus they will assist the examiners in their great, important and necessarily hurried scientific work.

Orpha Fleisher returned home Sunday after spending two weeks at the D. S. Wert home at Aaronsburg.

On Sunday quite a number of friends and relatives gathered at the T. J. Fieleser home and gave them a little surprise. It also being the twenty-ninth birthday of their daughter, Mrs. D. C. Fohringer. The day was spent in a social manner and at noon the table was spread out in the orchard underneath the trees and most every thing that could be wished for was there. The viands were all prepared by the daughters that were present. Those who partook of the splendid dinner were Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Wert, Mrs. Myrtle Copenhaver, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. McClellan, Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Fohringer, Rev. and Mrs. A. J. Horner, Orpha Fleisher, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Fieleser, Dorothy, Pauline, Frances, Glen, Odell, Beulah Fohringer, Madeline and Donald W. F. Amelia Copenhaver, Mrs. Beesie, H. S. Franklin, Stanley, Eugene and Dean McClellan, Ray and Roy Smith.

ONE WAY TO COLLECT BILL

Surgeon Makes Wealthy Man Pay for the Burial of Brother Who Died in Arizona.

An embalming incident occurred in Arizona in 1893 when the Chicago exposition was in full blast. Billy, a beloved but impetuous citizen, passed in his checks. Doctor Biford, an old army surgeon, attended him in his last illness, and afterwards embalmed the body, placed it in a metallic casket, and made ready to ship it to John, a wealthy brother of the deceased, who lived in Chicago. But the railroad company refused to receive the casket unless the freight was prepaid. The doctor telegraphed to the Chicago brother, who replied, refusing to remit.

Thereupon the resourceful physician had the front of the casket painted and inscribed: "In this casket reposes Billy. His brother John, who lives in Chicago, withheld on the embalming bill and cost of transportation. Whereupon this casket with its contents has been sent to the Chicago exposition to be placed on exhibition in the department of curios. In order to pay the cost of embalming and transportation, this cabinet and remains will be raffled for. Five hundred tickets at 50 cents a ticket. Buy a chance. The winner can start a dime museum with Billy." Doctor Biford had a photograph taken of the casket and sent it to Brother John, and Brother John paid up and ordered his brother to be decently buried at Tucson.

Bad Habit.

Don't call the children kids. A kid is a goat and, while goats are all right in their way, children are better. The dictionary says "kid" applied to a child is slang. And so it is. It depreciates the child. There is no sense in taking away the dignity of a child by calling him an animal, says the Columbus (O.) State Journal. We must keep up the human relation, where respect, sympathy, love dwell. The older people may overlook the false appellation, but it stays with the child and makes him feel, after all, that he is only a little goat, and that his fond delight is in eating old rags and paper boxes. Really, the child is an angel, rather than a goat, and is entitled to the sweet considerations that belong to a human being; and if he does not get these it is very likely he will be a sort of goat all his life. So drop the "kid" vocabulary and give the child every chance to be a true human.

The Squirrel Dog.

There is no accounting for that uncanny faculty that enables a homely, long-legged, sad-eyed pup to go unerring to a lofty oak tree in whose higher branches a bit of animated brown fur is secreted. Another dog of the same or more prepossessing appearance and of a better breed might trot unconcernedly past that same oak tree without so much as a casual sniff. But not so with the real "squirrel dog." He'd pick out the right tree in the densest grove a hunter ever penetrated. And if that squirrel started leaping from tree to tree, that dog would follow it over a square mile of timber.

Wasted Words.

"What do you do when your wife asks you for money?"
"I deliver a lecture on the high cost of living, the folly of extravagance and my limited income."
"What does she do?"
"She hums a little tune."
"Then what happens?"
"I hand her a check for the desired amount."

Orange Popular in Tropics.

In the tropics the orange is even more appreciated than farther north because of its wonderful thirst-quenching qualities, and the eating of it is a more highly developed art. In the Porto Rican cities oranges are sold on the streets by push-cart merchants for a cent apiece. The vendor deftly peels each orange with a sharp knife in such a way that the outer yellow skin is removed and a thin white coating of uniform thickness remains, with a small hole at the top. So treated, the orange may be sucked to the last drop without the least danger that it will break and soil the fingers; but it takes a genuine artist to peel the fruit in the right way.

FEAR "TABOO" IS CONTAGIOUS

So Eddystone Islanders Ascribe Their Ills to the Charm—How "Cure" Is Made.

Many interesting facts with regard to the practice of leechcraft and surgery, the imposition and removal of taboo, and the belief in the infliction and cure of disease by rites among the natives of Melanesia were related recently by Dr. W. H. R. Rivers in the second Fitzpatrick lecture at the Royal College of Physicians, says the London Times.

In Eddystone islands, where Doctor Rivers spent several months some years ago, nearly every disease is ascribed to the infraction of a taboo on the fruit of certain trees, especially the coconut and betel vine, the taboo as well as the sign by which it is known being called kenjo.

When anyone suffers from epilepsy or other convulsive seizure which is recognized as kirenghe he and his friends consult one known to have the power of imposing the kenjo kirenghe. This man visits the patient and strokes him from the head downwards with four leaves called myou, some moss, soot, and scrapings of wood, uttering the formula: "Stroke away. Stroke down and away. Cease thou. Let the man live; do not return. They have given me a good ring." The last clause of this formula and two in that used in removing the taboo refer to the fee, the chief money of the island consisting of arm rings.

Turtle Fishing Chief Industry.

Grand Cayman is one of the out-of-the-way islands of the West Indies, a small and isolated outpost of the British empire. It is the island nearest to the Central American coast among those of any size. As a result of this proximity, the leading industries of the island are turtle fishing and coconut shipping, both of which products come from the Mosquito coast of Honduras and Nicaragua. Grand Cayman is a base of operations, a half-way station in the trade. The island has an atmosphere of prosperous leisure, because all this work is done away from the island.
