The Williams reunion is billed for Saturday, 25th instant.

Farmers say the oat heads are well filled with fully developed grains.

Don't begrudge the farmer the prosperity he is now enjoying; he is entitled to it.

The automobile is furnishing an unusually large per cent. of present day news in local papers.

Millheim authorities have again instructed the borough constable to enforce the speed ordinance.

A big baby girl arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Burkholder, at Centre Hill, Wednesday last week.

John M. Wiser, one of Potter township's bustling young farmers, was a business caller at this office on Tuesday.

Joseph Emerick and wife stopped in Centre Hall for an hour one day this week. Mr. Emerick is one of the jury commissioners and is a candidate for re-election.

The school children are counting the remaining vacation days. There are only seven of them left. The opening of the borough schools is scheduled for August 27th.

Electric wires have been run from the main line through Centre Hall to the borough reservoir to furnish power to operate the electric motor that will be installed in connection with the pumping outfit.

The youth in Rebersburg who used a lighted lantern to see how much gasoline was in "Liz's" tank will not do so again, although not injured. The fumes from the gasoline exploded, doing considerable damage to the car.

The latter part of last week, H. G. Strohmeier went to Philadelphia to attend a convention of manufacturers of monuments and granite workers.

Besides the convention, there was a display of material and finished work. With a view of "safety first," the under brush on the south side of the mountain road at one of the sharpest curves has been removed.

The result is a decided improvement in appearance as well as the accomplishment of the chief aim—safety.

Edward E. Bailey accompanied his brother, Otto Bailey, to Philadelphia, last Thursday, from which place the latter departed on Sunday for his home in Boston, Massachusetts.

The former spent the week-end at Atlantic City and was joined by Bruce Rowe, of Philadelphia.

The Grange Encampment and Fair management were greatly concerned over what action the Pennsy might take in the matter of furnishing extra trains during Fair week, but were finally relieved when they received a promise that the same service rendered heretofore would be again extended for this year.

Not in many years has the corn crop throughout the valley looked so promising as it does today. This is gratifying for several reasons—first, its great need; and second, its great value in dollars to the grower.

Barring all extraordinary unforeseen conditions, the crop is about completed since the rain during the middle of last week.

A peculiar condition as to salaries of school teachers was brought about in the borough by the operation of the new minimum salary law.

Under the contracts previously in force, the teacher who got the least salary now gets the most. Of course, the High school principal is not included in this change about of highest and lowest salaried teachers.

Commissioner Grove's car, driven by his son, collided with a telephone pole below Penn Hall, one day last week, on the return trip from a horse sale.

The car first struck an electric light pole lying along the road. Both the car and telephone pole were injured to a considerable extent, yet the car was able to go on to Bellefonte under its own power, but the pole could not raise itself from the ground.

The state road between the borough line and Old Fort hotel is receiving much favorable comment, and this leads the Reporter to say that Mr. Carson is deserving much praise for the performance of this piece of work.

The section of road in question for many years has been in such horrible condition that one can now scarcely realize himself to be on the same road when passing along the Fort woods.

The Ford Motor Company is re-arranging its sales agencies throughout Pennsylvania. In Centre county the agency has been offered to the Snyder, at State College, who if the offer is accepted, will have exclusive control of the whole county.

The firm accepting the agency in this county must give a bond for the sale of five hundred machines within a year from August first. All firms will be privileged to sell Ford accessories.

The Lutheran picnic last Wednesday was attended by an auto car party from Philipsburg, among whom was a brother of Prof. Stauffer, instructor of the Loysville band.

From here the party went to Penns Cave to see the wonders of the cavern. The Philipsburg people were Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Stauffer and daughter Lois, Mr. Hess and sisters. The former is a shirt and overall manufacturer and the latter gentleman a traveling salesman for the Pratt Food Company.

LOCALS.

A. N. Finkle, of Spring Mills, was a business caller at this office on Tuesday.

The Vonada property, east of Centre Hall, is offered at private sale by Cyrus Brungart.

Frank Young, who has been employed in the Lewistown district, was in town over Sunday.

Oliver Funk is having a concrete walk built to the front of his house on East Church street.

John Burkholder, at Centre Hill, lost a fine black horse beginning of the week as a result of colic.

"Danger, Run Slow" signs have been erected within the borough limits at three points.

Samuel Horner, a south side farmer, was in town on Friday and made a business call at this office.

Tents are being erected on Grange Park this week for the coming Encampment and Fair, September 8 to 14.

The Atlantic City Sunday excursions have all been called off, owing, the Pennsy says, to lack of equipment.

On top of Nittany mountain is a bit of work for some humane society; six or eight puppies and their mother are nestled there.

Mrs. C. W. Swartz, of Tusseyville, Tuesday morning went to Syracuse, N. Y., where she will visit relatives for a week or more.

Monday morning teams began hauling crushed stone to cover the portion of road at the school house, pliked several months ago.

Misses Emma and Blanche Rowe, of Boalsburg, were guests of their cousins, the Misses Isabel, Verna and Ethel Rowe, over Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Rupp and daughter, on their way home to State College from Berwick, stopped over night on Monday at the A. P. Krape home.

Two State "coops" sped through town on Tuesday afternoon and took hold of a pair of soldier lads at Centre Hill, while on their way to Mifflin county under the influence of liquor.

G. O. Benner, proprietor of the Star store, left on Tuesday afternoon for a ten-days' vacation to points in the east, including Harrisburg, Gettysburg, Allentown, Philadelphia, and Atlantic City.

Miss Madaline Spayd went to Hubersburg the beginning of the week for a stay of a week. Miss Spayd is a Junior at Penn State and at the opening of the school in September will resume her studies at that institution.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred R. Lee, of Linden Hall, were callers at this office on Wednesday. Mr. Lee some time ago purchased the Campbell farm. He came to Centre Hall to attend the Smetzler golden wedding celebration.

Miss Helen Bartholomew took her niece, Elizabeth Bartholomew, to Philadelphia on Monday where they will remain until the close of the week. The little girl was taken to a specialist for treatment for her eyes.

Various members of the State constabulary visit Centre Hall every day or two. Of course, they do little or no business here, the most accomplished being the giving of orders to individual parties to fully expose their auto license tags.

P. G. Yearick, who has been spending the past month with his sister, Mrs. W. B. Mingle, in Centre Hall, will leave for his home in Philadelphia this (Thursday) morning. Mr. Yearick's vacation has been shortened two weeks owing to work that requires his immediate attention.

Two Centre county men in training at the officers' training camp at Fort Niagara have won commissions, dating from August 15th. They are John C. Lawrence, of State College, second lieutenant in cavalry section of regular army, and W. R. Mease, of Pine Grove Mills, second lieutenant in infantry section.

Earl E. Vonada, son of David Vonada, of Penns Cave, filed papers in Williamsport for admission to the Navy, and Wednesday went to that city for final examination. The young man is a minor and appeared before the local postmaster to have the proper papers filled out. Mr. Vonada puts another Penns Valley youth on the high roll of honor.

Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Emerick, of Fleming, were guests of the former's brother, M. L. Emerick, in Centre Hall, for several days last week. Mr. Emerick is a day watchman at one of the Peasny bridges on the Bald Eagle road and consequently was obliged to make his visit here shorter than might have been had he been at liberty to stay as long as he liked.

Messrs. Edward, Harry and Max Harshbarger, of Altoona, drove to Pottery Mills on Sunday to visit their father and returned in the evening. The first two are engaged in retailing milk in Altoona, and are making a decided success in the business. At Bellefonte they stopped with a brother, William, who is also successfully engaged in the poultry business.

DEATHS.

William Grenoble died at his home in Pleasant Gap on Saturday morning at ten o'clock, as a result of apoplexy, aged seventy-two years, eleven months and ten days. He held the office of postmaster for many years in Pleasant Gap. Deceased was also a Civil War veteran, and served in the Union cause as a member of Company F, 56th Regiment.

Funeral services were held at his late home on Monday morning and burial made at Pleasant Gap, Rev. McKechnie officiating. His wife and five children survive.

Clair Seibert, of Bellefonte, who for the past six weeks made regular visits to the office of Dr. H. H. Longwell, in Centre Hall, where he received treatment for diabetes, died at his home on Tuesday noon. He was making splendid progress under the care of the local physician when complications developed a few days ago, resulting in his death. He was aged twenty-seven years.

Linden Hall

Dr. and Mrs. Gerhart, of Stroudsburg, motored to this place Sunday. J. H. Ross and family with a party of friends spent Sunday at Penns Cave.
