HOOVER'S LATEST PLEA TO FARMERS: "HOGS, MORE HOGS AND STILL MORE HOGS"

Deficiency in Fats Now More Serious War Factor Than Bread Grain Situation—Tells Public Safety Men Pennsylvania Has the Best Organization in the Country.

To the assembled representatives of the county organizations of the Committee of Public Safety for the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in session at Philadelphia, Herbert C. Hoover, Federal Food Administrator, gave his latest and most important message to the people and more particularly the farmers of the United States.

"Hogs, more hogs, and still more hogs," is the slogan of his new appeal.

Mr. Hoover's address came in the midst of a food supply conference, arranged by Howard Heinz, chairman of the Department of Food Supply. The attendance of Public Safety Committee chairmen, food supply representatives, and executive secretaries numbered about 250 and came from practically every county in the state.

Governor Brumbaugh, Lieutenant Governor McClain, Auditor General Snyder, George Wharton Pepper, E. T. Stotesbury, and many other men of prominence heard Mr. Hoover join in the assertion that in point of organization and accomplishments Pennsylvania's Safety Committee had proved to be the most efficient in the United States.

A striking analysis of the food situation was presented by Mr. Heinz, who, in his capacity as Federal Food Administrator for Pennsylvania, has a prominent part in the shaping of national food programs.

Mr. Heinz pictured the world meat supply as being short 115,000,000 meat animals, with a shortage of 7,000,000 meat animals in this country alone.

Conservation and production are the problems to which Mr. Hoover gave special emphasis. He said: "Early in the month of June, when I was asked to undertake this particular task, I and the men whom I assembled around me at the moment made a short survey of the situation."

"Our first and most important problem is production. Production and conservation are both impelled by the same cause, by the same food shortage."

"The problem of animals is one that becomes a problem of practical importance to us this very day in the United States. Europe with a shortage of fodder and a shortage of imports has first cut her fodder imports rather than her bread grains. The result has been the ruthless killing of animals and out of that has arisen an annual reduction in their animal products."

"It means from the fat point of view that we must increase our fat imports into Europe. We may diminish our meat imports for the moment; but when the war is over we will have a call upon us or upon our farmers for enormously increased animal production."

"Therefore, we must turn the face of our agriculture—we must turn the face of our farmers from the production of bread grains to the production of animals. This becomes not only a problem for the future for the nation, but it also becomes an immediate problem, and our immediate problem is acute."

"During the last year, we have slaughtered in hogs alone a large percentage of the hog population. In other words, whereas we annually slaughter something like 60 per cent of our total hog population, this year we have slaughtered over 100 per cent. If we take the three pre-war years as 100, we can see that during the last twelve months we have slaughtered 179 hogs, we have exported 215."

"This means but one thing. It means that as we have increased our exports of animal products, largely pork products, from 550,000,000 pounds pre-war average to a 1,500,000,000 pounds in the last twelve months, that we have over-exported the capacity of this country."

"Today, about 60 per cent of the normal arrival of hogs is reaching the markets in this country, and we are faced with a shortage in fats, and we are faced with a shortage at the very moment when we must be increasing our exports to our allies."

"We are facing a large feed crop this year—a crop, in fact, as we calculate it, twenty-five per cent greater than the animals we have to eat it. We will, therefore, have a fairly low range of prices for food stuff, and we will with this situation have a high range of prices in animals. Therefore, it must be in the immediate interest of the farmers of this country to raise hogs, more hogs, and still more hogs."

ALLIES CANNOT WIN WITHOUT OUR AID

God-Given Opportunity For Service Here, George Wharton Pepper Tells Safety Committee Men.

Addressing the county representatives at the opening of the Public Safety conference in Philadelphia, George Wharton Pepper, chairman of the state committee, made a stirring appeal for efficient effort in every district.

"The efficiency of the work that we are going to do for the cause of Public Safety in this commonwealth is going to depend almost entirely upon the appraisal which we as individuals make of the seriousness of the situation in which our country finds itself at the present time."

"If a man believes that this war will be over in ninety days, and believes that it is going to end without serious inconvenience on our part; or, if not that, that at least at the first approach of a crisis he will guard the kaiser is going to state his readiness to come down; if that is the state of mind of a man, I am quite sure that to him the Committee of Public Safety is a quite unnecessary organization."

"There are many of us, I know, who wish to God that we could exchange our chairmanships and secretarieships for the more active service on the line; but if we can't, if they won't have us on any terms, at least let us constitute ourselves an effective support to those that do go to the front, and by the guardians and custodians of the hedges that will be waiting for them when they come back."

"If we, my friends, of the Committee of Public Safety of the commonwealth of Pennsylvania and its affiliated organizations through the state—if we do not busy ourselves with the effective organization of this commonwealth so that we may adequately support the lads that go, and preserve the homes for those of them that will come back, then we do not deserve to be called Americans and we are not fit to be the representative of the Keystone state."

Buy All-Wool Clothes

Hart Schaffner & Marx Clothes are Absolutely Guaranteed to Satisfy You.

At a time when every dollar you spend ought to be looked at twice before you part with it, just remember that you ought to look more than twice at what you're going to get for it.

Hart Schaffner & Marx have based their whole business on the belief that all-wool is best for men's and young men's clothing; that cotton mixtures, though somewhat cheaper, are not economy.

They have maintained a strict all-wool standard in spite of steadily increasing costs of wool, in the face of the clamor for cheaper clothes. We know that the men and young men of America share this belief that all-wool is best; is real economy.

Good clothes, like everything else, cost more than they formerly cost, but if all-wool is cheapest in the long run, you ought to have it. It means more style, more service, more satisfaction. It's worth the price.

In spite of the war the weavers in England, Scotland, Ireland and America have supplied the wool goods for these clothes.

We believe we are upholding and strengthening the call for economy in offering these all-wool clothes, with an unlimited guarantee of satisfaction.

The Hart Schaffner & Marx label in a garment is the sign of an all-wool and an absolute guaranty of satisfaction; a small thing to look for, a big thing to find.
