

Our boys are defending this country on the high seas and on the land. Our own defense against a common enemy is to keep the system clean by ridding the body of the toxins, or poisons, which are bred in the intestines. When you feel tired, sleepy, headachy, when your breath is offensive, or pimples appear on the face and neck, it is time to recognize the danger and protect your bodily health by taking something for the liver such as Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.

The machinery of the body needs to be oiled, kept in good condition, just as the guns or machinery of a ship. Why should a human person neglect his own machinery more than that of his automobile or his guns? Yet most people do neglect themselves. Their tongue has a dark brown color, skin sallow, breath bad, yet they fail to see that their machinery needs attention.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets have been known for nearly half a century. They are made of May-apple, leaves of aloe and jalap, made into a tiny pellet and coated with sugar. They are standard and efficacious. You can obtain them at any drug store in vials for twenty-five cents. Ask for Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets-and get no other!

It was his brother. That made the great difference. Often he had read of tragedies and passed them by. But Barney-the bright lad, upon whom he had lavished every care, for whom he had made a life sacrifice-Barney, to die there in the Canadian wood where both had been happy together, and to die by his own volition! The disgrace which went before seemed naught in comparison with this bitter finale. It would be a simple matter to replace the money which Barney had dishonestly confiscated for his own use. Barney might have known that he, Dave, would forgive the forging of his name. Despondency alone could have driven the youth to the desperation of that last deed. The woman was to blame, of course. Dave was sure of that. How openly Barney had prated of his love for her. It had been to gain her favor that the man had taken sums which could not be replaced. This last scribbled note told how all costly gifts had been returned. "She don't want me," Barney ended, pathetically-"and never did. There's some unconscious charm about ber that draws every man-guess it's in

The note had been in Barney's pocket; they brought that and his watch to Dave from the rock beside the whirlpool. "Good-by," it ended. "I'm going to drown myself here."

Barney had always been impulsive, so Dave excused various escapades of the past. To bring his young brother safely through these adventures had been Dave's part. Perhaps a parent might have acted more wisely. Dave didn't know; he had done his best. A desire possessed him to visit that lonely spot where he might come upon news of his brother's last days-so David went. The violets were purpling the hillsides, the well-remembered wood was fragrant with promise, the waters hissed in the whirlpool from which the big man turned with a shudder. Near by was the boulder where they used to sit smoking their pipes. Dave's eyes widened in surprise. A young woman sat there now-a beautiful woman, alone in all the solitude. Her bronze golden head was bent above some gray knitting, and without apparent embarrassment she raised clear gray eyes regarding the man before her, then her needles again clicked methodically. But with that stendy gaze enchantment came over Dave. Some influence, he knew not what, was persuading him to confide which he had borne in silence-to Soap 25, Ointment 25 and 50,-Adv. learn if she of the wise eye considered his indulgence and not Barney's recklessness to blame. evidently considering him a detective. "There was nothing that she knew but what had been told."

Dave decided to stay for a time in the spot which held him in hopeful fascination. As days went by he might learn more; some further message might be found. He obtained board at the oldtime stopping place and every morning, when he made his way to the boulder, he found the girl there before him. She made no excuse for her presence, nor changed her favorite place because of his invasion. Dave leaned back upon a mound of pine needles, talking slowly, and as he had never talked before, of his life with Barney, the boy's college days, his first venture into business. The girl, folding her knitting, would listen with thoughtful eyes upon him. The eyes stirred David's honest heart with an unaccountable longing. He knew that true love had found him at last, and winced at the pain of renunciation.

The girl's face grew white at the story of his love, and she did what no one but this girl could have doneshe bent very swiftly and kissed him. Then she was gone. When David came next morning to the boulder a piece of white paper fluttered beneath a weighted stone. Picking it up, he read one written line:

"I." said the note, "am the girl your brother loved." That was all. David's throat smarted-his eyes burned. It was inconceivable. She and that heartless trifler the same! He must go away at once. But David did not go. The girl stood before him

-her eyes again held his. "I could not help his loving me," she said slowly. "I-did not wish it. The gifts he would bring I returned." Suddenly her breath caught in a choking sob. She held out her arms. But David stood resolutely from her.

"I believe you," he answered firmly. "I love you; but with that thought between us"-he pointed to the feaming whirlpool-"we could never know hap-

Then before them stood Barney-Barney, not an apparition, but in the flesh and smiling. "Take her Dave," he said softly. "She's been waiting for a man like you, and no other could be good enough for her. Playing suicide was my dodge to get away. Guess she knew I'd come back, and has been waiting 'round to send me to you. I'm going to try for service-perhaps the army can make a man of me. Good-

Win the War by Preparing the Land Sowing the Seed and Producing Bigger Crops

Work in Joint Effort the Soil of the United States and Canada CO-OPERATIVE FARMING IN MAN POWER NECESSARY TO WIN THE BATTLE FOR LIEERTY

The Food Controllers of the United States and Canada are asking for greater food production. Scarcely 100,000,000 bushels of wheat are available to be sent to the allies overseas before the crop harvest. Upon the efforts of the United States and Canada rests the burden of supply.

Every Available Tillable Acre Must Contribute; Every Available Farmer and Farm Hand Must Assist

Western Canada has an enormous acreage to be seeded, but man power is short, and an appeal to the United States allies is for more men for seed-

Canada's Wheat Production Last Year was 225,000,000 Bushels; the Demand From Canada Alone for 1918 is 400,000,000 Bushels

To secure this she must have assistance. She has the land but needs the men. The Government of the United States wants every man who can effectively help, to do farm work this year. It wants the land in the United States developed first of course; but it also wants to help Canada. Whenever we find a man we can spare to Canada's fields after ours are supplied, we want to direct him there. Apply to our Employment Service, and we will tell you where you cars best serve the combined interests.

Western Canada's help will be required not later than April 5th. Wages to competent help, $50.00 a month and up, board and lodging.

Those who respond to this appeal will get a warm welcome, good wages, good board and find comfortable homes. They will get a rate of one cent a mile from Canadian boundary points to destination and return.
