Centre County on W. S. S. Sale.

The report of the National War Savings campaign, so far as it relates to Centre county, for the week ending May 25th, shows that we have a per capita for the week of 76 cents being the largest amount for any week during the entire period, and making our total per capita $5.09. We have reached eighth place in the list of counties in the eastern district of Pennsylvania.

It will be necessary, however, for every man, woman and child interested in this war, to make desperate and determined effort to purchase weekly as many War Savings Stamps as possible until Centre county shall have reached the limit of our quota ($875,200). We now have to our credit, on this entire campaign, $223,290.

A little later, arrangements, which are being formulated at Washington, will be submitted in detail to the people of our county, and we want to put forth our best efforts to GO OVER THE TOP on that day. The President of the United States and the Governor of Pennsylvania, will issue, in due time, a proclamation, declaring June 28th as the National Pledge Day. Every section of our entire Nation will on that day do its best to obtain the several quotas allotted, not only to the States, but to the counties, boroughs and townships of the States.

A meeting of all of the District Chairmen of Centre County, and Solicitors for Pledge Day, will be called for Bellefonte, on or about the 10th day of June, notice of which meeting will be sent to the district chairmen and solicitors on or about the 7th instant.

FACTS ABOUT THE ECLIPSE.

Solar Events of June 8th is Scientifically Explained.

On June 8 there will be an eclipse of the sun. In the afternoon the moon will pass between the earth and the sun, and will cast its shadow over the greater part of North America. The sun will appear partly eclipsed in every portion of the United States, but only in a narrow zone, from Puget Sound to northern Florida, will it be total.

The center of the moon's shadow will be a black spot which will sweep across the earth's surface from west to east at a velocity of 3,000 miles per hour, and as it passes over a given place the sun will be completely hidden, the sky will be black and the stars will become visible.

A total eclipse of the sun is the most awe-inspiring of all celestial phenomena. About ten minutes before darkness begins the sunlight changes from its usual brightness to a lurid copper hue, the air grows cooler, and the birds go to nest. The moon's shadow appears on the western horizon like a heavy thunder storm, advancing with the speed of a cannon ball. This thin crescent of the sun becomes narrower and narrower, and as it disappears the rosy flames about the sun flash into view and the magnificent solar corona appears.

The corona is the most wonderful and the most mysterious of all heavenly objects. It surrounds the sun above the atmosphere proper, often lying in streams and rays of fantastic shapes. It contains a green gas, coronium, which is not found on earth, and can only be seen at times of total eclipse. Coronium is thought to be related to hydrogen gas, but so light that it cannot stay on earth. Some of the streamers are like cathode rays and some like comets' tails, and they may have a profound influence upon the weather and the magnetism of the earth.

The path of the eclipse will pass over Denver. Astronomers from all over the world will journey to Colorado to see it.

The sun and moon appear to be almost the same size in the sky. When an eclipse occurs at the time of the moon's greatest distance from the earth, its disc is not large enough to cover the sun, and a ring or annular eclipse results.

In 1914 such an eclipse swept over Europe. The margin of the annulus was so narrow that as it passed over the curve of France it actually became total for a few seconds. French school children under the direction of the government were stationed every few feet along the path of its totality and then questioned as to whether they saw red flames and the corona or only the bright ring. By this means it was determined that the edge of the moon's shadow is as sharp as that of a piece of paper.

State Tractors at Farmers' Service.

Thirty-five farm tractors of seven different makes are now at the service of the farmers of the state through the efforts of the Commission of Public Safety and Defense of the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

The tractors, each operated by one man, are situated in Dauphin, Huntingdon, Blair, Millin, Columbia, Erie, Crawford, Montgomery, Bucks, Delaware, Mercer, Lehigh, Northampton, Washington, Bradford, Lawrence, Venango, Potter, Tioga, Allegheny, Butler and Wyoming counties.

In each of these counties tractor units have been formed which provide at least 100 acres of work within a small radius. The tractors have been the means of helping farmers to overcome the labor shortage in many communities, but deliveries and transportation difficulties have delayed the spring drive in several sections.
