Had Her Choice.

The daughter of the family was very proud of her white shoes, but the only trouble was that white shoes nowadays don't stay white long. So the daughter was constantly buying shoe polish, and white shoe polish and cleaner, being in demand, was very high-priced. The situation was getting rather critical when the daughter's birthday came along.

"Daughter," said her father at the breakfast table that morning, "these are war times, but I'll try to give you a present this year as usual. You can either continue to have white shoes, or you can continue taking music lessons. But both of them will break me up."

Bull Fight Rioters Unhappy.

A man just back from Mexico tells me there are some all-fired unhappy gentlemen in that city. They are the rioters at the bull fights. In happier days these enthusiasts used to sit in the bleachers and when they didn't like the performance would pull up the seats and throw them at the matadors and picadors as the case might be, just as the ball fans shied pop bottles at the umpire when they didn't like his decisions. But now they have a new plaza and the bleachers are built of concrete, so the rioters have to take it out in yammering.

SQUABS TO HELP SUPPLY OF MEAT

Pigeons Produce Rapidly and Can Be Made to Add Substantially to Food Stock.

FLY IS IDEAL ARRANGEMENT

Good Pair of Breeders Will Raise Six or Seven Pairs in Year—Confine Flock to Prevent Any Serious Damage.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

For food purposes pigeons are usually classed with poultry. Culturally they are in a class by themselves, producing meat only, producing it very quickly, and able to produce well under conditions that do not admit of growing any other creature used for food.

While the ideal arrangement for pigeons is to have their house on the ground, and a small covered yard, called a "fly" connecting with it, pigeon keeping may be carried on quite extensively in upper rooms, or lofts, with or without open air fly. Many flocks of pigeons are kept in large cities in quarters provided for them in the lofts or on the roofs of buildings used for mercantile and manufacturing purposes.

Space for Breeding.

A space six feet square, and high enough for the attendant to stand erect, will accommodate eight to ten pairs of pigeons for squire breeding. The birds mate and begin breeding when six to seven months old. Two eggs are laid by the hen. Then the male shares with her the duty of incubation. The young hatch in about seventeen days. At four weeks old average good squabs will weigh about three-quarters of a pound each. Some of the larger ones will weigh over a pound at that age.

A good pair of breeders will produce six or seven or more pairs of squabs a year. As many as eleven pairs of squabs have been produced by one pair in a year. When production is high the female lays and begins incubation while she has young still in the nest, leaving the care of them to her mate.

Pigeons on Farms.

Raising squabs has greatly increased in cities in recent years. On farms the tendency has been the other way. On a farm a flock of free pigeons, if not kept down by killing off the increase, soon becomes a nuisance, destroying grain and doing a great deal of damage, especially on new-seeded ground.

The remedy for this is to keep the pigeons under control, and use the young birds, except the few needed to keep up the flock, as fast as ready for the table. By establishing the flock of pigeons in an accessible place, giving them a little food occasionally in their loft, and keeping them shut in and feeding them when they could damage new-seeded ground, a farm flock of pigeons can be made to contribute substantially to the meat supply, and still be prevented from doing any serious damage.

POINTS ON MARKETING EGGS

Refrigeration Maintains Quality, Weight, Fresh Appearance and Higher Food Value.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

A stale egg pleases no one. Heat is the fresh egg's enemy. Cold is its friend.

The shorter the time and the more direct the route of the egg from the nest to the packing house, the smaller the opportunity for loss.

The sooner the egg is put under refrigeration and started to market, the finer its quality when it reaches its final destination and the higher its value. Don't give the eggs a hot time in the old car.

To make a good, marketable product, cracked eggs, extremely small and dirty, as well as turkey and duck eggs, should be removed from the first grade and packed separately as seconds.

Keep eggs cool. Cool the egg and cash the check. Coolness and cleanliness mean more cash.

Refrigeration during transit maintains quality, weight, fresh appearance and food value. It retards loss of quality, shrinkage, "blood-rings" and loss of food value. It enables the delivery of a high quality, uniform product.

Seed Corn for an Acre.
Ten or twelve ears of corn will plant an acre.

MARKET DEMAND FOR STRAW FOR BEDDING

Commodity Will Now Bring Good Margin of Profit to Farmer

Large Number of Horses and Mules in Army Camps Has Materially Increased Prices for Commodity—Bale All Surplus.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Nearly a third of a million of horses and mules have been removed from farms and ranges and placed in army camps. This has increased the market demand for straw for bedding several hundred tons per week.

The prices at army camps and large markets have naturally influenced the price of this commodity on local markets, and the straw that was formerly burned or allowed to be trampled down by stock will now bring enough on the market to leave a good margin of profit to farmers over the cost of baling and shipping. The market price of straw is now between $8 and $20 per ton, and there is a good demand for almost any kind of straw.

Farmers who are not in the habit of selling straw, but who can advantageously do so, should bale their surplus or arrange to do so during the present year. Since the war department naturally prefers to buy from those who can furnish large quantities regularly, individual farmers can either sell their surplus through regular trade channels or unite with each other and ship co-operatively.

It is suggested that farmers consult their county agricultural agents regarding the cost of baling and shipping, the kind of straw in greatest demand, market grades and markets.

STOP WEEDS FROM SEEDING

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Most persons do not realize what an enormous number of seeds are produced by weeds. The number varies with different species, most kinds producing from one hundred to several thousand seeds per plant. Some weeds, such as wild carrot, burdock and sow thistle, are capable of producing 20,000 or more seeds to the plant. Moreover, not all weed seeds germinate at once, but delay sprouting for a period, some of them for several years. This is the basis of the old saying, "One year's seedling makes seven years' weeding."

NOTE ALL FARM HAPPENINGS

Records Make Reference to Them Easy and They Become Valuable When Memory Fails.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Simple accounts of the every-day happenings on the farm will often be found of great value. Every farmer makes a note when a calf is born or a sow farrows. Many do so mentally only, but it is none the less a note. If such notes are written down in a way that makes reference to them easy, they become of much use in supplying needed information when memory fails. Notes recording other every-day happenings often prove useful. Among these may be mentioned the dates when animals are bred, men hired or discharged, accidents occur, pasture season begins and ends, first and last frosts occur, incubators are set, spring work begins and fall work ends, seed time and harvest occur, etc. Such notes as these when systematically recorded and constantly referred to are of much value. They enable one to take proper precautions as to feed and care of animals prior to the birth of young, thereby often saving both mother and offspring. Disputes with hired men as to wages are avoided by recording when they are hired, a wage agreement, and all amounts subsequently paid them. Accident records are of value when seeking redress for damages, pasture data when figuring on feed supply, and frost and other weather data in planning the year's work.

Preventable Diseases.

Potato diseases of a preventable character frequently reduce the crop by from 50,000,000 to 100,000,000 bushels. While not entirely preventable, they should be guarded against to the fullest extent possible.

Are Common in Western Canada

The thousands of U. S. farmers who have accepted Canada's generous offer to settle on homesteads or buy farm land in her provinces have been well repaid by bountiful crops of wheat and other grains.

Where you can buy good farm land at $15 to $30 per acre—get $2 a bushel for wheat and raise 20 to 45 bushels to the acre you are bound to make money—that's what you can do in Western Canada.

In the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta you can get a HOMESTEAD OF 160 ACRES FREE and other land at very low prices.

During many years Canadian wheat fields have averaged 20 bushels to the acre—many yields as high as 45 bushels to the acre. Wonderful crops also of Oats, Barley, and Flax.
