Push the Drive for Sale of War Savings Stamps.

The actual sales of W. S. S. in Centre county for the week ending August 17th, was 20c. per capita, which gives us $13.32 for the entire campaign.

The other counties following Centre county with their per capita are as follows: Snyder, for the week, 43c.; Clinton, 59c.; and Wyoming, 33c.

We, however, retained fourth place in the list of counties, but unless a strenuous effort is put forth during the SPECIAL DRIVE, during the present week, I fear that we will lose that position.

The per capita for the State during the week ending August 17th, amounted to 12c., while in the entire Nation it aggregated 24c. The per capita for the campaign in the Eastern district of Pennsylvania, is now $5.65, while in the U. S. it is $5.72, or in other words the Eastern district of Pennsylvania is 7c. less per capita than the entire country.

From the above report you will notice that it is imperative upon the people of Centre county to do their utmost, during the SPECIAL DRIVE beginning August 26th. If the people of the county will carry out instructions given in letter under date of the 13th instant, I believe a per capita of $5.00 can be obtained for the county during the week of the 26th.

A telegram received at this office on August 23rd from William West, acting State director, is as follows:

"From reports just received, it is with great regret that I have to advise you that the country has passed, for the first time, the Eastern district of Pennsylvania in per capita sales of war savings stamps. The country leads by 7c. Let us all strive to overcome this at once. It can be done. Suggest a special drive on limit buyers, or any other drive that you think will help put us ahead of the country. I am confident you will keep Eastern Pennsylvania in her old place."

The Eastern district of Pennsylvania is no different than is Centre county. Certain sections of our county have "gone over the top" while in other sections of the county I do not think the per capita sales will aggregate over $1.00, and it is those districts in our county that are holding our per capita down to the very lowest point every week.

Let EACH of us do our patriotic duty, and sell W. S. S. during the present week worth while, for by so doing we will not only materially increase our per capita, but it will have a material effect upon the per capita of the Eastern district of Pennsylvania, and will be in full compliance with the suggestions made by Mr. West in the above telegram.

Very truly yours,
W. HARRISON WALKER,
Chairman War Savings Committee for Centre County.

CARLOAD OF SHEEP FOR CENTRE COUNTY FARMERS.

Farm Bureau Buys Merino Ewes.— Will Purchase Another Carload If Farmers Want Them.

Through the efforts of the Farm Bureau a carload of Merino ewes were brought into the county last week from Greene county. They were all distributed in flocks of fifteen to twenty-five sheep to farmers who had ordered before the car came in.

These sheep are all mature ewes ranging in age from three to six years and sheep that will clip eight to ten pounds of wool. These ewes will be crossed with a Shropshire or Hampshire ram in order to get a little more size and growthiness in the lambs to put on the market.

It is the intention of the Farm Bureau to get in another carload of these ewes if there is the demand for them. The next carload will cost about twelve dollars ($12.00) per head laid down at Bellefonte, and will be strong mature ewes that have raised at least one lamb. We have orders for part of a carload at present and if anyone is interested get in touch with the Farm Bureau at once. We will be glad to talk the proposition over with anyone and show you some of the sheep that we have in. Several carloads were brought into the neighboring counties last year and several carloads more are being brought in this year. In the majority of cases the lambs and wool more than paid for the sheep the first year.

County Agent

INDIANS USE A GRABHOOK

Have Unique Outfit Which They Use in Fishing for Salmon—Poles Are Twenty Feet Long.

The Indians fish for salmon with a "grab-hook," a large iron hook fastened to a pole by a loose cord three or four feet long. A hole at the blunt end of the hook that slips over the tip of the pole keeps it in place until the fish is hooked. Then the hook is pulled off the pole and the cord gives the fisherman a chance to play his fish if necessary before dragging it ashore, says the Southern Workman.

The hooks are made by the blacksmith, but the poles, about 20 feet in length, the Indians make themselves of red fir. Taking a rough piece of dry wood of the required length, they patiently work at it with drawshave and knife until it is the right size and tapering to suit the workman. Then it is usually hardened in the coals before putting on the cord, which they braid themselves. If a pole breaks, as often happens, the broken parts are lashed together with string, pitch is smeared over and melted by being rubbed with a hot stone, which makes the pole as strong as before. The Indians generally fish from the bank or from platforms built over the water. They thrust the long pole out across the river as far as they can and let the current carry it down and into the bank, trusting to chance and a quick jerk to hook the fish if they feel one in the water.

Interesting Origin.

In England money is characterized by the word "sterling," because in the time of Richard Coeur de Lion money coined in the eastern part of Germany became, on account of its purity, in especial request in England, and was called Esterling money, as all the inhabitants of that part of Germany were called Esterlings.

Soon after that time some of those people who were skilled in coining were sent for and went to London to bring the coin to perfection.

That was the foundation of the practice of designating English amounts "sterling."
