Hold Your Liberty Bonds.

The effort to separate Liberty Bond holders not familiar with stock and bond values from their Liberty Bonds has taken a new turn. The manipulators instead of offering to buy the bonds at inadequate prices offer in exchange for them the stocks and bonds of various wildcat corporations, whose face value is large but whose actual value is little or nothing.

The safest investment in the world is a Liberty Bond. For a patriotic American, Liberty Bonds are the best investments in the world. It is not only a wise thing to hold them it is a patriotic thing to do. The soldier that takes a trench and then voluntarily gives it up is not to be compared with one who takes a trench and holds it against the enemy. An American who buys a Liberty Bond and then sells it is not so good an American as one who buys a bond and holds it. This does not apply, however, to one who sells his bond because of real necessity; there is legitimate trading in Liberty Bonds which the Treasury recognizes.

It was a wise and patriotic old colored American who refused to sell his $100 Liberty Bond for $96, because he would not give up the United States' promise (his bond) to pay him $100 with interest for the United States' promise (currency) to pay him $96, and who refused to sell the same bond for $102, because, he said, that the $102 must be counterfeit or else the would-be purchaser would not be willing to give it for only $100. It is safe to say there are no gold bricks or wildcat securities among that American's assets.

Increased Production.

Much advice is being given the farmer in these strenuous times relative to increased production. Much of this is practicable, but some must be taken with a grain of salt. It is highly important that the farmer should first understand why increased production is necessary. The rest can then be safely left to his own judgement.

We now have in round numbers one million and half of our boys "somewhere in France". Another million and a half are stationed in the various camps throughout the United States. It is estimated that between four and five million boys will be in France on or before June, 1919. Enormous quantities of grain must be raised in order that these boys may be fed.

The grain that is most essential and the one that furnishes the most food value is wheat. This should be grown extensively by the farmer, not as a money crop, because the question at issue is not one of dollars and cents, but one of winning the war and of saving the lives of our boys who are so bravely fighting our battles.

"There is still time to increase the wheat acreage this fall" says E. R. Dorset, farm advisor of the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture. "Every acre of ground that will grow wheat should be planted. The corn is ripening earlier this year than last and should be taken off and sown in wheat as soon as possible. If it cannot be removed it can be stood in rows and the strips between sown in wheat. Next spring the rows where the corn stood can be sown in oats and no loss sustained from ground being idle.

"The second grain of importance is rye. This can be grown best in the northern tier of counties. The buckwheat stubble can easily be prepared for rye, as under ordinary conditions it is not necessary that it should be plowed. After the buckwheat has been removed a disc or spring-toothed harrow will usually prepare the seed bed for rye.

"Our corn crop this year is much below normal and it will be necessary to increase our acreage of wheat and rye not only to take care of export trade, but to feed the people who remain at home.

Let every effort be put forth toward increasing the cereal crop for 1919 laying aside the question of profit or of crop rotation. Many farmers object to increasing the acreage of any cereal because it upsets their rotation. Many lines of activities have been upset by this war and many more will be before it is over. It will be far less serious for us to upset a crop rotation than it will to take the risk of having our boys starved or suffer for want of food because we failed in doing our duty toward them."

The Story of the Blue Triangle.

The Blue Triangle, the symbol of the Y. W. C. A., is the emblem of The Girl He Left Behind Him. It will follow the girl wherever she goes during the war—at home and abroad. Its three points stand for protection, education, recreation. Its color is a blend of faith, hope and charity.

Very soon now there will appear over this country women in a new uniform—the uniform of the Blue Triangle. It is a soft gray blue uniform, smartly cut on military lines. A three pointed natty little hat goes with it, and on the hat is again the emblem of the Blue Triangle.

It's Now 1 to 4 on Flour.

Retail dealers are now required to sell one pound of substitute with each four pounds of wheat flour. The following substitutes may be sold with straight wheat flour: Corn flour, barley flour, corn meal, rice flour, potato flour, sweet potato flour, buckwheat flour, oat flour, bean flour, milo flour, kaffir flour and Feterita flour.

Food Administrator of Centre county.

State Agricultural Notes.

Pennsylvania is to have a big tractor demonstration near Harrisburg on September 19, 20, and 21, under the auspices of the Department of Agriculture.

Pennsylvania farmers have been asked to increase the wheat acreage seven per cent, over last year and they are making every effort to get all available land plowed for wheat.

The potato crop is showing little improvement and promises to be much below the general average in production. The lack of rain has seriously delayed plowing for wheat in many eastern counties.

What is a Branch House?

The Branch House is the place in the packing organization where what the packing plant does for you is put where you can use it.

Both are the natural result of growth and development in the living thing they belong to.

Swift & Company Branch Houses are located in distributing centers all over the country. They are fitted out with refrigerating equipment to keep meat cool, sweet and fresh.

Each one is in personal charge of a man who believes in what Swift & Company is doing for people and wants to help do it.

They are directed by men who have spent years learning how to get better meat cheaper to the places where it is needed.

Meat is shipped to the branch houses direct from the packing plants in Swift & Company's refrigerator cars, in such quantities that it can be disposed of while fresh and sweet.

Your meat dealer comes here to buy your meat for you—unless someone else can treat him better than we can.

So you need the branch house in order to live well; and the branch house and the packing plant need each other, in order to be useful to you.

Azar of Roses From Bulgaria.

White and red roses are grown, the former being easier to cultivate, but giving only about half as much oil of an inferior quality. The individual growers distill their own oil. Twelve to fifteen kilos of roses are distilled with 60 kilos of water until 12 kilos of distillate are obtained; 8 or 10 such lots are then united and redistilled into long necked flasks, in which the oil separates on standing. To produce one kilo of oil requires 3,000 kilos of roses, or 1,200,000 flowers.

The roses are gathered in the early morning and distilled the same day. The pure oil from the various districts shows variations in odor and physical properties and is therefore, skillfully blended by the distributing houses before sale. Adulteration is very largely carried on by the peasants, who use ginger grass oil, palma rosa oil, geranium oil, etc. The production for 1919 was 3,148 kilos—Pharmaceutical Era.

Perils of the Air.

Miss Eleanor Sears, the beautiful and athletic young Bostonian, was visiting recently at a country house where a good deal of flying is done.

Miss Sears, one cold and brilliant afternoon, appeared on the terrace of the mansion in a new and charming aviation costume.

"How do you like my new rig?" she asked, as she approached a party of young men and women who were taking tea in the open air behind a glass wind screen.

One of the young men answered with a look of admiration: "Beautiful! You are always dressed to kill. Today, though, you are dressed to be killed."
