> Many tractor manufacturers have already sent word that they will participate and it is expected that thirty or more machines will be entered. There are over two hundred acres will be plowed, rolled and seeded to wheat and the entire operation will be done with tractors and tractor drawn machinery.

The plowing will start on Thursday morning, September 19, at 11 o'clock, and continue without interruption until 5 o'clock that afternoon, when tractors will taken to headquarters for refilling of fuel and oil in order to measure the amount consumed. On Friday morning the tractor will resume plowing at 8 o'clock and continue until noon, when of fuel and oil consumption can be made. On Friday afternoon starting at 1:30 o'clock the fitting of the land will take place and at 5 o'clock the tractors will be called off from work and the amount of fuel and oil necessary for this work will also be recorded. Official observers will be assigned to each tractor to follow it through the entire periods of work. On Saturday the tractors will be set to plowing at 8 o'clock in the morning and continue until noon with the afternoon period alloted to fitting the land and seeding.

The tractors for each plowing period will have land assigned them according to their rated speed per hour, number of plows and the width of plows pulled. Most of the land is level, with sod, wheat, oats and corn stubble fields to be worked. There are also plenty of rolling which will give an excellent chance for tractors to show their efficiency at this kind of work.

Boys in France Want Home News,

In concluding a double column editorial in its issue of Sept. 7 the Philadelphia North American has this to say of the home community paper and the joy it affords the young Americans in France:

" There isn't a home town boy in France that wouldn't rather see his name in his home paper than on a bronze tablet. Only those who are blind to the past and ignorant of human nature will underestimate the power of these home papers. And the war that has put the sea between town and more than a million of America's young manhood has belped us to understand what those papers mean to the bone and sinew of the nation" Every family in the territory covered by the Reporter which has a member in service abroad, should personally see to it that he regular receives a copy of the paper. Because of the attention we are giving to matters in which he is especially interested-the letter from his fellow citizens in service and news items relating to the army and navy-with a complete report of the local happenings in town and nearby territory, we believe the Reporter will fully meet his expectations.

Building to be Curtailed.

Instructions are being framed by, the War Industries Board, under which the Pennsylvania Council of National Defense will be asked to recommend for or against non-war building and construction projects throughout the State. The War Board proposes to use the Council as a medium through which may be investigated and decided whether various undertakings are essential or non-essential under present war conditions.

When the new plan becomes effective, no application for building materials or commodities employed for repair purposes, where the cost of the work is in excess of $2500, will be considered by the Board unless previously passed upon and approved by the Pennsylvania Council of National Defence. This means that all persons desiring to undertake building, repair or construction work in excess of $2500, will be required to apply for the approval of the local Council of Defence before a permit will be granted by the Non-War Construction Section, Priorities Division of the War Industries Board. Approval will only be obtainable upon decision that that the work is vitally essential.

"There you are!" broke in the old gentleman. "You want to start at once, and you'll cackle-cackle all the time. I know you and your tribe. You cut my hair and hold your tongue."

"Yes, sir; but I should like to tell you-"

"And I don't want to listen," retorted the old gentleman; "just you cut my hair, and don't talk."

"But surely, sir, you'll allow me to say-"

"I won't allow you to say anything." snapped the other. I don't want to listen to yeu. I don't suppose you've got anything to say that I don't know already. Your business is to cut my hair and hold your tongue, and I'll be obliged if you'll make a start."

The old gentleman glared defiantly, plumped into the chair and shut his eyes as a sign that he wouldn't hear another word. The badgered man, with an air of desperation, grabbed a pair of scissors and set to work with them. When the operation was finished the old gentleman grunted, opened his eyes and stared at himself in the glass. Every remaining hair on his head quivered with indignation and horror

"Call that hair cutting!" he shouted. "Why, it's disgracefully done! It looks as if it had been gnawed by a rat! Do you call yourself a barber? You're no more a barber than I am!"

"No, sir; you're right at last, sir!" roared the man in reply. "I'm a pork butcher from round the corner, and I'm only taking care of the shop while" the barber has gone out for his tea." -Pearson's Weekly.

FAMOUS OBELISK IN DANGER

Eminent Engineers and Architects Fear Destruction of One of Rome's Great Monuments.

Several well-known Italian englneers and architects, after examinations of the famous Obelisk of St. Peter, claim that the giant monolith is in such a state, as to its supports, that it may tumble over at any time. This famous monument that is giving the gentlemen in question so much anxiety is of red granite and 132 feet in height, standing in the center of the plazza of St. Peter's in Rome, and is sometimes referred to as the Obe lisk of the Vatican.

It was brought from Heliopolis to Rome by the Emperor Caligula between the years 37-41 A. D. and placed in the Vatican circus. During the pontificate of Sixtus V. this huge stone, estimated to weigh 500 or more tons, was moved on rollers from the fine attended to remerity janl, 1919 tons, was moved on rollers from its

If the day should be foggy or cloudy so that it cannot be seen, there is great disappointment, especially among the children. For the first few days after the fourtcenth the sun is only seen for a very short time, bu as the sun rises higher in the heaven: the time it is in sight increases daily until its height is reached, when it gradually begins to fade from view again until in November it entirely vanishes from sight for another three months.

Lloyd George's First Narrow Escape. Mr. Lloyd George will never die from ennul. The suffragettes will see to that. But it is interesting to recall how his life nearly ended abruptly when he was a year old. He was seiz ed with croup one winter's night at Haverfordwest, where his parents lived, and his mother had to hurry through the snow to find a doctor. He arrived when the baby was almost at his last gasp and barely succeeded in pulling him through the attack. Mary years later at Cardiff the same doctor came up to the present chancellor of the exchequer after a meeting and told him of this incident, adding that as he went home that winter's night he had wondered whether it had been really worth while to save the baby's life, since there was no prospect before the baby but the life of an agricultural laborer .-- London Chronicle.
