

LOOK AT CHILD'S TONGUE IF SICK, CROSS, FEVERISH

HURRY, MOTHER! REMOVE POISSONS FROM LITTLE STOMACH, LIVER, BOWELS.

GIVE CALIFORNIA SYRUP OF FIGS AT ONCE IF BILIOUS OR CONSTIPATED.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, it is a sure sign that your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

When peevish, cross, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, doesn't eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad; has stomach-ache, sore throat, diarrhea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of the little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

You needn't coax sick children to take this harmless "fruit laxative"; they love its delicious taste, and it always makes them feel splendid.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. To be sure you get the genuine, ask to see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.—Adv.

Patriotic.

Patience—I saw Harry at the patriotic meeting last night. He was in khaki.

Patience—Oh, you saw him, did you? Patience—Yes, and he was so patriotic that he stood up during the entire meeting.

Patience—Oh, that wasn't altogether patriotism. He's joined the cavalry, you know, and yesterday was the first day he'd tried to ride a horse.—Camp Lee Bayonet.

Important to all Women Readers of this Paper

Thousands upon thousands of women have kidney or bladder trouble and never suspect it.

Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

You may suffer pain in the back, headache and loss of ambition; it makes anyone so.

Poor health makes you nervous, irritable and maybe dependent; it makes anyone so.

But hundreds of women claim that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, by restoring health to the kidneys, proved to be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

A good kidney medicine, possessing real healing and curative value, should be a blessing to thousands of nervous, over-worked women.

Many send for a sample bottle to see what Swamp-Root, the great kidney liver and bladder medicine will do for them. Going Too Far.

"It's time to draw the line somewhere on this food conservation," exclaimed the hired man.

"What's the trouble?" inquired Farmer Courtossel.

"I overheard your folks out in the kitchen tryin' to get up some way to make pumpkin pie without puttin' sugar into it."

THIS WEEK, NERVOUS MOTHER

Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Health.

Philadelphia, Pa.—"I was very weak, always tired, my back ached, and I felt sickly most of the time. I went to a doctor and he said I had nervous indigestion, which added to my weak condition kept me worrying most of the time—and he said if I could not stop that, I could not get well. I heard of Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound my husband wanted me to try it. I took it for a week and felt a little better. I kept it up for three months, and I feel fine and can eat anything now without distress or nervousness." Mrs. J. WORTHLINE, 2342 North Taylor St., Philadelphia Pa.

The majority of mothers nowadays overdo, there are so many demands upon their time and strength; the result is invariably a weakened, run-down, nervous condition with headaches, back-ache, irritability and depression—and soon more serious ailments develop. It is at such periods in life that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will restore a normal healthy condition, as it did to Mrs. Worthline.

Look out for Spanish Influenza.

Feel Lame and Achy?

Colds and grip leave thousands with weak kidneys and aching backs. The kidneys have to do most of the work of filtering out of your germ disease. A Maryland Case

C. F. Richardson, 1000 Ave. Crisfield, Md., says: "I had a bad case of kidney trouble that bothered me off and on for years. The frequent passages of the kidney secretions annoyed me and my back was often lame, weak and painful. I used Doan's Kidney Pills and they made a cure. I have had no return of kidney trouble since. SHIPS IN CONSTANT PERIL

Sailing Without Lights, Navigators Can Only Rely on Quickness of Perception and Professional 'Nerve.'

Even if the Huns are escaped, the life of a merchant ship man in these days is far removed from beer and skittles. An example of what they have to go through is furnished by the narrow squawk the Empress of Britain and the Cardiganshire had one night in the Aegean sea, Ralph E. Cropley writes in the Atlantic. Both are big ships and they were loaded with troops and going at full speed—zigzagging—not a light showing. It was one of those nights when you can hardly see your hand before you. There were no stars no phosphorus—nothing—nothing but to trust to luck and the ears of the man on the bridge.

The captain of one of the ships has told me that, before he knew it, there was a ship, bow on him, dead ahead. Of course the first impulse was to shift his helm; but if he did so, the danger would be of one ship giving the other a glancing blow. Fortunately the other skipper appreciated this also. Their nerve, in spite of several years of war-zone work, was still equal to the occasion. It all happened in the twinkling of an eye, and they passed safely though there had been less than 50 feet separating the ships, and their outwung lifeboats nearly scraped. The captain of the Cardiganshire, though he could not see him, heard the captain of the Empress of Britain about the noises of the sea—heard him yell—"For God's sake, old man, don't shift your helm!" so close were they on their respective bridges high above the sea.

Instances of this kind, which try men's souls, nightly occur, and quite frequently there are collisions and tragedies in the pitch dark. The only way that the two ships identified themselves was ten days later, at Saloniki, when the captain of the Cardiganshire heard the skipper of the Empress of Britain asking a friend if he knew what ship he nearly bumped on a certain night. I am sorry to report that the captain of the Empress of Britain lost his life in the Halifax explosion while doing hospital work.

Small Economies, Big Results.

In England every passenger on the street cars and omnibuses receives a small ticket in receipt for his fare. By simply reducing the size of the ticket by half an inch the London county council reports a saving of 100 tons of pulp per annum.

A thread manufacturer in Great Britain reports a saving of 150 tons of pulp per annum by affixing but one tiny label on the end of the spool of thread in place of one at each end as formerly the practice.

The question of senseless waste of paper in the matter of handbills was dealt with and it was estimated that more than 1,000 tons of pulp were absolute waste in this connection since more than half the handbills were a mere litter in the streets and on front porches, and never read.

By making railroad tickets half the thickness England has saved 400 tons of pulp.

By using postcards instead of paper and envelopes the numerous societies and organizations in Great Britain have saved 600 tons of pulp a year.

Night Photographs From Airplane

An Italian invention which permits photographs being taken at night has been submitted to the signal corps of the United States army. According to the men who control the new device it will soon be possible to take excellent pictures of enemy positions from airplanes flying at a low height on moonlight nights. It is also claimed that the invention can be fitted to motion-picture cameras, which would permit the photographing for the screen of much of the fighting in the air, the greater part of which takes place in the early morning hours. Up to the present time the chief obstacles met by the daylight aerial photographers is that the anti-aircraft guns force the flyers to take pictures from a great height, and much of the detail of the enemy lines is therefore lost. It is held, continues Aviation, that flyers are in little danger from artillery when flying at night.—Scientific American.

Crime Conditions in Germany.

Criminality in Germany augments without cessation. To quote Socialist Melhring before the reichstag, lying, theft and swindling are not offset by military glories. The Bishop of Metz in his London pastoral speaks of immorality, theft and unbridled license. In Berlin in the fall of 1916 there was an average of 300 daily complaints of theft. The insecurity on the public thoroughfares is great. There are 3,000 criminals whose terms at hard labor have expired who are at large, hanged alike from the public and private employ. In the Dusseldorf district in the first half of 1917 5,000 adolescents were convicted of crime, and various buildings have had to be converted into workhouses and places of detention for these persons.—La Presse Medicale.

Couldn't Recall It.

Before sentencing the prisoner the judge read a long record of his criminal misdoings, dating from early youth. Then the prisoner asked: "May I inquire your lordship's name?"

"What do you want to know, my name for?" sternly asked the judge.

"Well," replied the prisoner, "since your lordship so accurately described my early life, I can't but conclude that you and I have been friends at some time. I fail to recall you at the moment, though."—Stray Stories.
