

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

This is Roll Call week. Be sure to answer "Here".

James Frohm has purchased a pair of fox hounds for hunting purposes this winter.

James Keller is home from Franklin and Marshall college for the vacation period.

Master William Musser, of Mifflinburg, is visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Meyer.

For the first time in many years none of the five churches of Centre Hall will hold Christmas services.

Elmer Miller accepted a position in the local railroad station and commenced work beginning of the week.

Miss Kimport's sale of millinery at reduced prices will be continued for Friday and Saturday of this week. adv.

Mrs. John G. King expects to spend the Christmas season with friends and relatives at Curwensville and Pittsburg.

Rev. W. K. McKinney, Ph. D., of Bellefonte, will preach in the local Presbyterian church on Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Miss Rebecca Derstine, who is employed at Bellefonte, from Friday until Tuesday remained with relatives in Centre Hall.

Mrs. Laura Lee is in Reading where she will spend the Christmas season with her daughter, Mrs. George E. Breen, and family.

The three young ladies comprising the Maud Stevens Concert company remained in Centre Hall from Friday evening until Monday morning.

B. D. Brisbin left on Tuesday for Hartford, Connecticut, to spend the holiday season with his daughters, Mrs. George Robertson and Mrs. Harry Boon.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Catherman, of Millmont, were among those who attended the funeral of George Slack, on Tuesday. The deceased was a nephew of Mrs. Catherman.

Dr. G. W. Hosterman expects to spend the Christmas season with his son, S. V. Hosterman, Esq., and family, in Lancaster, having left Centre Hall on Wednesday morning.

Judge Quigley refused licenses to the Potters Mills hotel, Spring Mills hotel and The Sheffer House, at Phillipsburg, and held over the Old Fort hotel and the Continental hotel at Phillipsburg.

For Sale.—Fresh hams and quarters of choice beef, in any quantity, at any weight, and may be had at any time.—A. M. Riegel, Salona, Pa. Commercial phone, Mill Hall exchange. o.3pd.

Old 1918, one of the most eventful years in all history, is rapidly drawing to a close. Those who have lived to see and understand some of its more important happenings have indeed been favored.

"Home for Christmas" seems to be the motto of Uncle Sam as far as the boys in camps are concerned. Thousands of homes will be made happier this Christmas by the return of one or more sons.

Squire and Mrs. Cyrus Brungart will leave on Monday for the western section of the state where they will spend the holiday season as guests of their daughters, Mrs. John S. Getchell, at Greensburg, and Mrs. Thomas Keefer, at Youngwood.

Centre county needs $25,000 in order to "go over the top" in the W. S. S. campaign. A number of Limit Holders are needed; who will come forward? Will Centre fall down in the last week of the campaign? Not if you do your whole duty and buy more stamps in the closing days of the campaign.

A letter received by Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Crawford, on Tuesday morning, from their son, George Alfred Crawford, establishes his safety in France. The parents had received no word from their son for about two months. The letter was dated November 21st, and he stated that he was in the fight up to the last and was enjoying the best of health.

All but four of the counties of Pennsylvania voted in favor of the $50,000,000 road bond issue at the November election, a striking contrast to the election of 1913, when all but twelve voted against it. The majority in favor of the amendment this year was over a quarter of a million votes or six times the adverse majority when it was submitted five years ago.

Two mail-carrying airplanes passed over Penns Valley to the west of Centre Hall, on Tuesday, for Bellefonte. The aero mail service was inaugurated yesterday, the first plane reaching Bellefonte about nine o'clock a. m. Two machines will arrive each day—one from the east and another from the west, with Chicago and New York, respectively, as their objectives.

More than 3,000 students of the Pennsylvania State College and townspeople enrolled in the Red Cross during the membership campaign which was conducted there this week. Virtually every resident in the community contributed to the organization during the Christmas drive. Professor W. D. Crockett, who headed the movement has announced that State College "joined unanimously". Because of the approaching college vacation that community was permitted to hold its campaign a week in advance of the nationwide subscription drive. The public school children contributed 532 members; the college apportionment was 2160, and 1108 townspeople joined the Red Cross.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

"All you need is a heart and a dollar."

Fine grade of oysters on sale all week.—William McClenahan, Centre Hall.

Gross R. Allison, son of Dr. and Mrs. J. R. G. Allison, of Millheim, visited relatives in Centre Hall, on Tuesday. He was recently honorably discharged from the service, having been at Camp Grant, Illinois.

A letter has been received this week by Mr. and Mrs. Byron Garis from their youngest son, William, in France, but no news has come concerning John, who was in the thick of the fight up to the last. The parents are naturally worried, and would prize a letter from him as a Christmas present above everything else.

PINE GROVE MILLS.

Owing to the outbreak of the flu, a number of schools are closed.

Mrs. Kate Saunders, of Philadelphia, is visiting relatives here.

Mrs. Sue Peters spent the early part of the week among friends at Oak Hall. Ernest Trostle has an honorable discharge from the army and is home, ready to go farming in the spring.

Miss Phoebe Potter, of Linden Hall, is spending the winter at the home of her nephew, I. O. Campbell, at Fairbrook.

Cal. Riley, seventy-six years young, brought down a four-prong buck. The Carper crowd killed five; Ben Everett gang, two; and the Pa. Furnace youths, one.

Mrs. J. H. Ross left on Sunday on the Lehigh Express for Stroudsburg, called there on account of the serious illness of her daughter, Mrs. Robert Gerhart.

The Grays Found Guilty.

George lived in the camp on the McDivitt place and that Clyde lived about one mile East of Julian on the Way place. That on the latter part of July they had about 90 head of cattle, about 29 or 30 cows, at the dairy at Julian, and also a number of beef cattle, and that he owned a young heifer in the later part of July which was slaughtered on the 29th, the one a Swiss weighing 800 pounds, of a light red color, was branded on the neck with the letter "I". That these two heifers were taken with others from Halfmoon to Julian in the month of June. That he had seen a Mr. Long at State College to sell him beef, and that Miss Wellers was along with him and that Long directed him to see Mr. Resides, and that he saw Mr. Resides, and that he told him that he had promised to take two from the College, but that he would see what he could do. That George and Merris Mann were on the Way place on the 29th of July, and that he called his daughter home at Julian on that day, and directed them to get word to George to kill these two heifers and bring them over. That George and Merris Mann got to his place the next morning about 8 o'clock, and that the witness and Miss Weller went to State College, but before doing so, he telephoned to the College that he was bringing the beef; that he arrived at the College about 10:30 or 11 o'clock; that Mr. Resides' man gave him $15 on account of the meat, and on the following Friday or Saturday he went to see Mr. Resides and was given a check. That they did not bring the hides along and that Mr. Resides never mentioned anything about hides, and that he had never seen the hides until the day before Thanksgiving. That he had lost three of his own cattle on the Bald Eagle side. That they had a regular tackle for killing in the barn floor at the Way place. At this point the witness was withdrawn.

Clyde G. Gray was called and testified that the Gray's had from 90 to 100 head of head of cattle on the different places. That Merris was not at the barn, as she was not feeling well. That the hides burned by Miss Mann were off of cattle the one of which had died and the other killed after being poisoned, and were in the pig pen on the loft of the McDivitt place; that the hides were kept over the top of the pig pen and that he had seen those hides there, but that they were not there any more. That the hides were in bad condition and smelled and had maggots in them; that he saw these hides left about September 1.

Medical Fees in Bygone Days.

At the beginning of the eighteenth century the usual fees to physicians and surgeons in England were "to a graduate in physick, his due is about 10 shillings, though he commonly expects or demands 20. Those that are only licensed physicians, their due is no more than 6 shillings and 8 pence, though they commonly demand 10 shillings."

"A surgeon's fee is 12 pence a mile, be his journey near or far, 10 groats to set a bone broken or out of joint, and for letting blood 1 shilling; the cutting or amputation on any limb, 5 pounds, but there is no settled fee for the cure." The system of regulating the fee according to the pocket of the patient, remarks the Westminster Gazette, is almost as old as history.
