Legislators Well Paid.

From the Williamsport Sun.
The members of Pennsylvania's state legislature are well paid for the services they render and the time they give during the few months the legislature is in session every two years. The compensation is now $1,500 and there is at present a bill before the house raising the salary $2,500 with mileage additional at the rate of thirty cents circular and allowance for postage and stationary. The legislature recently smothered a measure providing for an increase in the salary of the governor from $70,000 to $18,000 annually to become effective at the beginning of the next administration. This bill had considerable more claim for favorable action than the effort to boost the compensation of the legislators who as a rule are in session less than five months every two years and during that period give only a few days weekly to the actual attendance at committees or legislative meetings or to other duties in connection with their position. The executive of this great commonwealth is manifestly entitled to more than $10,000 salary per annum if the services of the members of the legislature are worth nearly twice the sum the legislators now receive.

GRAYS SENTENCED BY JUDGE QUIGLEY.

Irvin Gray Gets 6 Years in Penitentiary, While His Two Sons Get 7 Years and 6 Months.

On Monday afternoon Judge Quigley, at the February session of court, announced that the Grays—Irvin G. and his sons Clyde and George—convicted at a previous term on the charge of stealing cattle, had been refused a new trial, and the defendants were called before the Court and the following sentences passed.

Irvin G. Gray was called first and in the first case was sentenced to pay a fine of $1.00, costs of prosecution, restore the stolen goods, if not already restored, and undergo imprisonment in Western Penitentiary for not less than two years, nor more than two years and six months. A similar case was passed in the second and third trials, the sentence in the second case to begin at the expiration of the first and the sentence in the third to begin at the expiration of the sentence of the second case.

George G. Gray was sentenced in the first case to not less than two years and six months nor more than three years and similar sentences in the second and third cases, in addition to pay the costs of prosecution, the fine of $1.00 and restore the stolen goods; the second sentence to begin at the termination of the first and the third to begin at the termination of the second.

Clyde C. Gray was sentenced the same as his brother, George F. Gray. According to these sentences Irvin G. Gray will be imprisoned for a period of not less than six years, nor more than seven years and six months. George F. Gray and Clyde G. Gray for a period of not less than seven years and six months nor more than nine years. After the sentences were passed the defendants were placed in charge of the sheriff, and it is said that they will make an appeal to take their case to the Superior Court.

Grand Jury's Report.

The grand jury in the February court got through with their work on Monday afternoon and presented that they had passed upon three bills of indictment, all three of them being found true bills, and further reported that they found the court house in good condition; that a new office floor covering should be furnished for the sheriff's office, also a new partition between the male and female departments of the prison. The interior should be white washed and also that the barn be disposed of and a new fire proof garage be erected, large enough for two automobiles.

"The Million Dollar Doll."

"The Million Dollar Doll," which will be the offering at Garman Theatre Tuesday March 4th, has proved one of the greatest successes of the season's musical offerings. The books, lyrics and music were written by Louis Wesley of New York City, who is the successful writer for such well known artists as Rock & Fulton, Lulu Glazer, Marion Bent and many others. The entire work is original and far above the general run of musical comedies. Mr. Wesley considers this his best work. The production was staged by Mr. Harvey D. Orr, who is well known to the theatre going public. He has given this attraction one of the most elaborate productions ever sent on tour. The costumes, stage settings and light effects are beautiful and enchanting. The company is one of the largest and best on the road this season and is well worthy the large patronage accorded it since the opening date. Owing to the length of the performance curtain will positively go up at 8:15 p. m. Prices 35, 50, 75, $1.00, $1.50.

Matrimonial Market.

The Hitabadi and Basumati, native Indian papers, publish between them some curious instances bearing on the state of affairs that prevails in the matrimonial market of the present day. Here is one of them: An elderly gentleman of Cooch Behar, a widower of slender means having a marriageable daughter to dispose of, was on the lookout for a suitable bridegroom. But the prohibitive rates ruling in the market was against him, and he at last hoped that with the dowry he would obtain from the marriage of his only son he would marry away his daughter. But as ill luck would have it, the boy died, and the gentleman, finding no other way open, was forced to enter into wedlock himself for a second time in order that he might marry the girl to his new brother-in-law!

I am enclosing a little souvenir for you (silk handkerchief with U. S. and French flags embroidered in corner.) It may not be much but I will bring more along home with me.

Penn State Food Expert Tells of European Mission.

Dr. H. P. Amsley, of the Pennsylvania State College, who was one of the five American representatives on the Inter-Allied Food Commission, has returned from Europe and resumed his duties here as head of the Institute of Animal Nutrition. Concerning the work of the commission, he spoke as follows.

"When it became evident that a sufficient supply of food from the United States and Canada was essential to enable the Allies to continue its struggle against the Central Powers, the question of a fair distribution of this food among the several nations arose at once. It was to aid in the solution of this question that there was formed the Inter-Allied Scientific Nutrition Commission, consisting of representatives of Great Britain, France, Italy, Belgium, and the United States.

"With another member of the Commission, Dr. Pearl, I sailed from New York for Bordeaux, October 24. We arrived there on November 4. Our arrival, however, was followed a week later by the armistice, which quite changed the situation. It brought forward at once the question of revictualing the conquered and the liberated territories—the North of France, Belgium, Dalmatia, Flume, etc.—as well as the problem of the reconstruction of the depleted flocks and herds of France and Italy, in particular.

"These matters were discussed at considerable length, but in the absence of any very definite statistics of either population or food resources, only very general recommendations could be made."
