STYLES ARE MANY

Clothes for Coming Season Marked by Diversity.

Various Periods Shown in Waistline or Sleeve; Skirts Are Long and Draped.

Great activity prevails in all the large dressmaking establishments and an interesting fashion display is promised for the openings, which will be held soon.

Shall we have a new silhouette? That is the important question. So far there is little if any indication of it, but one never knows what turn the invention of the leaders of fashion may take, now that their minds are relieved of the anxieties of war. History does not help us much. After Waterloo there were no sudden shifts in the modes, but a gradual development from the styles of 1815 through the seasons until a definite change was crystallized in the fashions of 1820. There was a marked change in fashion, including that of hairdressing, just preceding the French revolution.

The question of the silhouette is no longer so important as it used to be. Modern women are less obedient to the dictates of a few designers than were their mothers and grandmothers. The bustle mode returned, but not every woman adopted it, as was the case in the eighties. The majority preferred the tunic or short skirt, or the slightly barrel effect. This is an indication that women now have independent opinions on the subject of dress.

One sees today a variety of styles. There is in evidence at one and the same time the empire waistline, the moynage or the oriental line dropped below the hips, and the so-called normal waistline. As for sleeves there is the long, tight sleeve, the sleeve of 1840, with its underpuff of lighter material; the Gregorian sleeve and the Eastern sleeve slit along its length and tied about the wrist. These are but a few of the varieties which one may see in every gathering of well-dressed women.

Then there is the realm of the skirt. There is the long, draped skirt, the narrow slit skirt, the narrow straight skirt, the kilt skirt and the tunic skirt, either draped or plaited.

One sees a great diversity of style among the evening frocks. There is an exceedingly attractive model of black velvet made in princess effect, draped in rather clinging lines and completed with a long train, the train beginning at the décolleté at the back and extending in panel effect. The right side of the bodice is of flesh-colored tulle. The left side is formed of the velvet, draped and crossing over and fastened at the waistline at the right side with a cluster of flowers.

Plain but exquisitely dainty is this negligee of georgette and chiffon.

MANY USES FOR PAPER YARN

Combined With Wool, Shoddy, Cotton and Waste, Enlarging Supply of Fabrics for Clothing.

The use of paper yarn has been largely extended during the past half year. The importance of the industry may be judged by the increased production now amounting to about 88,000,000 pounds a year, says the Frankfurter Zeitung.

The manufacturing processes are constantly being improved, and as the matter stands now paper yarn can be used successfully in the manufacture of various fabrics and garments, excepting only body linen and the better sorts of outside garments. Workingmen's clothes, bed and table linen, curtains, sail cloth, imitation leather and many other articles of good quality can now be made.

In many fabrics the paper yarn is combined with wool, shoddy, cotton waste, etc., and the supply of fabrics for the clothing industry is thus enlarged. It is not to be supposed that all these articles will disappear immediately upon the return of peace. The demand for them will continue.

LATEST ARRIVAL FROM PARIS

With the same originality that gained for Paris the supremacy of the fashion world in pre-war times, Paris has again come into its own. This chic creation is a blue straw hat, artistically trimmed with wings of blue.

undiminished for some time, and some of them may retain their place in the market permanently.

The use of paper yarn for sewing thread is also increasing, owing chiefly to the scarcity of cotton and linen thread. The preparation, twisting, etc., have been improved to such an extent that the paper threads are strong and durable enough to be used in the manufacture of coarse clothing and sacks.

ART OF SELECTING DRAPERIES

Wise Choosing and Placing of Lamps Lends an Air of Coziness to the Home.

While the selection of draperies and curtains is, possibly, the most obvious method of lending an air of coziness to the home, the wise choosing and placing of lamps is a factor which is equally important, though too infrequently taken advantage of. To be thoroughly comfortable and practical during the evening hours, the home should be equipped with a variety of lamps, to meet the particular needs of the moment. The fact that one does not want the same kind of lighting at all times becomes an important item in the selection and arrangement of fixtures, for, while a soft, mellow glow is highly desirable for conversational purposes, it is usually insufficient for reading or other close work. The living room should therefore be furnished with both types of lamps, so that it will be satisfactory at all times. Proper illumination of this room will do much toward keeping the family together in the evening, for it makes it possible for several people to do their different work in comfort.

NEW PATTERN PRINTS SHOWN

Fabric Is Entirely English in Design and Manufacture; Firm Like Percale; Dyes Warranted.

Some new English prints are in the market. They are entirely English in design and manufacture, the material is of a firm quality like percale and the dyes are warranted. They come in all colors—rose, pink, greens, blues, terra cotta, or really the new heanna—with the little old-fashioned designs in purple or lavender. The patterns are small, delicate roses on the different grounds, small conventional patterns, and little leaf patterns combined with a small round figure of some kind. There are a few patterns with the ever recurrent polka dot of moderate size, set rather far apart on white or colored grounds. Another old-time one revived is the tiny, pinhead dot in white on navy blue. These, however, are exceptions, most of the prints being in small, sometimes very tiny, all-over designs set closely. The only thing in a way of a stripe is indefinite, formed of lines of the dots. The prints make up into very simple gowns for women, children and young girls.

FRANTIC WITH PAIN

Long Suffering From Kidney Trouble More Than Words Can Describe.

Doan's Brought Health and Happiness.

Mrs. Anna Thorson, 290 South St., Stamford, Conn., says: "I hadn't any more strength than a child, and after sweeping my back hurt me more and more. My headaches were so bad it seemed as though my skull were being torn into shreds and I would finally lose track of everything and lie in a stupor for hours. I felt I had to keep going or lose my mind and I kept up often when I trembled all over with weakness. My feet were swollen and every bone in my body seemed to ache. My fingers got almost as rigid as pieces of wood and the knuckles swelled. The kidney secretions were dark colored, scanty and terribly burning. I suffered more than words can describe. I finally began using Doan's Kidney Pills and I believe with all my heart that they kept me out of the grave. I am well and happy after going through enough pain to drive me frantic. Doan's saved my life." Starts to before me this 15th day of Sept., 1915.
