

WOMAN'S NERVES MADE STRONG

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Winona, Minn.—"I suffered for more than a year from nervousness, and was so bad I could not rest at night. I would lie awake and get so nervous I would have to get up and walk around and in the morning would be all tired out. I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and thought I would try it. My nervousness soon left me. I sleep well and feel fine in the morning and able to do my work. I gladly recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to make weak nerves strong."—Mrs. ALBERT SULTZE, 608 Olmstead St., Winona, Minn.

How often do we hear the expression among women, "I am so nervous, I cannot sleep," or "It seems as though I should fly." Such women should profit by Mrs. Sultze's experience and give this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a trial.

For forty years it has been overcoming such serious conditions as displacements, inflammation, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, dizziness, and nervous prostration of women, and is now considered the standard remedy for such ailments.

SUIT OR A DRESS?

Question Is a Puzzling One for Majority of Women.

Fight-Fitting, Severely Tailored Out-Fit Not So Much Shown as More Youthful Looking Models.

Whether to buy a tailored suit, or a dress and separate coat, that is the problem which confronts the woman who goes forth at this time to spend her dress allowance, and this spring the question is a puzzling one. Some years are what the garment makers call "suit years," when the problem is settled, before we even begin to shop, by the manufacturers; other years they show nothing, comparatively speaking, but one-piece dresses and frocks. But this year both suits and frocks are shown in amazing variety, and was indeed the woman who has looked over her wardrobe and reached a decision as to what she needs, before she goes to the stores.

The new suits are distinctive in several ways. Coats are just finger-tip length, as a rule, and many of them have the loose outside pocket effect, achieved by turning up the bottom of the coat at the sides and in front. The skirts are narrow, as rumor predicted that they would be. The more extreme models have made allowance for the wearer's need, either by slitting the skirt at the back seam for a few inches up the hem, or, in one case, by making the skirt with the front and back widths absolutely separate as far up as the hips; these two sections were then caught together at intervals down the sides by short threads, heavily buttonholed, which held the two sections together except when the wearer was walking. When such skirts as these are worn, there is worn also a heavy satin slip, matching the skirt in color.

The tight-fitting, severely tailored suit is not so much shown as are the looser-coated, more youthful-looking models. Narrow belts are on nearly all of these jackets, fastening at the side; the skirts of the coats are rather full, and are quite apt to be inconspicuously trimmed. Embroidered silk arrow heads make one such coat interesting; another is bound with narrow, flat, black silk braid; still another backs back to the woven ribbon work in which our grandmothers delighted, the skirt of the coat being made of black ribbon, woven in a square, pattern with the blue tricotine of which the suit was made.

Tucks, running crosswise, relieve these short jackets of plainness, and sometimes, on suits meant for formal wear, an embroidered band around the bottom edge of the coat gives it distinction. One delightfully simple suit of dark blue serge had rather wide, rolled seams, which made a decidedly interesting finish. The wide, scarf collar, one end of which is thrown over the wearer's shoulder, is nearly always becoming, but is, of course, impractical on a suit which must be worn on all occasions and in all weathers, since its effect is more becoming than trim.

GRACEFUL FOLDS OF CAPES

Glimy Lightness of Serge, Satin, Wool Jersey or Tricotine Supplants Winter Materials.

The spring maid is all wrapped up in capes as voluminously as her predecessor, Madame Winter. No matter how she tries she can't seem to get out from under the graceful folds. The only difference between the winter and spring models is that those folds have dwindled from the heavy richness of fur, velours and duvetyne to the spring-like elany lightness of serge, satin, wool jersey or tricotine.

If we follow old Omar's admonition and fling our winter garment of repentence in the fires of spring it will only be to don another exactly similar in cut and style.

Of course the spring capes have some new and novel touches to bring them up to date, such as embroidery ornamentation, scarf collars ending in swishing tassels, patch pockets and button excrecences jutting out in nobby designs.

A perfect jewel of a model is of pearl-gray jersey with a deep soft cape collar edged in a wide band of black silk braid. The wide braid also finishes the slashes for the arms and a vivid lining of orange and black checker-board satin shows free and unchecked when the wind blows.

A smart draped cape of black taffeta has one of the deep soft collars also, which is edged with a wide fringe of long narrow taffeta ribbon loops, as is also the bottom of the cape. The lining of this distinctive model is a vivid apple-green silk crepe, fruitfully sprinkled with cherry polka dots and plum-bud dashes.

Almost all of the cape linings strike such a gay, joyous and riotous color note that they seem to indicate the real inner nature of their wearers.

BLOUSE WITH PEPLUM FRONT

Model Christened "Bibette" and It Occasionally Is Known as the "Apron" Blouse.

Among the very interesting blouses developed this spring the models with peplum fronts are increasingly popular. This type of blouse came in style last fall, when it was christened the "Bibette." It is known either as the "Bibette" blouse or the "Apron" blouse.

Most of the models developed on this line fasten either in the back or at one side, as a straight-front fastening would mar the effect sought; but great individuality is possible in designing such a blouse, as it may be rather tailored and severe or very dressy and feminine, according to choice.

When worn with a dark suit a blouse in light or bright color, with long front section, appears to much better advantage when the suit coat is on than when it is removed, as the normal waistline at back and sides and long panel or apron front give the figure a rather inert line. But American women are being converted to the French idea in wearing suits, and rarely is a woman seen with her suit-coat removed, except at luncheon or tea. At such times the blouse may be merely part of a once-piece frock, as far as the actual observer is able to tell.

KITCHEN SHOULD BE CHEERY

Workshop of the Home in Which Majority of Housewives Spend Most of Their Time.

The average woman does not think of her home as a mirror, but that is exactly the relation to herself in which it stands.

Of course, it is but natural that mildly spends a goodly portion of her energy upon her living and dining rooms.

Yet the kitchen, as the workshop of the house, is the room in which many housekeepers spend most of their waking hours, and therefore it should be the lightest, airiest and most cheerful one in the home. But how often it is not!

Harmony of color plays an important role in making interiors attractive, and one pretty combination for the kitchen is to have the walls tinted a light green and the floor finished in a darker shade of the same color.

FADS AND FANCIES

The new tunic skirt has the tunic coming only to the knee.

Gray and black form the smartest combination of the moment.

A good deal of Chinese fillet is used on flesh crepe blouses.

Dressy taffeta suits are seen, some with cape coat effects.

The suit coat has made excellent use of the deep shawl collar.

Copper, tete de negre and black are the favorite colors for velvets.

The afternoon frocks have belts made of material rather than of ribbon.

The oxford shoe, topped by a ribbed stocking, has no rival for street wear.

CREATION OF BLACK MALINES

Very plain but attractive is this model of black malines and Spanish fold-over edge of brim veiling the eyes. Diamond-shaped medallions and blue ostrich are arranged on brim and crown.

Back Lame and Achy?

There's little peace when your kidneys are weak and while at first there may be nothing more serious than dull backache, sharp, stabbing pains, headaches, dizzy spells and kidney irregularities, you must act quickly to avoid the more serious trouble, dropsy, gravel, heart disease, Bright's disease. Use Doan's Kidney Pills, the remedy that is so warmly recommended everywhere by grateful users.

A Virginia Case

J. F. Thomas, 27 Rockbury St., Clifton Forge, Va., says: "I had too much uric acid in my system and I was in a pretty bad way. I finally got a box of Doan's Kidney Pills and after using them three days I noticed a great change. I kept on getting better and in about five weeks I was attending to my business as usual. The rheumatic pains had left and my kidneys became normal."

Rejects Title of "Hon."

"I received a compliment yesterday for which I did not thank the giver," grumbled old Festus Pester. "A total stranger wrote me a letter and addressed me as 'the Hon.'"

"I do not know why he should have applied that epithet to me, unless it was because he did not know me. I feel safe in saying that even my enemies would not charge me with having many of the characteristics of an Hon."

"I am not a fawning, smirking blabberkite, too lazy to work, nor am I a liar and dead beat. It may be that I have one attribute of an Hon.—very likely I am a bore, but beyond that I am not guilty."—Kansas City Star.
