

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

Wanted at once—ten coops hens.—Chas. D. Bartholomew, adv.
Millheim High school's graduation exercises will be held on Tuesday evening of next week.
Mrs. Margaret Bedyon, of Lewis town, is visiting among friends in and about Tusseyville.

The sun, totally hidden from view for more than three days, appeared again on Monday afternoon.

Just in—a carload of fertilizer for Spring requirements. Phone your order.—R. D. Foreman, Centre Hall, Pa.

Miss Florence S. Rhone is visiting her sister, Mrs. W. C. Dunlap, at Louisville, Kentucky, on her way home from the west.

James S. Solt, who conducts a garage in Frederick, Md., is planning to spend a few days along the trout streams in the Seven Mountains.

John H. Weiser, prosperous young farmer of Tusseyville, is driving a handsome new Model 90 Overland touring car which he purchased last week.

Mrs. Bruce C. Auman and baby daughter, and the former's brother, William Slick, visited at the J. W. Brown home, in Milroy, for a few days last week.

Miss Elsa Slick, an experienced typist, after an absence from the case for two years, is again found forming lines of type at the Reporter office. She has lost none of her deftness in that time.

Rev. Louis V. Barber, Presbyterian minister at Lemont, has engaged the services of Rev. W. D. Laumaster, evangelist, of Philadelphia, to hold evangelistic meetings on Rev. Barber's charge.

Lieut. John A. Hardenberg has been mustered out of the service and is spending a few weeks in Millheim. He served with a field hospital unit in France and was severely gassed. The doctor is undecided whether he will resume his practice in Millheim or locate elsewhere.

The latter part of last week Hiram Lee drove in his car from his home in Oaks, Montgomery county, and visited his brother, Frank D. Lee, in Centre Hall. He was accompanied by his daughter, Grace, now Mrs. Clair Bowden. From here they went to Milroy to visit at the W. O. Rearick home.

Samuel E. Gingerich, accompanied by Mrs. Alice Houser and Mr. and Mrs. James Summers, of Axemann, made a trip in his Ford car to Hollidaysburg, Altoona and Brownsville, on Friday, visiting friends and relatives, at the last named place stopping off at the home of his brother, John Gingerich. The party returned home beginning of this week.

Where there is one snake, there are usually two, is a saying that was verified a few days ago when Cleveland Mitterling killed a five-foot blacksnake, on the Brush valley road. He was attracted by what he considered a tangled mass of snakes or sticks and upon approaching the spot saw a black snake holding its head in the air. He soon killed it and discovered that another snake lay close by which had been killed only a short time before.

Miss Carribel Emerick, who for the past year or more composed type for this newspaper, set aside the stick and rule on Saturday, and on Tuesday left for Freeport, Illinois, accompanying her uncle, Oscar Emerick, to his home in that city. Miss Emerick during her employ in this office, proved painstaking in her work at the type case and hence was a valued employee. She is a lovable young lady with a host of friends in Centre Hall who are sorry to lose her companionship. The best wishes of her friends go with her.

The $3.00 Sunday excursions which the P. R. R. has been accustomed to run from Centre Hall and other points on the local branch, and which proved so popular, promise to come into their own again, now that the war is over and soldiers and equipment are no longer the chief articles carried by the railroads. The first of these excursions will run to Washington, on Saturday night, May 31. The only additional cost over the rate of former years is the inevitable war tax, which in this case is twenty-four cents.

Rufus Strohm, son of Mrs. M. E. Strohm, of Centre Hall, who for the past few years has occupied an editorial chair on "Power", a technical journal published in New York, has returned to his former employers—the International Correspondence Schools, of Scranton—at a decided increase in salary. The schools, which suffered adversity on account of war conditions, were forced to leave their best men go several years ago, but with the return to more normal conditions, they are again hunting up their most valued former employees.

Driving a car at night without lights was responsible for a smash-up at Potters Mills, Thursday night, when a Milroy party, giving his name as E. L. Miller, struck the horse and buggy belonging to John Neff, while he and Charles Miller were seated in the vehicle in front of the latter's home at Potters Mills. Miller was sitting in the buggy with his foot hanging on the outside and when the car struck the buggy his foot was badly hurt, so that he is now using crutches in getting about. The buggy was badly twisted, but the horse escaped with little or no injuries. The guilty party will likely have some damages to pay for this violation of the law.

Feminine Diplomacy.
"Yes, I finally got rid of him," she said, "without having to tell him in so many words that I never could learn to love him. I didn't want to do that, because he's an awfully nice fellow, and I should have been very sorry to cause him pain."
"How did you manage it?" her friend asked.
"Why, you see, he's subject to hay fever, so I decorated the house with golden rods whenever he sent word that he was coming."—Brooklyn Citizen.
