MERELY PIECE OF FOOLING

Course Taken by Germany Resembles Closely Neat Trick That is Credited to Sheridan.

"The Germans, by fooling us with German bolshevism, hoped to escape the payment of war indemnities," said a congressman.

"It reminds me of a story about Sheridan, the spendthrift playwright. Gunter, the confectioner, left his statement with Sheridan one morning, and a few hours later Hanson, the frommonger, called.

"Hanson was very pressing on the subject of his account. He harangued and he harangued, Sheridan, broke, as usual, paced the floor in despair.

"But suddenly an idea struck the spendthrift and he said: "You know Gunter?"

"One of the safest men in London," Hanson replied.

"Then you will be satisfied if I give you his bill for the amount?"

"Certainly." Sheridan thereupon handed the frommonger Gunter's neatly folded account, snatched up his hat and rushed forth."

Old-Fashioned.

"They are old-fashioned children." "That so?" "Yes. They even obey their parents."

Ominous.

"I don't notice anything of a music rack about here." "Just wait until you hear Sallie begin to play."

Suffered for Years

Miserable From Kidney Trouble. Doan's Made Mr. Barnett Strong and Well.

"I suffered untold agony with my kidneys for years," says John Barnett, 30 Virginia Place, Buffalo, N. Y. "Sometimes I felt that I would burn up with fever, but every now and then would have a severe chill. Often my clothes were wringing wet with perspiration. The kidney secretions were unnatural in color and odor and burned terribly. At night my shoes were so tight on my feet that I could hardly get them off and my hands swelled so I couldn't hold a teacup. My back! Oh, how it ached! I walked with two canes and was all bent over like an aged man. When the terrible pains shot through my kidneys, my knees would give way and many times I had to be lifted to my feet by people on the street. I didn't care whether I lived or died, I was so miserable. I finally used Doan's Kidney Pills and they cured me of all kidney trouble. Doan's made me strong and well."

LOOKED LIKE LABOR WASTED

Board's Visit Over, Small Boy Couldn't See Further Necessity for So Much Soap and Water.

He was a new little boy at the orphanage and was much impressed by all the scrubbing and cleaning he saw done there, more so because he had come from a home in which disorder and dirt had held sway. He could not understand it; more than that, it irritated him, and when he got the job of scrubbing the dining-room steps he was almost ready to leave.

But just then came a new excitement to the home. The board was coming to make its annual tour of inspection, and the cleaning was doubled. "Get ready for the board," was the home watchword, it seemed, and he, being very human, decided to stay until that big event was over.

The day of visiting came and passed. The next morning the new youngster sought the matron. "Now that their boards has been here, I don't see no use of scrubbing them steps so often—do you?" he asked.

Outside Brussels is a large monument of a German general. When the allies started to advance last year, some wit placed a handbag with the words "To Berlin" printed on, in the outstretched hand of the monument.

Very Likely.

"What killed your case in court?" "I guess it was the fact of its being a short circuit court."

COUNTRY WAYS IN THE CITY

Would Be Well if More Dwellers in Crowded Places Kept Them in Their Minds.

There is at least one thing about cities that is all wrong and deeply to be deplored. That thing is their heedlessness, which too often amounts to cruelty.

It is to be feared that people who dwell in large towns permit themselves to become unfeeling and unneighborly. They lose their sympathy for the sick and grow callous to even the presence of death itself. How many old friends we all have who have lately been very ill. Well, we never even called to see them. How many old friends have died and we did not even go to their funerals.

The thing for folks who live in cities to do is to keep in their hearts the gentle customs that they learned in the country. There is no real reason why we should permit the town to take from us the things which make life gentle and sweet and beautiful.—Los Angeles Times.

How Tunnel Workers Are Warned. A tunnel of the Metropolitan railway in London, which much of the time is filled with smoke or steam, has been equipped for its 2,200 feet of length with an iron tube for giving notice of the approach of trains, the tubes to be agitated so as to produce a noise, by means of treadles, and being so arranged that it can be out of service when no men are at work in the tunnel. It was found that horns or gongs could be heard not over 700 feet in a clear atmosphere and a much shorter distance when the atmosphere was filled with smoke or steam.

She Had It, as Usual. The race for the last word was getting hot. Hubby and wife were running neck and neck.

"You did!" "I didn't." "You did!" "I did not!"

The pace was slowing. "Well," flashed hubby, "one of us two is a very capable liar. But there is one thing which prevents me saying which one."

"Modesty, I presume," retorted wife.

Too Much Freedom. "I understand you teach useful trades here," said the visitor.

"Yes," replied the warden of a model penitentiary, "but we have to draw the line somewhere."

"How is that?" "Several life-terms have been urging me to start a flying school."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Too Busy.

A new suit of clothes was bought for Alfred, age nine, so that he might look as well as all the other boys in his Sunday school class. His other suit was good enough to wear to town and to visit his relatives, but not to go to church. So a very expensive suit was bought. And with the suit he got a ball and bat.

Mother carried the suit home and Alfred carried the ball and bat. He was swinging it from side to side when he suddenly said: "You can take the suit and bat back if you want to, mother. Now since I've gotten this ball and bat I'll probably be too busy Sunday mornings to go to Sunday school any more."

Costly Economy.

John D. Ryan, copper king and air expert, said at a luncheon:

"Look out for the manager who is always talking about retrenchment. He's apt to resemble Blink."

"Mr. Blink," said a clerk, "I wish you'd get some blotting paper, sir."

"Humph!" Blink grunted. "Blotting paper's gone up. The staff will do without blotting paper hereafter and wait for the ink to dry."

That's Enough.
