Wireless Improved.

According to an English electrical publication, a valuable improvement has been made in the shape of the addition of metal springs to the aerials on shipboard for the purpose of acting as shock absorbers, thus overcoming to a great degree the tendency of this delicate instrument to be put out of service when the vessel experiences a severe shock either from torpedo or accident. Heretofore it has been necessary to take the aerials down when the vessel is loading because of the movement and vibration in the masts caused by the use of the derricks.

The Star Spangled Banner.

Oh! say can you see by the dawn's early light,
What so proudly we hail'd at the twilight's last gleaming,
Whose stripes and bright stars, thro' the perilous fight,
O'er the ramparts we watch'd were so gallantly streaming;
And the rockets' red glare, the bombs bursting in air,
Gave proof thro' the night that our flag was still there;
Oh! say, does that star spangled banner yet wave,
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave!

On the shore, dimly seen thro' the mist of the deep,
Where the foe's haughty host in dread silence reposes;
What is that which the breeze, o'er the towering steep,
As it fitfully blows, half conceals, half discloses?
Now it catches the gleam of the morning's first beam,
In full glory reflected, now shines in the stream,
'Tis the star spangled banner, oh! long may it wave,
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave!

Oh! thus be it ever when freemen shall stand,
Between their lov'd home and the war's desolation,
Blest with vict'ry and peace, may the heav'n rescued land,
Praise the Pow'r that hath made and preserved us a nation,
Then conquer we must, for our cause it is just,
And this be our motto, "In God is our trust."
And the star spangled banner in triumph shall wave,
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave!

Haskell Coffin

New Government Poster.

"The Appeal of Victory for Thrift", the first of the new Government posters designed to encourage thrift in the United States, is being distributed by the Savings Division of the Treasury Department. The poster is the work of the noted artist, Haskell Coffin, whose war posters figured in many of the governments war drives.

The painting represents a winged Victory, with lowered sword, bearing in her up-raised hand a branch of palm. The painting is an artist's protest against the ugliness and horror of war, and represents his conception of the beauty and tenderness of peace. The picture bears the legend: "Share in the victory, save for your Country, save for yourself. Buy War Savings Stamps".

"It was my desire," said Mr. Coffin, "to draw a Victory with sweetness and tenderness, emerging triumphant from conflict in a noble cause. I sought to make a lyric painting, to be used in some constructive movement. I did not want to do a vain and glorious Victory, rejoicing in death and horror. I am delighted that this picture is to be used by the Government to further thrift".

There is also a story back of the palm of peace. Mr. Coffin went to a florist's shop to purchase this palm, but when the florist learned to what use it was to be put, he refused to accept any money for the branch, saying that he gladly contributed it to so important cause.
