

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

Mrs. W. Vernon Goldshall, of Oxford, Ohio, is on a visit among relatives and friends in Penns Valley.

A Children's Day service will be rendered in the United Evangelical church, in this place, on Sunday evening.

A carload of Larro dairy feed just in. Larro is a real milk producer. Try it. —R. D. Foreman, Center Hall, adv.

The Potter township school board expect to elect teachers for the next term at a meeting on Friday evening.

Shannon Booser left for Chicago, Ill., last week, and will remain for some time with his brother, Ralph C. Booser.

The Booser and Smith auto agency has delivered two Buick touring cars to Jacksonville parties within the past two weeks.

David Bohn, of Linden Hall, was a caller at this office on Saturday for the purpose of boosting his subscription ahead a year.

Rev. W. R. Jones, of Lumber City, Clearfield county, visited his parents at the local Reformed parsonage during the past week.

Mrs. T. C. Adams, of Niagara Falls, New York, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hoy, on the Kennedy farm, west of Centre Hall.

Tiling scattered along the roadside from Pleasant Gap to Bellefonte indicates that the state road construction work is soon to begin.

Misses Marie and Pearl Kurtz, who taught school the past term at Northampton, are at their home at the Lutheran parsonage for the summer.

Be real generous, Mr. Citizen, when you are approached for funds to defray the expenses for the welcoming home of our boys. Dig down deep for a big piece.

Otto Bailey, of Boston, Massachusetts, expects to arrive in Centre Hall during the week of July 4th for a two weeks' vacation at the homes of his brother and sister.

Mrs. Erdman West and little son Erdman expect to return to their home in New Brunswick, New Jersey, next week, after having spent four weeks with Mrs. West's parents here.

Some grass was cut beginning of the week, and by the latter part of the week many farmers in the valley will be right in the midst of haymaking. The crop will be a heavy one.

Miss Bertha Miller is enjoying her first vacation at her home in Tusseyville since accepting a position under the federal government, at Washington, D. C., early in the year.

Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Fetterolf, their son-in-law, William Barrett, and two children, Paul and Edna, all of Lewis town, spent Sunday with Mr. Fetterolf's nephew, William Fetterolf, below Centre Hall.

Mrs. Catharine Bradford had the misfortune to fall while descending the stairs at the home of her son, Clyde Bradford, one day last week, and sustained such injuries that she has been unable to walk since.

Reports come from a good many sections in Pennsylvania that the rank growth of wheat has lodged, which will hinder developing of the berry. The loss from this cause will be considerable on a good many farms.

Grange Park is surely a most delightful place. The shade trees—most of them maple—are beautiful in their rich foliage and symmetry. No town in our class in all Pennsylvania has access to a park of such size, beauty and convenience.

It is not too early to plan your decorations for August 2. Every dwelling house, business place, church, school house and public building in Centre Hall and Potter township should be appropriately decorated with the stars and stripes.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Emery and family, accompanied by Mrs. Ralph E. Dinges and two daughters, motored to Union county on Sunday and brought home with them Edith Emery, a niece of Mr. Emery's, who will remain at the Emery home for some time.

On Monday, B. D. Brisbin and daughter, Mrs. George Robertson, started for the latter's home in Hartford, Connecticut, by auto. This is the third time the trip has been undertaken, and is positive proof of Mr. Brisbin's staying qualities, despite his three score years and ten.

Messrs. J. H. Bitner and J. E. Bitner, of Milroy, were in Centre Hall on Thursday evening, on business. The former is a clerk in Zook's store, while the latter is engaged in farming. The young men have many friends on this side of the Seven Mountains who are always glad to greet them.

Penns Cave had a large number of visitors on Sunday, mostly auto parties from a distance. The two cave boats were crowded with passengers for the greater part of the day. All about the cave property groups of visitors picnicked and seemed to enjoy themselves in the beauty of the natural scenery about the premises.

"Jack" Hosterman and Daniel Smith are enjoying boy scout life under a tent pitched on the new school grounds, to the rear of the Reformed church. The boys have been sleeping out nights but were not prepared for the cool nights which suddenly came upon them, and in the early hours of Monday morning "Jack" effected an entrance through an upstairs window at the home of his grandfather, Dr. G. W. Hosterman, for "more bed cover".

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

Messrs. B. D. Brisbin and C. F. Emery have had their touring cars renovated so that they now have the appearance of new cars.

Mrs. Robert F. Williams, of Lemont, is caring for her aged father, Thomas Grove, of near Centre Hall, who has been in ill health for some time.

Try Larro feed on your cows and note the difference. Nothing produces quite the same results. A carload just in.—R. D. Foreman, Center Hall, adv.

Joseph Lutz is assisting Harry Clevestine, of Bellefonte, during the big days—Thursday and Friday—in supplying the "eats" for the big crowd.

Mrs. H. R. Brungart and son, Rishel, have returned to their home in Pittsburgh after a two weeks' visit with her mother, Mrs. M. L. Rishel, at the W. H. Sinkabine home at Penn Hall.

Every Red Cross member, of the local auxiliary, is urgently requested to march in the parade, June 26th, at Bellefonte. The parade will form at the residence of Miss Mary Blanchard and march as a unit.—Chairman.

Harry Miller, for a number of years employed at the Centre Hall flouring mill, expects to move to Spring Mills where he will be employed as miller for the new firm of Dennis and Fetterolf, successors to Allison Bros.

An airplane which came up the valley on Monday afternoon, performed a few stunts above Centre Hall, just before passing from view across Nittany mountain. A few flip-flops and a loop-the-loop were pulled off with the grace of a bird.

A new barn is about to be erected on the Tomhave-Goodling farm, tenanted by Irvin Shuey, above Centre Hall. John F. Treaster sawed most of the lumber for the new structure, and practically all is ready for the carpenters. The old barn was razed in May.

Dr. J. C. Moyer, the famous oculist of Scranton, will be at the home of Dr. Eva Roan, at 522 East College Ave., State College, on July 4th, 5th, and 6th. He treats diseases of the eye, removes cataracts, tonsils and adenoids. Anyone desiring his services, call Dr. Roan's office on Bell phone.

The air-line mail service appears to have been put in working order again. Planes from the east and west have been flying over Centre Hall daily, with Bellefonte as their objective. One morning recently the west-bound mail plane, coming from New York, landed at Bellefonte at 7 o'clock in the morning and put off a small amount of mail.

Gohl, Rinkenbach and Rouse, the eyesight specialists of Harrisburg, will be in Centre Hall on Thursday of next week—July 3rd. They have established a permanent office at Centre Hall and for nearly a year have given perfect satisfaction in the fitting of glasses in this place. If your eyes trouble you, don't fail to see them during their one day's stay here.

Germany Will Sign Friday.

The German delegation will sign the peace treaty to-morrow (Friday) afternoon, at Versailles.

TUSSEYVILLE.

Mrs. Henry Moyer is ill at the home of her daughter, Mrs. William Rockey.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Martz and daughter spent Sunday at Huntingdon.

Mrs. Maria Wagner is spending some time with her son, Samuel Wagner, at Boalsburg.

The Children's Day service in the U. Ev. church, on Sunday evening was well attended.

Arthur Holderman, of Colyer, moved to the Adam Krumrine house, on Monday, which he purchased some time ago.

Rev. William R. Jones, of Lumber City, filled his father's appointment in the Union church here on Sunday morning.

Visitors at the William Rockey home, on Sunday, were the following: Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Rickert, of Dewart; Mrs. George Lee, of Lemont; on Wednesday, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Horner, of State College, were guests of the Rockey family.

Find for Autograph Fiends.

The visitors' book at the Hotel Majestic or the Hotel Astoria, at Paris, is an interesting record of the signatures of well-known men. Nearly everyone who is anyone has written his name in one or the other and besides being a proof positive of the universal illegibility of the writing of celebrities the books would be worth their weight in gold to autograph fiends. It has been suggested that when the conference is over and the various British, French, United States, Italian, Siamese, Japanese, Russian, Czech-Slovak, Polish, and other celebrities scatter to their own places, the books might be put to auction, a page at a time, to help to defray the expenses.

No Bride, No Wedding.

The only serious fault of the bride-to-be was that she was never known to be on time. Every place she went she was late, and it had gotten to be such an old story that even the minister, knowing of her falling, attempted to remind her of it at the wedding rehearsal.

"You know," he said, "the wedding ceremony is at 8 o'clock sharp; you must be here on time."

She looked up at the clergymen with a twinkle in her eye.

"Well, there is one thing—this wedding cannot go on very well without me, can it?"

And the clergyman had to admit that she had the best of him.

JUDGE HALTS AN ATTACK ON FORD

WITNESS WHO CALLS MANUFACTURER "ROTTEN AMERICAN" DRAWS COURT'S WRATH.

PROPAGANDIST TAKES STAND

Says Ford Told Him World War Was Started By Bankers and That He Knew Who They Were.

Mt. Clemens, Mich.—The Chicago Tribune is now in the third week of its attempt to prove Henry Ford an anarchist and to demonstrate, to the satisfaction of the jury which is hearing the testimony in the $1,000,000 libel suit, that there was no libel in the now famous editorial which provoked the present court action.

Wood Becomes Cautious.

From the testimony of Mexican border residents who told of the bandit raids in Texas, New Mexico and Arizona, The Tribune has turned to witnesses who talked with Mr. Ford both before and after the United States entered the war. Henry A. Wise Wood, a preparedness propagandist from New York, was called to the stand to testify to Mr. Ford's attitude previous to 1917. He said he found the manufacturer a "rotten American."

On the other hand Willis J. Abbott, a New York Journalist, testified that after the United States entered the war he visited Mr. Ford and went through the great Ford factories which were turning out enormous quantities of war material without profit to their principal owner. "I thought him one of the most militant Americans I had ever met," said the witness.

Claim Ford Was "Converted".

The evident intention of The Tribune is to contrast these apparently conflicting attitudes and to claim that Mr. Ford was brought to a sense of his duty by the criticism of The Tribune. The remark of Tribune counsel that "Henry Ford is not the only man who has changed his course as a result of criticism," is significant in this connection.

A definite ruling from the court on the extent to which evidence of the unpreparedness of the United States for war is material, has cleared away the doubts of past weeks and has made the path for the remainder of the trial fairly clear.

"I am of the opinion," the court ruled, "that the amount of preparedness Henry Ford believed is not material. Whether Henry Ford sought to interfere with or nullify the efforts of the government to prepare to the extent it conceived necessary, whether that preparedness was much or little, adequate or inadequate, is I think relevant."

Must Prove Ford Un-American.

In other words, the defense must show that Mr. Ford attempted to embarrass the government in what it conceived to be necessary steps for the protection of this country. The mere fact that he opposed militarism and fought it to the limit of his strength, before the adoption of armed force for the purpose of national defense became the settled policy of the government, will not be material.

The testimony of Mr. Wise Wood, who as a strong advocate of preparedness was naturally bitterly opposed to Mr. Ford's policies, contained so much animus that Judge Tucker called a halt in the recital to warn the witness that his line of comments were out of place and must be discontinued.

Mr. Wood, it developed, had visited Mr. Ford while on a speaking tour. It evidently was his intention to attempt to convert the manufacturer to a belief in a great army and navy. He informed Mr. Ford, so the testimony ran, that Germany was likely to invade the United States and that Japan menaced us from the west.

Mr. Ford's comment, said Mr. Wood, was "Oh, you're full of Eastern scare gas."

Bankers Blamed For War.

Mr. Ford declared also, the witness testified, that the world war was started by two great bankers, that he knew who they were and that he intended to draw their teeth before he finished with them. Speaking along the same line, Mr. Ford was said to have made the declaration that the revolution in Mexico, which resulted in raids into the United States, was staged by financial interests who hoped to bring about intervention.

"I know who they are too," Mr. Ford is said to have stated.

Mr. Wood, it appears, pleaded earnestly with Mr. Ford in an endeavor to persuade him that the United States was exceedingly vulnerable and that there was immediate danger that some nation would step in and conquer us. But the only satisfaction he got was Mr. Ford's laughing retort, "Oh, you're full of scare gas."

Under cross-examination Mr. Wood admitted that he was not aware that a number of men who were associated with him in his preparedness propaganda were making great sums of money out of the European war.

The probabilities are that the defense will consume at least another week and that the trial will last until the end of July.

HOME-MAKING NOT SO EASY

Housewife Seems to Be Right When She Condemns Ideas Formulated by the Theorists.

"I am always amused," said the housewife, according to the New York Evening Post, "at the proposition we so often read and hear that munition and factory girls enter domestic service. The theorists seem to imagine that such a change can be accomplished right about face—overnight, in the twinkling of an eye. Good housework, of the sort that should be our standard, is not so easy as all that. While I don't consider that housework requires lifelong training, yet never have I taken a girl from a factory who knew the difference between a cloth for washing dishes and one for wiping floors. As a rule a factory girl is ignorant of the simplest sanitary essentials that stand for home making. Cooking she may be taught, and cleaning she may learn, but the basic principles and habit are not picked up so readily. Many a time have I said to a maid: 'Had you gone to kindergarten you would never have piled your dishes and saucers like that.' It was at a kindergarten conference in California, you may recall, where it was said that no convicted criminal in that state had had kindergarten training. Besides their uncertain help in the homes of others think how wanting in their own homes—when they get them—these young factory girls will be—unless they pick up considerably more knowledge about domestic ways and means."

HAS SOMETHING OF A JOB

Bill Dudley and eleven other pinocchio players who are members of a progressive pinocchio club left their South side homes to go to Beech Grove the other night. While at Fountain square waiting for the Beech Grove car Bill and Joe Beck got too far away from the car to catch it and the other ten went to Beech Grove. Then Bill got an idea and he and Beck stole home to where Bill's car rested—for his wife won't let him take it out after dark. They opened the garage door noiselessly, pushed the car out and down the street for a block and then stepped on the starter. They got to Beech Grove before the rest of the club did.

Bill and his friend Beck drove home after the club meeting and repeated the performance in getting the car back in the garage. Then he went into the house. Presently the crowd came along and yelled at Bill through the window. Of course, that entailed explanations on Bill's part to his wife as to how he got home first. The other members of the club say Bill has not yet been able to explain to his wife how he beat them home.—Indianapolis News.
