THE DEATH RECORD.

SHADOW.—Death came very suddenly to Mrs. Sarah Anna Shadow at her home at Colyer on Monday morning. Since the death of her husband, nine years ago, Mrs. Shadow lived alone, excepting that a grand niece or nephew would remain with her for short periods of time. On Monday morning Mrs. Shadow appeared in her usual health and was at her task of washing the breakfast dishes. Her little grandniece, Alice Ward, was on the front porch at the house when she heard "Grandma" Shadow cough very hard, at the same time attempting to call. Running into the kitchen the little girl found the aged lady in a stooping position, one hand in the dishwasher, her head bowed, and leaning against the sink—dead.

Deceased was seventy-eight years old May 7th, last, and suffered with a complication of diseases. She was a daughter of the late Rev. Daniel Rishel and was born in Potter township. She was a kind and affectionate old lady and will be greatly missed. She was a member of the Evangelical church and was a consistent member. Three children survive: William Shadow, of Chicago, Ill.; Howard of State College, and Mrs. Mary Treaster, of Colyer. Also one sister, Mrs. Anna Stover, of Berrien Springs, Mich.

Funeral services will be held this (Thursday) morning at ten o'clock in the old Evangelical church near Tusseyville. Interment in the cemetery connected with that church.

TRAXLER.—Harry Traxler, son of John and the late Susie Traxler, died at nine o'clock on Wednesday morning of last week, at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Reitz, at Boalsburg, following a month's illness with leakage of the heart, aged seven years and eleven months. Just about four months ago his mother died at her home in Welland, Canada, and since that time the boy had been making his home with his grandparents, who, with his father, have the sympathy of their many friends in their bereavement. The funeral was held at ten o'clock Friday morning. Rev. Brown conducted the services and burial was made in the Boalsburg cemetery.

How Use of Autos Has Increased.

The extent to which the use of automobiles has increased in Pennsylvania is evidenced in figures announced on Friday by the State Highway department. There were approximately 300,000 more pneumatic tired vehicles in use July 1, 1919, than there were July 1, 1914. Receipts from all sources July 1, 1919, were approximately $3,330,000 greater than on July 1, 1914. Total receipts from automobile license registrations from January 1, to July 1, 1919, were $1,667,295. While registrations of pneumatic tired vehicles July 1, 1919, were four and one-half times greater than July 1, 1914, the registrations of solid tired vehicles July 1, 1919, was nearly seven times that of July 1, 1914. Four times as many tractors have been licensed July 1, 1919, as on July 1, 1914.

The number of motorcycles has nearly doubled in this period. There are almost three times as many dealers in automobiles. There are seven times as many operators in July 1, 1919, as on July 1, 1914. Three times as many automobile drivers' licenses have been issued in Penna. for 1919 has not ceased by any means. It is expected that the total receipts for the year ending December 31, will reach $5,000,000.

The number of licenses issued to pneumatic tired vehicles by the State Highway department's Automobile Division to July 1, 1919, was 373,623, that however is not the highest license tag. Tag numbers are now approaching 378,000, the last number issued up to July 1, being 377,399. The difference between the number registrations and the last license tag issued, is accounted for through duplications and tags not issued for various reasons, such as lost shipments and things of that sort.

"And There Wasn't the Slightest Smell from Dead Rats."

Writes John Simpkins, farmer of Annandale, N. J.: "Rats were costing me hundreds yearly; tried dogs, ferrets, poison, could not get rid of them. Bought $1.00 pkg. of RAT-SNAP (5 cakes). Used half, not a live rat since. Dead ones aplenty. I like RAT-SNAP because after killing rats it dries them up—leaves no smell." Three sizes 25c, 50c, $1.00. Sold and guaranteed by C. M. Smith, Centre Hall; W. C. Meyer, Spring Mills, Pa.
