

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

John M. Luse built a new garage on his home premises.

Mrs. R. G. McClellan and two children, of Linden Hall, were pleasant callers at this office on Saturday.

Local huckleberry parties are gathering the berries this week, which appear quite plentiful on the mountains.

Mrs. Julius Strohmeier and daughter Catherine, of Philadelphia, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Strohmeier, in this place.

J. S. Getchell, of Greensburg, spent a few days the past week with his family at the home of Squire and Mrs. Cyrus Brungart.

J. M. Moyer, late landlord of the Old Fort hotel, was taken to a Baltimore hospital recently by his son, Milfin R. Moyer, of Rebersburg, for treatment.

Mr. and Mrs. Stotler Claycomb, of Cresson, Miss Cunningham and Mr. Way of State College, were an auto party who stopped for a short time on Sunday with Mrs. H. J. Lambert, aunt of Mrs. Claycomb.

Mr. and Mrs. John Ammerman, the latter better known as Miss Mary Stump, have moved from Centre Hall to Bellefonte where Mr. Ammerman is employed by the American Lime and Stone company.

The continued rains are gradually tearing to pieces the road through Centre Hall. In its present condition speed signs are superfluous, for no auto driver would dare risk a fifteen-mile gait driving through the holes.

Mrs. Irvin Stover, of Philadelphia, who has been visiting her brother, Geo. Seanson, at Linden Hall, as well as other relatives in the valley and at Yeagerstown for the past several weeks, was a caller at this office on Tuesday.

Last Wednesday the section of road between Axemann and Bellefonte was closed off to permit rebuilding it into a permanent State highway, and people wishing to travel to Bellefonte from Centre Hall need to detour at Axemann, turning to the right.

C. E. Wright, of Lock Haven, of the sales department of the Atlantic Refining Company, was in Centre Hall over Monday night, doing business with the local dealers in petroleum products. He is a young man of pleasing manner and knows his business thoroughly.

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Meyer, newlyweds, stopped off at Centre Hall on Saturday morning enroute to Dauphin county where they are spending a short honeymoon. Mr. Meyer is a caller at this office. The happy couple were making the trip in a fine Metz roadster.

Mrs. A. J. Musser, son Fred and daughter Betty, of Clearfield, from Saturday until Sunday were guests of Mrs. Musser's sister, Mrs. O. F. Funk, in Centre Hall. They came here in their handsome Franklin car, Master Fred being at the wheel, and although only fourteen years of age, he handles a car like an expert.

Jesse C. McClenahan, of Potters Mills, who operates his two-ton truck on state highway construction work, recently purchased a handsome new motorcycle with side car, which he uses in going to and from his work. Mr. McClenahan has been working on state road near Altoona, and with his speedy motorcycle he is now able to come home more frequently without losing much time.

Hon. Charles E. Buery, of Philadelphia, is one of the commissioners on Armenian and Syrian relief work, and sailed for the east a few days ago. Mr. Buery covered these countries during the war. He will be recalled by many of the readers of this item as having spoken on the Armenian question in the Presbyterian church in this place. He is a son-in-law of Dr. W. E. Fischer, of Shamokin.

A number of bills have been mailed subscribers who are in arrears with their subscription to this paper, within the past week. Please remember that while everything else has doubled and trebled in price, your home paper still goes to you at the same old rate. This rate, however, can only be maintained provided that every subscription is paid up. Will you please look at your label now and see if you are in good standing, and if you are not, will you kindly remit the amount due? We'll thank you.

The rain on Saturday afternoon seemed to take delight in chasing one farmer from the field and allowing another in an adjoining field to go about his work without getting wet. This is really how the rain acted in the vicinity of Earlstown and Tusseyville. Farmer Morris Burkholder, on the Spayd farm, was nearly drenched while working potatoes and water stood in the rows, while right across the road farmer H. W. Frantz was able to continue his work under a comparatively clear sky. At Tusseyville farmers were hauling in grain. The same weather conditions seemed to prevail in other parts of the valley.

J. Roland Keller, formerly of Potter township, and now of Mont Clare, Montgomery county, and John Frick, of Phoenixville, motored to Centre Hall on Tuesday. Mr. Keller for several years past has been a car inspector with the P. R. R. at Pottstown, but finding the work to be too arduous, has quit and has accepted a position with the Universal Motor Economy Co. of Pottstown, manufacturers of the "Vitalic Regulator" a device which when placed on the manifold of auto engines, saves gas and increases mileage. Mr. Keller and Mr. Frick are here for a few days, hoping to secure a local agent for the device.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

Cleveland Mitterling is gathering in a carload of milch cows for shipment to the eastern market.

Wanted.—75 to 100 shoats, ten weeks to five months old. Will pay market price. See Ed. Crawford, Centre Hall, adv. 2t.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Sidney Rossman and son Guy, of Tyrone, visited the former's brother, Daniel Rossman, and family, near Tusseyville, last Friday.

Messrs. S. S. Brown and Robert and Brown McNitt, of Milroy, made a trip to Centre Hall on Wednesday. Mr. Brown took occasion to boost his subscription to the Reporter ahead into 1921.

Mrs. Isabel M. Bible and granddaughter, Miss Marion Bible, of Centre Hill, have been visiting relatives and friends in Bellefonte and Altoona the past two weeks and expect to return home next week.

Mrs. D. C. Bohn, of Boalsburg, was a caller at this office on Thursday and ordered the Reporter sent to her son, Carl H. Bohn, at Akron, Ohio, where the young man has been employed for the past several months.

William Bailey, who is journeying through the west, left Denver, Colorado, last week for Cheyenne, Wyoming, and after a short stay there expects to go to Portland, Oregon, and from there to San Francisco and wind up at Los Angeles, California. "Bill" writes, "This is some life, indeed."

I. O. O. F. Hall Association.

The semi-annual meeting of the I. O. O. F. hall association will be held Wednesday evening of next week. All members are requested to attend. By order of President.

LINDEN HALL.

Dr. and Mrs. Gearhart, of Stroudsburg, are spending their vacation with Mrs. Gearhart's parents.

Albert Carper, accompanied by his nephew, Russell Brooks, of Pitcairn, came home to assist with the harvesting.

Miss Mary Powell, of Wilkes Barre, and Miss Lucille K. Ryan, of Plymouth, are spending a few weeks with their friend, Miss Edwina Wieland.

Mrs. Ross Gregory, of Petersburg, and Mrs. Krebs, of State College, spent Tuesday of last week at the J. H. Ross home.

Paul Blazer, of Selinsgrove, is spending his vacation with his brothers, Clarence and John Blazer, at their home on Cedar Creek.

Richard, the little son of Mrs. Anna Slack, fell, on Monday, while playing in the yard at the home of his grandfather, J. W. Tressler, and broke his right arm at the wrist.

Mrs. Samuel Goss and son Jack Goss, of Reading, were guests last week at the J. H. Ross home, leaving from here to spend a week at the Goss home at Pine Grove Mills.

Miss Genevieve and Isabel Wieland, of Hughesville, spent last week at the home of their uncle, here. Their father, W. S. Wieland, stopped off on a business trip Friday and accompanied his daughters home Saturday.

SPRING MILLS.

Mrs. Bowersox, of New York, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Andrew Rote.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. James Faust, on July 16th, a daughter.

Miss Ruth Smith, of Centre Hall, has been elected to teach the Grammar grade.

Archie Condo, of Howard, who returned recently from France, spent Sunday with relatives.

Miss Elva Limbert is visiting her sister, Mrs. G. C. Decker.

Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Burris, of Burham, spent Saturday evening with friends.

Quite a number of people attended the funeral of Harvey Smith, at Penn Hall, on Saturday.

THE DEATH RECORD.

ARCHEY.—Johnson Archey, of Graysville, passed away suddenly at his home Sunday night, 13th, of neuralgia of the heart. He retired in good health and at eleven o'clock his wife, upon retiring, found him dead. He was a son of Geo. W. Archey, and was born forty years ago. He was a carpenter by trade, and one of the best known men in Spruce Creek valley. His wife and one daughter survive. Burial was made last Friday in the Graysville cemetery.

Prominent Hotelman Dead.

William Nathan Baker, for twenty-five years proprietor of the old Baker House, at Lewisburg, died at his home on North Second street, Friday night at 9 o'clock from an illness lasting six weeks, caused by a fractured hip.

Mifflin County's Mighty Hunter is Dead.

John J. Gantz, 95 years old and champion wild game hunter of Mifflin county, died at Lawistown on Tuesday, after a two-days' illness from paralysis.

At the opening of the civil war Gantz walked 63 miles to Harrisburg to enlist as a volunteer in the Union army. The examining physician rejected him, saying he had galloping consumption and would not live to reach the battle front. He was known as the champion hunter of the Allegheny Mountains. When a young man he shot as high as 500 wild turkeys in one season. Only a year ago he shot a wild turkey on the Mifflin county mountains.

THOSE "NEW" LITTLE GIRLS

Their Grownup Ways Started Old-Fashioned Woman on a Pessimistic Train of Thought.

The Woman Who Sees had just bought a new veil and had hurried into the dressing room of the shop to adjust it, says the New York Sun. Crowds of women were edging their way to the mirrors to preen themselves. She managed to squirm into a space just vacated by a gorgeous creature in purple velvet. As she glanced into the mirror she noticed two youngsters standing beside her. They were both sweet-looking little things. "Not a day over fourteen," she murmured to herself, and then started with wonder. The elder of the two pulled out a tiny vanity case and proceeded to powder the tip of her pert little nose. She next arranged a curl over her shoulder to its very best advantage, while her companion stood back admiringly. Then she preened her eyebrow with the tips of her fingers and smiled complacently. She was pretty and she knew it.

"Are you going to the frat meeting Monday evening, Dot?" queried her companion. Dot raised an eyebrow and drawled nonchalantly, "Perhaps, dearie; it depends entirely on the mood I'm in." "That was the straw that broke the camel's back. The woman gave a convulsive gasp and literally bolted. Moods! She was amused and yet it was pitiful. She is not an advocate of corporal punishment, but she would have enjoyed spanking those youngsters. What kind of women will they make? The woman is puzzled.

CAESAR'S WORK IN GERMANY

Record of Famous Roman Conqueror When He Drove the Teutons Out of Flanders.

Both the American army of occupation and the German people are anxious to know just how long the khaki-clad visitors are to remain. Since no intimation comes from those in authority both of them might recall that one Julius Caesar drove the Teutons out of Flanders, in fact, he mentions a victory at Mont Auxois, says Kansas City Star. He, too, followed them right up to the Rhine, built a bridge in ten days, crossed over and took possession of the valley on the "right bank," spread out his legions to police the "treacherous inhabitants." That was in 50 B. C., and the Roman army remained 400 years. All that time flotillas of galleys were cruising up and down the Rhine. The army of occupation put the Germans to building bridges, aqueducts and castles under its direction, and the ruins of these great works now can still be seen in the valley of the Moselle. The presence of the Romans was a blessing to the Germans, however, for they pursued a liberal policy toward them, after having collected a tribute of 40,000,000 sesterces or approximately $1,500,000 for their treachery, taught them to read, to take a bath and to shave.

"Earthquake Proof" Hotels.

A chain of "earthquake proof" hotels, sufficiently magnificent to win the approval of fastidious South Americans, is to be constructed immediately by the United Hotels company, which already operates many hostleries on this half of the continent. Sites in seven countries—Chile, Peru, Brazil, Uruguay, Paraguay, Bolivia and Colombia—have been selected, and the first hotel—palatial, to judge from the architect's drawing—will be built at Lima, at a cost of $2,000,000. This is one of the largest projects ever undertaken by a hotel syndicate, and both the United States government and the South American governments interested will afford co-operation. The hotel at Lima will be one of reinforced concrete, supported by enormous cement foundations, capable, the company believes, of offering good resistance to the disturbances of the earth's surface to be expected in those regions.—New York Evening Post.

Walk for Health.

Girls and women who walk to and from their places of employment do not, as a rule, suffer from headaches or other kindred ills. Indeed, excellent authority assures us that walking will do more to keep the average person in good physical trim than all the high-priced tonics on the market. Of course, where one has to ride several miles to one's office or workshop, going "afoot" is out of the question, but the young woman who lives within reasonable distance of her place of employment should give street cars and trains a wide berth.

Antiprohibitionist.

In little Marie's home the advantages and disadvantages of the "wet" and "dry" have been discussed with much fervor.

When, during Sunday morning service, Marie demanded a drink and her mother informed her quietly, but firmly, that she could not have one, Marie inquired anxiously in a stage whisper: "Can't I never have another drink, now that the country's gone dry?"

Kettle Brings $30,000.

A Japanese kettle, once owned by Kikyu, brought $30,000 when the Matuzawa collection of antiques was sold at public auction in the Tokyo Art club not long ago. Connoisseurs to the number of 500 attended from Osaka, Kioto, Klobe and Tokyo, and the competition was very keen, according to the Japan Bulletin.

"And There Wasn't the Slightest Smell from Dead Rats."

Writes John Simpkins, farmer of Annandale, N. J.: "Rats were costing me hundreds yearly; tried dogs, ferrets, poison, could not get rid of them. Bought $1.00 pkg. of RAT-SNAP (5 cakes). Used half, not a live rat since. Dead ones plenty. I like RAT-SNAP because after killing rats, it dries them up—leaves no smell. Three sizes 25c, 50c, $1.00. Sold and guaranteed by C. M. Smith, Centre Hall; W. C. Meyer, Spring Mills, Pa.

Reports for July 1 show a decline in the prospect for a mammoth wheat crop in the southeastern counties of Pennsylvania as former reports indicated, due to rust, fly and other causes. In other sections of the State the outlook is about up to the high mark of June 1.
