Important Food Laws.

The most important food laws passed at the recent session of the Legislature and approved, says James Eoust, Director of the Bureau of Foods, Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, are the Acts which relate to cold storage products and rotten eggs.

The Cold Storage Law lengthens the time for storage to twelve months on all products covered by the new Act. It further provides that it shall be unlawful to represent and advertise as "fresh" any article of food which has been held in cold storage for a period of thirty days or over.

The Amendment to the Act of March 11, 1909, prohibiting the sale of eggs which are decayed or partly decayed and unfit for food, was approved by the Governor on May 23rd, 1919, which requires that all egg opening establishments shall take out a license, and pay a fee of $50.00 per year, license to be issued by the Director of the Bureau of Foods.

No rotten eggs can be opened, under the new law, in the same building where good eggs are opened; neither can eggs unfit for food be removed from the shell in establishments where food products are prepared or manufactured. In other words, good eggs for food purposes and bad eggs for tanning purposes must be opened in separate buildings.

The new egg law further provides that all rotten eggs when removed from the shell, must be placed in containers painted a bright red color, and such red colored containers must not be used for wholesome eggs nor be found in establishments where food products are prepared.

$500 in Cash Prizes for Overseas Experiences.

Nearly every lad who went overseas has an interesting story to tell—pathetic, amusing, or tender—of some child in France. Perhaps it is little Pierre who crept in to eat with him at mess; or Marceline whom he found, white-faced and terror-stricken, in the cellar of a ruined house; or Hedri, whose father was killed in the trenches and whose mother was taken to Germany by the enemy; or it may have been Aimee who insisted upon being adopted by the "Americaine." At any rate, there is always a story and a child.

For such stories as these, or simple ones telling of the friendship between the French child and the American soldier, 175 cash prizes are offered. Soldiers, sailors, marines, men and women who were in France during the war in any capacity, or their families, sweethearts or friends, are invited to compete for these prizes. Literary ability is not required. Anybody who can write a letter home can write well enough for the purpose of this contest. Conditions of the contest can be secured by writing "The Fatherless Children of France, Room 634, 410 S. Michigan Ave., Chicago." There is no expense attached to entering the contest, which is open to anybody who wants to compete. Mothers, sisters, sweethearts and wives should turn over their letters from Bill or Tom or Jack which they have been so proudly treasuring, and hunt up the references to the little French children. Just some one little incident told simply in a letter may win a prize!
