The water in the borough reservoir became so low on Tuesday that parties at the upper end of town were without water. The Reporter's presses, dependent upon water power, had to be operated by hand. The machine was badly wrecked and Green escaped with a few bruises. He was on his way to Centre Hall to get his employer who had that day driven a new Ford car to this city for delivery.

On Tuesday evening at ten o'clock a large Reo truck loaded with lightning rod fixtures and belonging to a McAllisterville party, stopped at the Boozer gas station for gasoline. The tank was filled while the engine of the car was running and when the tank overflowed the surplus gas was ignited by a spark from the cut-out. In an instant the whole front of the car was in flames. The flames were conquered by throwing chemicals on them, and by the use of a fire extinguisher in the hands of Dr. Longwell, who chanced to come that way. The top of the truck was totally ruined and the front considerably damaged by fire.

ARE NOT REALLY LOCUSTS

Unwelcome Visitors Expected This Year Periodical Cicadas, According to Wisconsin Entomologist.

Be scientific—call the "17-year locust" by its right name, the periodical cicada, and no one will worry about it, says H. F. Wilson, entomologist at the Wisconsin experiment station. Cicadas are common insects, but locusts are reminders of the scourge of locusts in biblical days and the grasshoppers, or true locusts, of the early days in the southwest.

Even the orchard-man's fear of the effect of this particular cicada is not very well founded, judging from the information entomologists have about the insect, for other members of the tribe appear each year and injure the shade and orchard trees in exactly the same way.

The injury is the result of the cicada's laying eggs in the twigs of trees. From the eggs the larvae of the insect hatch. The twig enlarges at that point, growth is interrupted and sooner or later the twig rots and breaks off. The only treatment is to prune off the parts affected. No preventive methods are considered necessary by either horticulturists or entomologists at the station.

Charts of the different broods of the so-called locusts have been prepared by entomologists of the United States department of agriculture, says Mr. Wilson, and they show that the brood expected this year is No. 10. Seventeen years ago it was reported in Wisconsin only in Dane county. The last brood appeared in 1915 and was quite generally scattered over the state.

Made in Germany.

Dr. Arthur Davis, who used to be the Kaiser's dentist, is authority for the statement that the crown prince is the most egotistical person he ever met. As an instance of his conceit the dentist recounts an occurrence in one of the palatial dugouts at the front where captured champagne had been flowing freely for some time.

"Your highness," finally asked a young officer, "who is the greatest of all German generals?"

"I am," promptly retorted the crown prince.

"True, of course," said the brother officer, "but how could you really prove it?"

"I don't have to," retorted the crown prince. "I merely say it, and it is so!"—Minneapolis Tribune.

WASHINGTON WEEKLY CHAT.

The Mondell Bill for farm land for soldiers, which follows the lines recommended by Secretary Lane, has made good headway in the House and is sure of passage when it comes to a vote. It carries a sum of $300,000,000 as working capital. One amendment has been made providing that no conscientious objector can become a beneficiary, and that soldiers are to be favored in administrative positions in connections with the development of the various colonizing projects. Soldiers will find the plan to their liking. It will open the way to work and to homes on land that can be cheaply acquired; it provides for the development of large tracts of land now held by private owners and provides temporary employment for large numbers of discharged soldiers and sailors while the land projects are being developed.

Congress is all at sea and both Houses are in the same boat. The voyage is an unexpected one and the destination is uncertain. There has never been anything like it before. And it has all happened suddenly by the regular schedule being knocked into a cocked hat; in fact, it is as if a volcano had been smoldering for months under the Capitol dome, has quickly belched forth and sent everything scattering. Wilson's letter to the House asking it to forego its recess, was the first quake that was felt. Right on top of that came the avalanche of protests against the steadily rising prices for food. Another big shock was the railroad problem, proposed strike for increase of wages, etc. Things were happening so fast and furious that members began to more than sit up and take notice. They held fast to their seats and began to wonder "What's coming next?" In the Senate the Peace Treaty held no interest. It suddenly became a matter that was too far away from base. The home fires needed quenching. Hurry calls were made for conferences. Clerks and pages began to scout around and gather in absent members. The telegraph and telephone wires began to hum as not for a long time. The old Capitol appeared like an ant hive must look when someone on top of the earth places his foot on the entrance hole. Congress is awake at last. It is hearing the voice of the people, but not with its ear to the ground. Instead, the voice is so loud that it sounds as if it was coming through a megaphone. Recess in the House has been forgotten. Democrats and Republicans are hurrying to revise their programs. Keep your eyes on Congress now if you want a pretty view of fireworks and to see some real good come from them for the benefit of a burdened people.

Citizens of Washington have a vote at last. An enterprising newspaper has opened polls to determine the sentiment in the National Capital regarding the league of nations. Polling places have been established in clubs, hotels, and office buildings. Votes are also accepted by mail. Out of a grand total of 1,345 votes, covering several days, the results were: For the league with reservations, 557; for the league without reservations, 410; against the league, 378.

New work for the Weather Bureau! The Secretary of Agriculture approved the activity that has been added to the work of this branch of his department. It is known as the Highway Weather Service. It will have to do with the making of reports on the conditions of roads from day to day, as well as probabilities of sunshine or storm along them.

Tried out with success in a few States, the service is to be operated throughout the country, on lines similar to forecasting weather. Road information and weather prediction will be given on the same card. This means that an automobilist can consult the weather Bureau card, or call up a local branch, and find out what kind of "going" is ahead of him on his intended route, or he can get that information in the post office of the villages en route, where the cards for the day are always on view. So far twelve States and the District of Columbia have applied for the main roads and bad season service.

MAKE USE OF PRINTER'S INK

Federal Official Urges Necessity of Campaign of Advertising to Attract Attention of Consumers.

"Advertise your business. I owe all my success to printer's ink."

This was the language of P. T. Barnum, and that he was a conspicuous success is generally admitted.

Something of the same sort seems to have struck Washington. Roger W. Babson, director of education service, labor department, has issued a statement urging a campaign of advertising, saying in part: "Prosperity ultimately depends upon the consumer. If there is not a market for goods they will not be produced. Only by advertising can buying power be stimulated, but advertising does stimulate buying power and brings a very direct return to the man who advertises."

It is sound advice. It is also timely. Advertising is the chief auxiliary in trade. It is not the road to success, but success itself. Advertising is to the business man what machinery is to the mechanic.

How can a man know what you want unless you ask for it, or what you have to sell unless you advertise it? "My advice to the merchant," says Mr. Babson, "is this: For your own interest and for the good of the country, increase the advertising appropriation you have made for this year. If it is $20,000, make it $25,000; make it more if you can."

And all must bear in mind that the prosperity of the country means the prosperity of the individual.—New York Telegram.

FORCED TO FINE DOG HERO

But New York Justice Took Into Consideration Animal's Brave Deed in the Past.

Two medals bestowed for bravery, hung from the collar of Jim, a Great Dane, when he appeared in the West side court the other day, charged with having been unmuzzled in public, says the New York World.

Patrolman Joseph B. Ward, attached to the health department, said he had seen Jim in a car without a muzzle. Jim would not let the policeman come near when an attempt to serve the summons was made, Ward testified.

Harry Gilpin, a druggist, told the magistrate about Jim's heroism. Mr. Gilpin and his daughter were asleep in their house one night in 1916, when a fire started. Jim was running up and down outside when the firemen arrived. He failed to make the firemen or the crowd understand what the trouble was. So he darted into the smoke and fire and dragged out first Mr. Gilpin and then Miss Gilpin, both overcome.

For this Jim received the Spiers medal that year and Miss Gilpin gave him another. Recently the Alps club of Riverdale honored him.

"A dog that is as brave as you are deserves consideration," Magistrate Nolan said, "but you weren't muzzled and you resisted the officer. Fine $1."

Jim carried the bill in his mouth to the clerk of the court and took the receipt back to Mr. Gilpin.

What Is a "Single-Cure, Wrapped-Tread" Tire?

It is a tire built by a special process which eliminates the necessity of curing tires under tremendous hydraulic pressure.

Such pressure, used in making ordinary tires, for the sake of quick production, is responsible for the flattening of fibres which results in premature "blow-outs" and limited mileage.

In the "single-cure, wrapped-tread" method, the manufacturer welds together the various "ingredients" of the tire without jamming or displacing a single element. In this way only is it possible to conserve the native strength and resiliency of the fabric which forms the foundation of long-mileage.

It is the "single-cure, wrapped-tread" process that has made the Globe hand-made tire the longest mileage tire ever produced.
