

A LIST OF TENTERS ON GRANGE PARK.

Great Number Enjoying the Week in Their Temporary Canvas Homes.

Grange Park again presents the appearance of a tented city, with its several hundred commodious canvas tents occupied by farmers' families and others. There is a real cozy atmosphere surrounding most of the tent homes, leaving nothing to be desired in the way of comfort and pleasure. Anyone passing by the open doors of a farmer's tent at noon time and gazing upon a six-foot table spread as only a farmer's table is spread in these times, must be impressed with the spirit of contentedness, joy and happiness that pervades the homes of the agricultural class.

The list of tenters is larger than before and many applications were turned down because tents were not available. The 1919 list of tentholders is appended:

ENCAMPMENT & FAIR OPENS WITH BIG CROWD.

Hundreds of Cars on Park Sunday.—Harvest Home Service in Auditorium.

Saturday, the first day of the 46th Encampment and Fair, drew nigh a record-breaking crowd at the park in the evening. The business stands and amusement places did a large business, and as one trader put it, "If this is a sample of what's coming next week, I've no kick coming." This despite the fact that where it took a nickel in former years to buy the bag of "hot roasted peanuts," "hot dog" and orangeade, nothing less than a silver dime would do. Occasionally you will find a stand where the despised nickel will buy as much as in former years, which naturally arouses suspicion of profiteering.

A delightful feature Saturday evening was an open-air musical concert by a sextette of State College musicians who entertained gratuitously a large number with their orchestral selections.

SUNDAY ON THE PARK.

Several hundred automobiles passed onto the picnic grounds on Sunday, greatly augmenting the population which was to be found in the several hundred tents. The day was hot and dusty. Mercury went up to 88 degrees and the atmosphere was dust-laden. Only the refreshment stands were open and perfect quiet and order reigned.

Lady Passenger Accompanies Aviator Budwig to Centre Hall.

Pilot Gilbert Budwig flew over Nittany Mountain, in his Curtiss plane, on Monday morning and landed in one of the Arney fields near the picnic ground. Miss Nancy Hunter, a daughter of "Bob" Hunter, accompanied the birdman and after a few minutes the plane gracefully left the ground and started back for Bellefonte where Mr. Budwig was scheduled for an exhibition flight. Miss Hunter returned with the aviator. She has little fear of flying, as was demonstrated last week when Aviator Budwig looped the loop twelve consecutive times with Miss Hunter as a passenger.

A Pretty Home Wedding.

Sunday at 2 o'clock, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gearhart, at Pine Grove Mills, Miss Helen Gearhart and J. T. McConnell, of Clearfield county, were united in marriage by Rev. L. V. Barber, in the presence of the family and a few invited guests. After the congratulations lunch was served. The newlyweds then departed for the groom's parental home. He saw overseas service as a member of the Boal troop and is not yet discharged. His furlough expires Monday when he will return to Camp Dix. For the present the bride will remain at her parental home.

McElwain-Sourbeck.

Joseph McElwain, of Maringo, and Mrs. Sourbeck, of Lewistown, were united in the holy bonds of wedlock, August 23, by the Baptist minister at Lewistown. The groom is well and favorably known in the western part of Centre county.

Praise for School Man.

In its special edition, date of September 4th, The Grand Prairie News, Stuttgart, Arkansas, has this to say of John Rossman, a native of Gregg township:

Supt. John G. Rossman, who has been at the head of the Stuttgart High School since 1911, has proven a power in this place. He has given his time and strictest attention to the advancement in every department and today our school ranks high and thru his great influence and educational qualities the patrons have voted to adopt the Modified Gary system for the coming school term which begins September the 15th. Mr. Rossman attends summer school each year and makes a thorough study of the work in every department. Too much cannot be said of this able educator and Stuttgart feels proud to have him at the head of this institution.

Centre County had a per capita of .07c for the week ending August 30th, or a total per capita of $2.04.

Every school teacher in Centre county is expected to organize a wide-awake Thrift and Savings Society. Text books are now being prepared by the Treasury Department, at Washington, and will be mailed to every School Teacher in the United States within a very short time. It is of the utmost importance that every pupil attending the Public and Parochial Schools in the Nation should belong to the organization formed in the schools.

The purpose of this great movement—Thrift and Saving—is to make people Savers of money—to teach our people the value of money—how to use it, and how to invest it. "I should think ill of any man who did not leave his children a little better off materially than himself."—Theodore Roosevelt. "Provision for others, in a fundamental responsibility of human life."—President Wilson.

THE DEATH RECORD.

MUSSER.—Mrs. Katharine Musser, widow of the late John Musser, Jr., died Wednesday of last week at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Dr. R. M. Krebs, in Pine Grove Mills.

Her funeral was conducted on Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock from the home of Dr. Krebs by Rev. A. M. Lutton, pastor of the Lutheran church, assisted by Charles T. Aikens, D. D., president of Susquehanna University.

Mrs. Musser was a faithful member of the Lutheran church all her life and her death is mourned by a host of friends, who appreciated her excellent christian character.

She is survived by her children: E. C. Musser, L. D. Musser, and Mrs. Dr. R. M. Krebs, of Pine Grove Mills, and J. Alfred Musser, of Clearfield.

THOMAS.—Miss Mary S. Thomas, a sister of Clifford Thomas, of Potters Mills, died suddenly on Wednesday morning of last week at the home of her sister, Mrs. James Lane, in Bellefonte. Burial was made at Bellefonte on Saturday.

BOALSBURG.

D. W. Meyer is spending sometime at Altoona.

Mrs. J. A. Fortney and daughter Beulah spent Sunday at Millheim.

Cyrus Wagner spent part of last week at his home here.

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Hosterman and family spent Sunday at Philipsburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Benj. Knight, of Tampa, Florida, are visiting relatives here.

Mrs. T. A. Shoemaker, of Wilkinsburg, came to the Boalsburg Tavern on Friday where she will spend some time.

Miss Cathryn Harman and Mr. Close, of Yeagertown, are visiting the former's sister, Mrs. (Rev.) Elmer Brown.

Mrs. Alice Kinsloe and daughter, of Philadelphia, were guests of the formers sister, Mrs. Frank McFarlane, the past week.

Mrs. O. L. Mothersbaugh and grandson, Mac Mothersbaugh, visited at the Keller Mothersbaugh home at Hepburnville.

The schools opened Monday morning with Mr. Thomas, principal; Miss Florence Hazel eighth grade teacher; Miss Bower, Grammar grade; and Miss Emma Rowe, primary.

AARONSBURG.

Mr. and Mrs. Freeman Luse, of West Fairview, spent a week with the latter's sister, Mrs. A. S. Stover.

Henry Kerstetter, of Loganton, is visiting his aged uncle, Cornelius Bower.

Mr. and Mrs. George McKay and daughter Florence, returned to their Philadelphia home last week.

Miss Stella Stamm returned from Atlantic City and with the Charles Wolfe family is camping at Grange Park.

James Fehi, who moved with his parents to Bellevue, Ohio, is visiting his brother Ed, and family.

Rev. Donat and son Nevin went to Williamsport to consult an eye specialist.

Parties from Lewisburg and Youngstown, Ohio, enjoyed a trip to Crystal Spring Park, in the Woodward narrows.

The state forest commission has decided to construct six steel fire towers for observation purposes on state forests in northern and central Pennsylvania and if practicable the work will be let this fall.

HAY CROP IN CENTRE CO. THIS YEAR, 64,868 TONS.

Value of Yield Over a Million Dollars at Present Price.—Above State Average in Yield.

Centre county is credited with 41,850 acres of hay this season in a report just issued by the State Department of Agriculture. The average yield for this county is 1.55 tons to the acre, this figure is higher than the state average. This brings Centre county's hay crop for the year to 64,868 tons, worth at present prices well over one million dollars.

There are twenty-seven counties in the state reporting a greater yield of hay than Centre county, the highest being Bradford county, with 172,415 tons. There are thirty-one counties having a greater acreage in hay. Of the sixty-seven counties in the state twenty-four fall below the average yield. Cambria and Somerset counties have the lowest yield, 1.15 tons to the acre. Lebanon county has the greatest yield, two tons to the acre.

Centre Hall's Spinning Mill.

F. Q. Hartman, of Danville, was in town last week, and gave his personal check in the sum of $250.00 for the plot of ground which was sold to him a few weeks ago by the School Board for the purpose of erecting a spinning mill.

Mr. Hartman has engaged Byron Garis, the local stonemason, to erect the foundation walls, work on which is to begin at once.

"It's an ill wind that doesn't blow some good," is the way Mr. Hartman put it in stating that because of the fact that Centre Hall is the last of the three towns in this county which are having spinning mills erected, a plant of $75,000 value will be put up instead of one of $30,000; or, in other words, twice as large a mill will be placed here as would have been the case had he secured a site on his first visit to Centre Hall.

Gospel Services at Colyer.

There will be gospel services at Colyer, from Saturday evening, Sept. 13th, until Sunday evening, Sept. 21st.

Miss Adlena Behrent, of Paxinos, Pa., will preach once more at this place before she leaves for the West, where she intends to go to a Bible school the coming winter at Cincinnati, O., to prepare for future usefulness in Evangelistic work. She would be glad to have all the people in the surrounding community attend these few last services of the summer before she leaves the state of Pennsylvania.

Huntingdon Business Man Killed in Auto Wreck.

Floyd A. Hazlett, aged 32 years, prominent Huntingdon business man, met instant death last Wednesday morning when he was struck by a train at a point three miles East of Huntingdon. The large Cadillac 8 car in which the unfortunate man was riding alone at the time of tragedy was scattered along the P. R. R. tracks for a quarter mile of the scene of accident.

Mr. Hazlett was a member of the clothing firm of Hazlett Bros. at Huntingdon and was one of that town's most prominent young business men. Death was instantaneous, one blow on the head that he received being sufficient to cause instant death although the body was mutilated. The body was carried on the pilot of the locomotive for nearly half a mile before the engine was stopped.

Cow Sale, Friday, Sept. 12, at Old Fort.

The undersigned will sell at public sale at the home of Thomas Delaney, Old Fort, on FRIDAY, SEPT. 12, a carload of high grade HOLSTEIN COWS; several fresh and balance close springers. Also pure bred Heifer and stock bull.

This is one of the best loads of cattle we have ever shipped to Centre county. They have good udders and teats, and are very easy milkers. This load of cows we bought in Susquehanna county, direct from farmers. No ensilage cows, and all are broken to chains and not used to stanchions.

We have had many loads out of Susquehanna county and never had any that buyers were not pleased with. All they need is feeding, and they will do the work. Susquehanna county cows have taken the lead everywhere, and the reason is that they are not fed heavy. Many are nicely marked as can be seen.

Come and see them sold. Cows can be seen for several days before the sale at the barn of Thomas Delaney. Terms will be made known on day of sale.

Sale starts at 1:00 o'clock P. M., not one minute later, and will be held rain or shine.

L. F. Mayes, auct.

WAR ON PROFITEERS LOWERS FOOD PRICES.

Government Uncovers Hoards and Regulates Sale of Sugar.—Dealers Arrested.

Release of hoards of foodstuff valued at several millions of dollars is already indicated in reports on the Government's campaign against profiteers. Principal among the items thus far reported as having been forced into the market through the activities of district attorneys and special state food commissions are such staples as eggs, butter and sugar. More than 40,000,000 eggs, it is estimated, have already been withdrawn from hoarders who were holding them to influence the market or obtain higher prices.

At least 4,000,000 pounds of butter in excess of normal storage is reported. The recovery of 16,583 bags of wheat is reported from Boston; the Department of Justice has announced that the district attorney in Kansas City has taken over 100,000 pounds of beans, and the district attorney in San Diego, Cal., has uncovered 99,067 pounds of hoarded cheese.

The most startling revelations in the food crisis come from the vicinity of Chicago where profiteering in sugar had been extensively practised up to the time the Government and state authorities intervened. Dealers there had been charging from 12 to 16 cents a pound for sugar. When the Government announcement that 11 cents is a fair price, the quotations in that section of the country have come down generally. At the instance of the district attorney's office warrants were issued for the arrest of officials of the John F. Campbell Company of Chicago. The charge is that the wholesalers had obtained a $40,000 lot of sugar at $9 a hundred weight which they were selling to retailers at $13, making the price to the consumer 4 or 5 cents a pound.

PRICES DECLINING

In Newark, New Jersey, forty wholesalers, warehouse men and packers were summoned before a special session of the Federal Grand Jury to explain the high cost of food and their relation to the present prices being asked. In Ohio, Governor Cox is proceeding against hoarders and arrests are being ordered by both federal and state authorities wherever evidence warrants.

As an evidence of the over-inflation that existed in the markets officials are pointing to drop in prices in many cities where army foods have been placed on sale. This was particularly noticeable in New York and Baltimore. Several staples declined in price as soon as the army supplies became available in those cities. In Patterson, N. J., bacon became appreciably cheaper when it was announced that supplies of this meat placed on the market by the Government would sell at 36 cents a pound. In Denver, Colo., bacon fell from 55 cents and 70 cents a pound to 35 cents, 36 cents and 39½ cents, depending on the grade, when the War Department stocks were offered for sale. It was claimed by consumers in Philadelphia that when the army food was sold there the general market was affected to such an extent that even steak and other meats declined from five to seven cents a pound from their previous levels.

In an agreement reached between the Food Administration and the Department of Justice the Federal Government will again resume control of the sugar market. Licenses will be revoked when it appears that dealers have been profiteering. Sugar, it was announced, should reach the consumer at approximately 11 cents a pound. The United States Board of Sugar Equilization owns practically the entire domestic and Cuban crops and is selling to refiners at approximately seven and a quarter cents a pound.

State Agricultural Notes.

By the use of silage we can maintain twice the number of head of live stock per acre.

One community in Crawford county reports thirty-eight silos where there were only three ten years ago.

The automobile industry employs $30,000,000 people; pays annual wages of $747,000,000; has $1,207,000,000 capital invested; 5,000,000 cars in use.

Dry rot of timber annually destroys a very large number of boards and sticks of timber in buildings and wooden structures. A liberal use of creosote and paint will save much of the loss.

The fungi which causes leaf spot diseases usually winter over in the fallen leaves, and send fresh spores in spring to infect the new leaves. Burning or burying fallen leaves prevent such spring infection to a very large extent.

Pennsylvania corn is in splendid condition; pasture, meadows and truck crops are doing well; apples continue dropping and peaches are rotting on the trees.

There has been a return to real summer weather the past week, with the thermometer registering close to ninety several days.

TOWN AND COUNTY NEWS.

HAPPENINGS OF LOCAL INTEREST FROM ALL PARTS

Go to the polls next Tuesday and vote.

Gregg township, Potter township and Centre Hall borough schools open on Monday next.

Rev. R. P. Miller, of Philipsburg, will fill the local Presbyterian pulpit next Sunday morning, 10:30 o'clock.

Mrs. W. T. Chapman, of Washington D. C., was the guest of Mrs. Mary Shoop for a few days last week.

In order that the Reporter force might enjoy Wednesday afternoon and Thursday at the picnic, this issue was completed Wednesday noon.

Undertakers cheerfully assure the public that funerals will cost more next year. This is a "tip" that the way to save money is to have your funeral this year.

No one should think of building a fire within a mile of any town property so long as the town is so totally without the protection that it is at present. Use horse sense, that's all.

An effort is being made to organize a Post of the American Legion in Centre Hall, eligible members being A. E. F. as well as boys who were in the service on this side of the waters.

Captain W. H. Fry, of Pine Grove Mills, expects to be one of the many Odd Fellows who will be in attendance at their 100th anniversary convention in Baltimore on September 17 and 18th.

Prof. N. L. Bartges and family, who spent the summer months at Rauchtown, Clinton county, returned to their home in Centre Hall last week. Prof. Bartges begins his second term as principal of the public schools.

There will be a congregational meeting after service in the Presbyterian church, next Sunday morning, at which time the matter of extending a call to Rev. L. V. Barber, of Lemont, will be considered. A good attendance is desired.

The House of Lords, built more than twenty years ago on the brow of Nittany Mountain between Centre Hall and Linden Hall, just where the most beautiful view of Penna Valley could be commanded, was torn down last week and the building re-assembled on Muncy Mountain. The ground where it formerly stood is now owned by the new penitentiary, and the building had to go.

A new plan of calling the grand jury to pass upon bills of indictment two weeks in advance of the regular term of criminal court by Judge Bell out in Clearfield county by Judge Bell and District Attorney Arnold. Under this plan court will know in advance what business is to be disposed of and the defendants and attorneys will be notified of the probable time each case will be called.

The Gaylord Construction Company is making progress on the State highway job from Bellefonte to Pleasant Gap. The numerous drains have been placed and the concrete foundation and curb completed from the Mallory blacksmith shop to a point just beyond the Kelley ice plant. About 133 men are on the job, a modern concrete mixer and distributor is used, and an average of 350 feet of concrete base, 18 feet in width, with curb, is placed each day.

The fifty-first anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Emanuel Kerstetter, of near Millheim, will fall on Saturday, the 20th inst., and it is proposed to celebrate the event by the gathering of the children and friends of the aged couple on that day at Crystal Spring, in the Penns Valley narrows, says the Millheim Journal. It had been planned to celebrate the golden wedding a year ago, but on account of the families of several of the Kerstetters being afflicted with influenza at that time the event was cancelled.

John Garis is carrying a slight discoloration of the eyes, but nothing, John says, in comparison with what the "other fellow" got in a three-round boxing bout in which John engaged at Lewistown, last week. John has been working at Burnham, and when his friends learned that he had for a long time carried the nick-name of "Sharkey" Garis, they desired to know if he really was worthy the name of that former great pugilist, so with "Sharkey's" consent, the Lewistown fight fans arranged a bout with a Cleveland professional boxer, heralded as the coming welter-weight champion of the world. The fight took place in Lewistown and was scheduled for six rounds, but the professional man saw at the start of the fight that he was at a disadvantage because of his being twenty or more pounds lighter in weight than Garis, and to save his "rep" arranged with "Sharkey" to give up at the end of the third round. John did, but not until he let loose a few thunderbolts on his opponent's jaw, the kind he learned to deliver while with the A. E. F.
