With your fingers! You can lift off any hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the hard skin calluses from bottom of feet.
A tiny bottle of "Freezone" costs little at any drug store; apply a few drops upon the corn or callus. Instantly it stops hurting, then shortly you lift that bothersome corn or callus right off, root and all, without one bit of pain or soreness. Truly! No humbug!—Adv.

Living Wage in Paris $975 a Year.
As the absolute minimum for maintaining a man and wife in Paris under the present cost of living, $975 a year is the estimate made after a detailed investigation by the socialist newspaper L'Oeuvre. This allows for the smallest quantity of food capable of keeping them in health and permits of no extra expenses, such as use of tubes, omnibuses, the purchase of newspapers, pleasures; or even the replacement of worn-out household articles. The possibility of obtaining supplies at figures so low as those taken is, however, disputed.

French Farmer Had 36 Children.
A French farmer had 36 children—22 sons and 14 daughters—all of whom were living when the war broke out. The father and one daughter were shot by Germans because they went to Lille to attend a party in honor of a relative's one-hundredth birthday; a second daughter was killed by a German shell at Dunkirk; three sons were discharged from the army with grave injuries, and thirteen were killed in action. The size of the family does not make its terrible sacrifice any less tragic.—Youth's Companion.

Walking for Pleasure.
The old-fashioned person who used to walk mile after mile on pleasant Sunday afternoons through the countryside, has practically disappeared. This is the inevitable conclusion drawn by anyone who still pursues this ancient pastime and who has spent Sunday after Sunday drilling by foot over macadam and dirt roads frequented by automobilists and an occasional farm hand traveling to a neighbor's.
Walking for the sake of the walk has nearly passed out, along with the one-horse rig, the glass-encased artificial flowers in the parlor and hair-covered furniture. It had its day before the bicycle and the automobile and with the advent of these quicker, easier means of transportation it dropped from the human scheme of things with a dull thud.—Omaha News.

Thackeray's Question as to "Never Was" Speech Would Seem an Easy One to Answer.

The two great English novelists, Thackeray and Dickens, although there was at one time a coolness between them, were generous admirers of each other's genius. They left odious comparisons to foolish and petty partisans, of whom there were plenty in the following of each. But Thackeray, according to an anecdote recently related, once admitted to his American friend, the eloquent Congressman Lamar, a little touch of pique concerning the public estimation of his own ability and that of Dickens in a minor art. The two were driving together to a banquet of the Literary fund, at which Dickens, who was an admirable after-dinner orator, was to preside.
"Lamar," said Thackeray, "they say I can't speak. But if I want to, I can speak every bit as well as Dickens, and I'm going to show you tonight that I can speak almost as well as you can!"
But when the moment arrived in the course of the proceedings at which to make good his assertion, it came, and passed; and Thackeray uttered never a word. When the banquet was over and the friends were returning, both silent, in their cab, Thackeray turned suddenly to his companion.
"Lamar," he exclaimed, "don't you think you have heard tonight the greatest speech that ever was never delivered?"—Youth's Companion.

Birdless Prairies of the Northwest.
Those of us who have lived in the East among the feathered songsters that make their summer homes among the leafy bowers of forest trees realize how few and far between are the bird notes of the West. One may travel the prairies for days and meet with less than half a dozen varieties. Especially in this part of the country is it desirable that we should conserve what we have left of the feathered tribes and seek to induce others to visit us. A birdless country is something difficult to picture; it is not an impossibility should we fail to respect the laws now provided for the perpetuation of the migratory and other species.—Calgary Herald.

Proof that Some Women do Avoid Operations

Mrs. Etta Dorion, of Ogdensburg, Wis., says:
"I suffered from female troubles which caused piercing pains like a knife through my back and side. I finally lost all my strength so I had to go to bed. The doctor advised an operation but I would not listen to it. I thought of what I had read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and tried it. The first bottle brought great relief and six bottles have entirely cured me. All women who have female trouble of any kind should try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

How Mrs. Boyd Avoided an Operation.
Canton, Ohio.—"I suffered from a female trouble which caused me much suffering, and two doctors decided that I would have to go through an operation before I could get well.
"My mother, who had been helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, advised me to try it before submitting to an operation. It relieved me from my troubles so I can do my house work without any difficulty. I advise any woman who is afflicted with female troubles to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial and it will do as much for them."—Mrs. MAIZE BOYD, 1421 6th St., N. E., Canton, Ohio.
