A Virginia Case

Mrs. E. R. Shipley, 25 Moore St., Bristol, Va., gave the following statement March 25, 1915: "I had a lot of trouble with my kidneys; they were weak and greatly annoyed me. My back was weak and sore and ached nearly all the time. I felt drowsy and languid and mornings I could hardly straighten. I used Doan's Kidney Pills, getting them at Hunting & Son's Drug Store, and they cured me of the ailment." On April 27, 1915, Mrs. Shipley said: "My faith in Doan's Kidney Pills is as strong as ever. I had no need of them since they cured me in 1915." Get Doan's at Any Store, 60c a Box. DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS ROSTER-MILBURN CO., BUFFALO, N. Y.

SERIOUS DAMAGE BY CLOVER WORM

Alfalfa Crop Suffers Much Injury in Eastern Part of the United States.

BEST MEASURES OF CONTROL

When Outbreaks Are Particularly Severe Use of Hopperdozer is Advisable—Caterpillar Feeds on Different Plants.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Serious damage to alfalfa by the green clover worm has been reported to the United States department of agriculture from several parts of the eastern half of the United States, where this pest is distributed generally. Although for many years it has been known to occur commonly on clover and has received its popular name from this fact, its injury to this crop has rarely been sufficiently serious to justify control measures. It usually confines its attacks to leguminous crops, such as alfalfa, clover, soy beans, cowpeas, and vetch, but sometimes feeds on strawberries and blackberry plants and some common weeds.

Best Control Measures. The best control measure consists in timely cutting of the alfalfa crop, so as to remove the food supply when the caterpillars of this insect are most abundant. Clean culture is also recommended, and when outbreaks are particularly bad the use of the hopperdozer is advisable.

Alfalfa is Highly Regarded as a Forage Crop.

There are three or four generations of the green clover worm a season, according to the bulletin, which allows ample time for the insect to increase greatly in a summer. The caterpillars are killed in considerable numbers by natural insect enemies, but this method of control can not be relied upon for protection of the alfalfa crop. The alfalfa should be mowed when the insect is in the caterpillar or worm stage—from ten days to three weeks after the time of the appearance of the moths in great abundance. To insure success the field should be left as clean and bare as possible in order to remove the food supply and any shelter protecting them from the direct rays of the sun, which hastens their destruction.

Clear Fields of Insects. If these measures can not be carried out without injury to the alfalfa, either from premature cutting or too prolonged delay, wait until the alfalfa is ready for another cutting. It ought to be possible, however, before the summer is passed, to clear the fields of this insect in this manner. In the eastern states permanent injury to alfalfa, especially while it is young, and for this reason the cutting of this crop much in advance of the normal period is not recommended. As the caterpillar feeds on many different plants, ditch banks and fence rows should be kept free from weeds. The caterpillars have been caught readily by dragging a field with a hopperdozer, such as is used for grasshopper outbreaks. It does not hurt the alfalfa when not used to excess, and will catch many injurious insects.

EARLY FRUITS MOST DESIRED
Light Soils With Southern Exposure Are Best Adapted for Purpose—Liable to Injury.

Early fruits are usually most desirable, and light soils, with southern exposure, are best adapted for that purpose. Light soils, however, requiring heavy fertilizing and more mulch in summer. They are also more liable to injury to drought. As a rule, they produce lighter crops. If clay soil is used for early berries, it must be well drained, is more difficult to prepare, matures later crops, and is not so favorable for winter protection. If earliness is not a consideration, then one should not hesitate to use any soil, provided it can be made rich.

GOVERNMENT SHEEP FARM EXPERIMENTS

Several Important Results Obtained on Idaho Ranch.

Flock Handled in Same Manner as Are All Similar Bands in Hands of Wyoming Stockmen—Work to Be Extended.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Several results of importance to western sheep men have been ascertained by experiments at the government sheep ranch near Dubois, Idaho, which has been in operation two years. Formerly it was customary for range sheep men to discard ewes which did not bear lambs when two years old. Extensive investigations by the department of agriculture have developed that such ewes are just as valuable for future breeding as those which bear lambs as two-year-olds.

Individual records are kept on the government sheep ranch relative to the weight of fleece, length of fleece, character of fleece, fineness of fiber and mutton quality of each animal, while detailed account is maintained of the offspring of each ewe. The particular utility of the results obtained arises from the fact that the flock is handled just as are all similar bands of sheep in the hands of Wyoming stockmen.

Experiments are being conducted to develop a type of sheep more suitable to the western range conditions than the types now prevalent. It is hoped to extend this work in both mutton conformation and length and weight of fleece.

There are at present about 1,500 head of purebred Rambouillets, Lincoln Rambouillets, Cotswold Rambouillets, Leicester Rambouillets and Romney Rambouillets on the government ranch. Crossbreeding experiments are being conducted with all these breeds and crosses, as well as the use of purebred Corriedales, which have been mated with crossbred ewes.

RAISE MORE BREEDING SOWS

Remarkable Evidence of Expansive Power of Swine Numbers in Practical Farming.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Even greater than the record number of breeding sows on farms in the United States a year ago, the number on April 1 this year reached the unprecedented total of 9,970,000, according to the bureau of crop estimates, United States department of agriculture. While the average gain for the whole country over last year is only 0.3 per cent there were gains greater than this in most of the states and as high as 8 per cent in California. Diminished numbers in the great swine states of Iowa, Missouri, Nebraska, Louisiana and Oklahoma are sufficient to leave barely a gain to the United States as a whole. Under the pressure of the necessities of the war the breeding sows on farms April 1, 1918, had been raised 9.5 per cent over 1917, a remarkable evidence of the expansive power of swine numbers in practical farming operations; and that this extraordinary increase in one year should have been held the next, and even a little exceeded, is a notable fact in swine history.

KEEP MANURE UNDER COVER

Amount of Moisture in Pile Can Be Regulated Much Without Danger of Leaching.

The advantage of keeping manure under cover, whether piled on the ground or in pit, is that the amount of moisture in the pile can be artificially regulated and with less danger of leaching than if it lies on the ground. In the open pit, surplus of moisture can not result in loss through leaching, but unless water or liquid manure is pumped frequently over the pile it will fire through heating. With both leaching and heating guarded against, manure can be kept for considerable periods without serious deterioration in fertility. However, it is always best to get manure onto the fields and under the surface as soon as practical. The best place for manure to rot is in the soil.

RYE IS READILY PRESERVED

Resulting Silage Is Not Satisfactory Because Plant Is Not Highly Palatable.

Rye may be preserved readily in the silo, but the resulting silage is not very satisfactory on account of its not being palatable. For best results it should be put into the silo in the blossoming stage or even earlier. In feeding value it is somewhat below that of corn silage.

A tiny bottle of "Freezone" costs little at any drug store; apply a few drops upon the corn or callus. Instantly it stops hurting, then shortly you lift that bothersome corn or callus right off, root and all, without one bit of pain or soreness. Truly! No humming!—Adv.

All He Asked. Junior was fond of automobile riding and insisted upon asking the people living next door to give him rides in their car, though his mother had strongly forbidden him to ask. One day he was gone for over an hour, and when he came home his mother asked him where he had been, and he said that the people next door had taken him for a ride. "Well," his mother said, "haven't I told you not to ask them to give you rides?" Junior replied: "I didn't ask them for a ride. I just asked them where I should sit."

His Regret. "No doubt it is the continual gnawing of your conscience, because of your outrageous profligating, that prevents you from sleeping!" we sternly declared. "Oh, no!" returned the human hog. "What keeps me awake is the thought that there is no way by which I can collect a draw-back on the goods I sold for reasonable profits before the present era of high prices."—Kansas City Star.

Experts or Theorists—Which?

The packing industry is intricate, complex—far more so than the railroads or the telegraph. Every day multiplying needs of society increase its problems and multiplying responsibilities demand more of it.

Highly trained experts, specialists of years' experience, thinkers and creative men, devote their lives, their energies, their activities, to solving the problems of the packing industry and meeting its widening duties.

Swift & Company is not a few dozen packing plants, a few hundred branch houses, a few thousand refrigerator cars, and a few million dollars of capital, but an organization of such men. It is the experience, intelligence, initiative and activity which operates this physical equipment.

Can this intelligence, this experience, this initiative and creative effort which handles this business at a profit of only a fraction of a cent per pound from all sources, be fostered through the intervention of political theorists, however pure their purposes? Or be replaced by legislation? Does Congress really think that it can?

Let us send you a Swift "Dollar". It will interest you. Address Swift & Company, Union Stock Yards, Chicago, Ill.
