Capitalizing the President's Illness.

Gossip as to President Wilson's physical condition knows neither decency or restraint. By means of back-stairs gossip no effort has been spared by a shameless partisanship to capitalize the President's illness politically and to undermine his influence both here and abroad. In some respects it has been about the most malicious and contemptible campaign in the history of American politics, which is filled with the records of malicious and contemptible campaigns.

When the President was first stricken, Republican politicians in Washington began to insinuate that he was not ill at all, but was pretending to be ill for political effect. In this campaign they were assisted by Republican newspapers like the New York Sun, which practically accused the President of shamming a nervous breakdown to influence the ratification of the treaty of peace. On the day he arrived in Washington the Sun printed a despatch describing him as a man who had every appearance of health and vigor.

No other man is of so much importance to the world today as Woodrow Wilson. Every country has something at stake in his health and in his capacity for continued service. His complete disability would be not only a national calamity but an international calamity.

Of course, it will be argued that Austin and Yarnell are thoroughly honest. That has little to do with the case. To pull off the stuff their trainers will advocate during the next four years will mean reckless expenditures with their faces to the wall.

One thing is very certain, Harry N. Meyer's ability to fill the office to which he aspires will not be placed second. Not in a long while has a candidate for the office for prothonotary been presented who was more thoroughly fitted for the place. If you vote for Mr. Meyer you will not regret it when you come into his office on business or a social call.

"Dr." Moses, senator from New Hampshire, told a good bit more about President Wilson's physical condition than he knew to be true. Republicans and Republican newspapers wanted to make it appear that the president was shamming when he was taken ill on his speaking tour, and now that they are certain he is ill they do not hesitate to take every mean and contemptible advantage to gain politically.

"And There Wasn't the Slightest Smell from Dead Rats."

Writes John Simpkins, farmer of Anandale, N. J. "Rats were costing me hundreds yearly; tried dogs, ferrets, poison, could not get rid of them. Bought $1.00 pkg. of RAT-SNAP (5 cakes). Used half, not a live rat since. Dead ones aplenty. I like RAT-SNAP because after killing rats it dries them up—leaves no smell." Three sizes 25c, 50c, $1.00. Sold and guaranteed by C. M. Smith, Centre Hall; W. C. Meyer, Spring Mills, Pa.

THE DEATH RECORD.

Her age was seventy-five years, four months and twenty-one days. Before marriage she was Miss Sarah Roupp. One son survives: Ephraim Harter, of Potter township. The funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at the house and burial made at Tusseyville, Rev. D. S. Kurtz, of the Lutheran Church, officiating.

WOODLING.—Charles L. Woodling, son of Philip and Mary Woodling, died on Wednesday of last week at the home of J. Clayton Brungart, in Rebersburg, aged fifty-three years. About five weeks ago Mr. Woodling arrived in Rebersburg a very sick man, suffering with diabetes, apparently having come "home to die." He was buried in the Union cemetery, Rebersburg, and at his request, alongside his father. He leaves his wife, nee Sadie Gault, of Buffalo, N. Y., and one sister. By occupation he was a traveling salesman and clerk. He was a member of the Masonic order and a thirty-second, degree member.

Pastor Asked to Resign.

At a meeting of the joint council of the Penns Valley Lutheran charge, held at Centre Hall, on Saturday afternoon, Rev. D. S. Kurtz was asked to resign at the close of his fifth pastoral year in December. All of the five congregations in the charge were represented.

From the best information at hand it appears Rev. Kurtz had been given an opportunity to resign in a quiet way, but he resented the inference that he should do so. The action by the joint council cited above then became necessary.

Gregg Twp. School Teachers Organize

The school teachers of Gregg township met at the Vocational School building on Friday evening of last week to organize for the coming year. The organization resulted in the election of W. W. Reitz, president; Miss Alta Sinkabine, vice president; and Miss Ruth Smith, secretary-treasurer. The teachers will meet once a month throughout the year to discuss the problems of the school teacher and to put the school system of the township on a more progressive basis from the teacher's standpoint. One of the objects is to live up to the course of study and to adopt a uniform system of promotions.

The Red Cross Christmas Seals.

Pennsylvania headquarters for the Red Cross Christmas Seal Campaign of 1919 have been opened in Harrisburg. The sale in this state is directed by the Pennsylvania Society for the prevention of Tuberculosis and the whole campaign of organization and publicity in the state for the familiar little Red Cross seals will be directed from that city.

This year's campaign is on a broader and more intensive basis than ever before as greater work is planned for next year against tuberculosis and a strong educational propaganda is to be carried on to better the public health.

Twins Born During Ride in Auto.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Ratbun, of Grover, near Williamsport, started the other day, with a neighbor, on an automobile ride, when they returned home twins had been added to the family. The party had gone only a few miles when the driver, who had paid no attention to his friends in the rear, was asked to stop. Turning his head he was startled to find Ratbun holding a new born baby wrapped in one of the automobile robes. He drove to a farm house where mother and child were carried. Before the woman could be taken home, she gave birth to the second child. The first twin was a boy and the second a girl.

Lee Witt, of Yeagertown, was the guest of John Grenoble on Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Guisewite and daughter, Mrs. Fred Rauchau, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Muhl, at Milton, while attending the Milton fair last week.
