

THIS WOMAN SAVED FROM AN OPERATION

By taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, One of Thousands of Such Cases.

Black River Falls, Wis.—"As Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound saved me from an operation, I cannot say enough in praise of it. I suffered from organic troubles and my side hurt me so I could hardly be up from my bed, and I was unable to do any housework. I had the best doctors in Eau Claire and they wanted me to have an operation, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cured me so I did not need the operation, and I am telling all my friends about it."—Mrs. A. W. Bunzer, Black River Falls, Wis.

PENNSYLVANIA BRIEFS

Daniel Gerrity, twenty-two, who, as a member of the crew of the American tanker, Emden, submarined in mid-ocean, just after the advent of the United States into the war, was taken prisoner and served two years in the German prison camp, at Brandenburg, where he endured frightful hardships, and who only recently returned to the United States after having been liberated, was fatally injured at Henry Clay colliery, Shamokin, dying several hours later. Gerrity was employed as a laborer in the colliery boiler house, when a steam column line exploded, a piece of flying pipe fracturing his skull. Complaint against the new rates of the Lykens Valley Light and Power company was filed with the public service commission by James E. Kelly, acting on behalf of the locals of the United Mine Workers of America in Lykens, Williamstown, Wicomico, Tower City and Reinteron. It is charged that the rates are unjust and that the minimum charge is too high entirely. The plant of the Sunnyburn Creamery company, at York, was destroyed by fire, causing a loss estimated at $3000. The fire started in a pile of shavings. Fire of an unknown origin destroyed the plant and contents of the Springs Paper Mill company, in York. The loss will exceed $100,000. Granville Davis, a negro, thirty years old, formerly of Coatesville, died in the Albona hospital from stab wounds inflicted by Jesse Allen, of Harrisburg, another negro. The men quarreled over a crap game. Plans for new yards and eliminating several ugly curves in the Northern Central railway lines at Lemoine are being considered by the Pennsylvania railroad. The Hazleton and Mahanoy division of the Lehigh Valley railroad was covered by a special train bearing Attorney C. L. Lewis, of Sayre, former four-minute man and Liberty loan orator, who addressed the railroads on the national accident prevention campaign. He talked at six towns, urging the men to promote the 100 per cent efficiency desired by the administration and to maintain it indefinitely. Plans for putting into effect regulations to carry out the provisions of the act of 1919 covering the licensing of all milk testers engaged in plants which are purchasing milk on a butter fat content purchase, are now being made by the department of agriculture and Pennsylvania State college. Milk testers are compelled to pass an examination prescribed and conducted by the department of dairy husbandry of State college, and a fee of $3 is charged for the examination under the law. Charles L. Schankweiler, merchant, Shamokin, was fatally shocked in his place of business and two of his assistants, John Hunter and Reuben Tharp, were severely injured while endeavoring to effect a rescue. Schankweiler had picked up an extension cord to make repairs to a boiler when he was hurled to the floor of his place of business. Hunter, who attempted to pull the wire from Schankweiler's grasp, was hurled across the room and severely burned. Tharp, in turn, attempted to throw off the switch leading in the building, received a severe shock, and was hurled ten feet through a glass door. A high tension line had become crossed with the line leading into Schankweiler's place of business. Blind for twenty years, David Stern, of Henningsville, near the Berks-Lehigh county line, died at the age of ninety years. Eight years ago he was stricken with an incurable disease and was helpless until the time of his death. He was the oldest man in that part of the county. The first beaver to be distributed in the state game preserves will be received next month, according to the plans of the game officials. The animals will be turned loose in what are considered ideal surroundings. Tests will be made during the first year. The New Jersey Central railroad is shifting its tracks between Lehigh Gap and Chain Bridge, a distance of one mile, to allow the state highway to run north instead of south of it, thus eliminating two dangerous grade crossings and preventing the highway from being flooded during freshets. Reading Italians celebrated Columbus day by banqueting naval officers from the dreadnought Conte de Cavour, now anchored at Philadelphia, after a street demonstration in which ten bands played. Fruit valued at $300 was stolen from Wright Brothers' orchards, near Royersford, and Mortimer Snell, a watchman, who was mistaken for one of the thieves, was accidentally shot and taken to a hospital. The Lehigh county granges decided to invite the Pennsylvania state grange to hold its 1920 convention in Allentown. St. Peter's Lutheran church, in Bittersville, has awarded the contract for the erection of a $10,000 parsonage for its pastor, Rev. Dr. E. A. Yehi. The Hazleton Y. M. C. A. has bought the noted old Valley Hotel and will fit it up for a home. By an explosion of gas in a Shenandoah colliery, John Rinchalls and John Malcalonis were terribly burned and may die.

The 1200 Allentown cigarmakers who went on strike fourteen weeks ago accepted the compromise offer of the manufacturers and will return to work. They were given an advance of $1.50 per thousand, with improved shop conditions. Contracts were signed for the building of a $75,000 extension to the chemistry laboratory at Lehigh University which will give the department facilities to take care of nearly 3000 students. The Republican club of Slattington was reported by the constable of the borough as being guilty of selling liquor in violation of its charter rights and Judge Groman directed District Attorney Iobst to make an investigation. The Keystone Fire company, of Reading, accompanied by the Peerless band of twenty pieces, left for a week's trip to New England. They will visit Hartford, Springfield, Boston, Providence, Fall River and Nantasket. John B. Krebs is marshal of the firemen on the tour, fifty men in all, exclusive of the band. Mayor H. W. Heidenfeld of Hazleton, threatens to ask the state for revocation of the licenses of all automobile drivers caught in Hazleton for violation of the speeding laws. James Long, a taxi chauffeur, was fined $11 and given twenty-four hours to retire from the business under penalty of being reported to the highway department at Harrisburg. Long immediately resigned. The large addition to the New York Central railroad shops at Avis, near Lock Haven, in course of construction for the last year, has been completed and is in use. It was built principally to cover repair yard that were abandoned, and the carmen can now work in comfort during wet and cold weather. Fifty additional men have been engaged in this department. The guaranty fund which the Bethlehem chamber of commerce is securing, with the aid of the bankers and special soliciting committee, has gone over the $500,000 top with not all of the prospects heard from. The committee has now set the $1,000,000 as a new mark. The fund will be utilized in procuring new industrial and commercial enterprises for the city. Thieves who raided the home of Leroy G. Youm in Reading, and got $200 worth of jewelry, including a solitaire diamond and a gold watch, overlooked a big roll of greenbacks in the drawer from which some of the jewelry was stolen. Stockholders of the Fayette Brewing company, Uniontown, have decided to liquidate the company's assets and dispose of the property. The manner in which the property will be disposed of has not yet been decided. The plant is situated near the center of the city. Since the wartime prohibition went into effect the Fayette brewery has been closed, only the offices remaining open, and when the prohibition measure forbidding 2.75 per cent beer was passed finally by congress it was decided to abandon the concern. Edward Haggerty, a Reading policeman, has entered a claim for the $1500 reward offered eight years ago for the arrest of the slayers of Gordon Kaufman, a baker shot in his shop in 1911. The four men wanted are now in the eastern penitentiary, where they were lodged only recently, after serving more than seven years in a Richmond, Va., penitentiary for an offense committed after they fled Reading, the scene of the Kaufman murder. The American Auto club, Inc., a Philadelphia concern, with a branch in Reading, has bought the City Hotel and the garage adjoining the property, at Sixth and Court streets, and will convert it into a combination hotel, garage and auto salesroom, with club facilities. The company paid $150,000 for the property and will spend $50,000 in renovating it. Pennsylvania headquarters for the Red Cross Christmas seal campaign of 1919 have been opened in Harrisburg. The sale in the state is directed by the Pennsylvania Society for the Prevention of Tuberculosis and the whole campaign of organization and publicity in the state for the familiar little Red Cross seals will be directed from Harrisburg. Christian Zern, the oldest resident of Lebanon county, celebrated his 101st birthday anniversary with a family reunion at the house of his daughter, Mrs. John Kurtz, at Suedberg, in the northern part of the county. Many relatives and friends, in addition to the members of his immediate family, were participants in the event. His desire to gather chestnuts at Greenville resulted in the death of Joseph Blocher, aged ten, who fell from a tree and crushed his skull. Mrs. Lawrence Goeppert dropped dead at her home in Mahanoy City while baking pies. She had a premonition of approaching death, but hoped to live long enough to see her two sons, John and George, return from France and Germany, where they have been soldiering for more than two years. The boys returned home several days ago. Called from his work in a Connelville macaroni factory, Joseph Serels was severely slashed by two unknown men. The Hotel Senate, for many years Harrisburg's best-known hostelry, was sold to S. A. Greene by F. B. Aldinger with an adjoining building. The Bittersville police force has been motorized to catch speeders along the William Penn Highway. More than $10,000 was subscribed by the Allentown Rotary club at its weekly luncheon to the fund of $165,000 that is being raised to liquidate the debt on the Allentown hospital.

REVIVE GENTLE ART OF PEDESTRIANISM Sport Has Basked in Limelight at Various Times. Fifty Years Ago Professional Walkers Were as Celebrated as Jack Dempsey and Ty Cobb Are Today—Bicycle Killed Game.

A couple of million young men of America have in the past two years had considerable exercise in "hoofing it." It wasn't voluntary hoofing, either, but the army is the army, and when you enter it you are sometimes required to make long marches. All of which leads to the thought that the gentle art of pedestrianism is about due for a great revival. There was an "almost" revival of walking a few years ago when Edward Payson Weston, the veteran pedestrian, pulled off his celebrated transcontinental walking stunt, but it sort of fizzled. It is forty-two years since London witnessed the conclusion of one of the most famous international walking matches, such as were held in the seventies and early eighties. William Homes, one of the greatest pedestrians of the day, was England's choice in the memorable contest, while Dan O'Leary represented Ireland and America. Dan had taken part in a number of walking matches on this side of the Atlantic, and there was great disappointment over here when the news came that he had been vanquished by the Britisher in the 300-mile contest. O'Leary is now 70 years old and has walked over 150,000 miles. In the seventies the professional walkers were as celebrated as Jess Willard (?) and Ty Cobb are today. They rolled in money and basked in the limelight of popular adulation. Many of the records set up in those days in England and America have never been surpassed, and, unless professional walking comes into vogue again, probably never will be. It was the bicycle which killed pedestrianism. When the "safely" was invented it not only became a substitute for shank's mares, but cycling became the most popular sport in the world. Walking as a sport died a sudden death, but as long as humans have legs there is always the hope that pedestrianism will again come to the fore, to the great benefit of the human race. er flyweight champion, is going the rounds of the newspapers. It seems that Pedlar Palmer, himself a brawler of no meager science, was met by a boxing writer after an exhibition bout between Wilde and another London favorite. "Pedlar, what do you think of Wilde?" asked the writer. "A bloomin' ghost with a 'ammer in 'is 'and," was Palmer's prompt response.

COLLEGE ATHLETICS HIT It haca high cost of living is expected to attack college sports next season. In recently assuming his new duties as graduate manager of athletics at Cornell university, Romeyn Berry of New York predicted an increase over pre-war seasons of 50 per cent in maintaining crew and teams alone, and asserted his first task would be to put Cornell athletics on a sound financial basis.
