

Cattle Dealers Plead Guilty.

The farmers of Wayne county, most of whom also deal in cattle, were given a hearing last week at Honesdale on charges of having violated the state cattle law by bringing cows into Pennsylvania without an official examination and test for tuberculosis.

The charge was brought by an agent of the Bureau of Animal Industry, Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, after some of the cows were found to have been diseased. The tuberculosis cows were killed under state inspection.

The defendants were led into their mistake by false information given by the New York dealer who sold the cows at public sale. They were led to believe that if the cows were driven over the state line by employees of the dealer, the buyers would not be liable to arrest. When the requirements of the cattle law were explained at the hearing, the defendants were convinced of their mistake and entered pleas of guilty. They were released upon payment of costs without any fine being imposed as these prosecutions were brought more as a warning than as punishment. Future cases of this nature along the northern tier will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law. The New York dealer was arrested and fined in that State.

Blizzard in North Dakota.

Lisbon, N. D., Nov. 19.

Editor Reporter:

Another exceptionally severe blizzard visited this section of North Dakota. The storm began at midnight and the next day we could not see our barn from the house. Roads are all drifted shut with snow to a depth of from three to four feet. A mule team stalked up to our house door last night and a man crawled out from under his blankets and asked whether his wife, little daughter and himself could stay all night. After removing a foot of snow from the blankets, the mother and child were able to come in. At the supper table the lady, Mrs. Keller, remarked that this was the briskest blizzard she had ever experienced. The conditions now remind me of our experiences in Illinois seventy years ago. With all this snow, the mail man snowed under, the general health of the community is good.

I do wish these blizzards would blow the price of flour down. Flour is $7.00 per cwt.; sugar 18 cents; corn, $1.00. The quality of corn was poor, this being a poor corn country owing to the cold weather in the spring.

Black Walnut Seedlings Soon Available.

Hon. Robert S. Conklin, Commissioner of Forestry, stated that 150 bushels of Black Walnuts were planted this fall in the Mont Alto nursery in Franklin county. The seed was good in quality and should produce one hundred thousand seedling which will be available for planting next year. Most of the trees will be distributed to private planters throughout the State, who are anxious to start groves of this valuable tree, the wood of which was in such great demand during the war.

The planting of Black Walnut seedlings is recommended highly for the tree attains a large size, is attractive, produces valuable wood, and yields delicious nuts which are used by man, and furnishes food to many wild animals, especially squirrels.

National Grange in Session.

A number of important questions concerning not only farmers, but all consumers of their products, were before the National Grange for consideration when the fifty-third annual convention opened at Grand Rapids, Mich., last week. Among the subjects to be brought before the convention which continues ten days are the labor situation, speculation in foodstuff, railroad control, distribution, extension of the rural free delivery and the immigration laws.

A better deal is to be demanded for the farmer some of the officers asserted. A plan for fixing the price of farm products closely following the "cost plus" system employed by the government in war contracts has been outlined for presentation to the convention.

Sixty-five delegates representing 300,000 farmers in thirty-three states, and 3,000 visitors are attending the sessions.

Parcel Post Profits.

The parcel post is earning a profit of $10,000,000 yearly, and rates have been constantly reduced since the beginning of the service seven years ago. The post office committee of the house is now at work figuring a further decrease in the rates before long, so that a large measure of the profits will be retained in the hands of the public.

State Agricultural Notes.

Over one-third of the buckwheat grown in the United States is produced in Pennsylvania.

The sky is a poor roof under which to store farm machinery for the winter. A Fulton county woman planted two Cushaw pumpkin seeds in her garden last spring which produced sixteen pumpkins averaging thirty pounds each, or a total of 480 pounds.

Bulbous plants like tulips and frezias make excellent house plants for winter. The Bureau of Plant Industry, Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, Harrisburg, will tell you how.
