

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

A letter addressed to Mrs. Edith Glantz (or Glontz) remains unclaimed at the Centre Hall post office.

Charles Miller, son of M. N. Miller, of Potters Mills, will tenant the Dr. C. F. Smith farm at Centre Hill after next spring.

The silk mill at Spring Mills is now under roof. The interior finishing will be rushed to completion as soon as possible.

Lyman L. Smith continues to improve and hopes to be about business to some extent the latter part of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. James E. Stewart, of New Bloomfield, accompanied by their son, Herbert, were guests of Mrs. Stewart's sister, Mrs. Lucy Henney, over Sunday.

Mrs. Kate Dale and sister, Miss Mollie Hofer, on Tuesday, went to State College where they will remain until Spring at the home of the former's son, Dr. P. H. Dale.

A very pretty missionary service was rendered in the Lutheran church at Tusseyville on Saturday evening and in the Lutheran church in Centre Hall, on Sunday evening. At Tusseyville the offering summed up $100.00 and at Centre Hall $76.00.

The Washington excursion, Saturday night and Sunday, was not well patronized along the local branch of the Pennsylvania. Linden Hall had no excursionists, Centre Hall came along with eight, Spring Mills, the same number and Coburn twelve—twenty-eight in all.

While assisting in adjusting a smoke-stack at the Penn Public power house, Clearfield, Paul Root, a workman, lost his life. A large pole broke, falling in such a way as to hit the man, aged twenty years, on the head with sufficient force to cause immediate death.

Some time ago two colored hobos slept in the Hugh McCoy barn, near Granville, Millin Co., and accidentally set it on fire. The negroes were brought into court, but it appears there is no law under which they could be punished for having caused the destruction of the large barn.

Centre county still ranks first in the sale of Treasury Savings Certificates for the entire Third Federal Reserve District; breaks the record again and sells $6 $100 Certificates in a week at the Bellefonte post office, where P. H. Garrity is the postmaster.

The Sunday-school convention held in the Methodist church at Sprucetown, on Friday afternoon and evening, was well attended and the program as printed previously in these columns was closely adhered to. The sessions were unusually interesting, a number of new features having been introduced.

Because of the fact that he had more cattle than stable room, William H. Weaver, of Penns Cave, sold some of his young cattle and delivered them to Centre Hall on Monday. Mr. Weaver is alone on a ninety acre farm, and like most farmers says he is working too hard, but doesn't deny that the returns from the farm are satisfactory.

The Clearfield Public Spirit is advocating the erection of a $100,000 memorial hall in Clearfield in honor of the heroic dead. The Reporter hopes the Public Spirit will be successful in awakening its readers to a sense of their responsibility. A memorial hall would be a quite fitting monument to the soldier dead and of use to generations to come.

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Mitterling went to Baltimore Saturday evening on the excursion train. Mrs. Mitterling, as was stated in these columns some time ago, will undergo treatment in the Johns Hopkins hospital before returning home. They will also visit Mr. Mitterling's sisters, Mrs. Fred Barry and Miss Carrie Mitterling, who are located in Baltimore.

Lewisburg is making an effort to organize a cavalry troop, the necessary petition now being in the hands of members of former Troop M. The state authorities have promised to erect a $50,000 armory if a company is organized. The government will furnish thirty-two head of horses, and men will be paid for their attendance at drill at from $1.00 to $3.00 per drill, regulated according to rank.

Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Bottorff, of Yeagertown, made a trip to Centre Hall on Monday, making their headquarters with Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Colyer. Mr. Bottorff, who spent a good many years on the farm, is now employed in the Mannax works, at Yeagertown, where he says business is brisk. The factory is working largely on a peculiar pattern of hoe used instead of a plow for preparing ground for crops. They are now on an order for a million hoes of this class.

The literary society connected with the Centre Hall High school will hold a session on Thanksgiving evening, at 7 o'clock in the High school room, to which the public is invited. The subject to be discussed is "Resolved, that the U. S. should have compulsory military training for all male citizens between the ages of eighteen and twenty-one, both years inclusive, for at least two months in each year." On the affirmative, William Keiber, Elizabeth Royer, Thomas Grove; negative, Ernest Frank, Frederick Moore, William Sweetwood. Music, school paper and recitations are also on the program.

THE DEATH RECORD.

HORNER.—Mrs. John H. Horner died at her home near Tusseyville, on Friday about noon, of last week, after an illness of several weeks. She had been failing in health for the past few months, and became exhausted from nursing members in her family who were ill and finally was obliged to take her bed. Death was due to acute Bright's disease.

The deceased before marriage was Margaret Alice Keen, daughter of Daniel and Pheobe Keen, and was born in Potter township, July 25th, 1865, making her age fifty-four years, three months and twenty-six days. She is survived by her husband, and these three children: Mrs. Edward E. Bailey, Centre Hall; Orvis, Tusseyville; and Miss Grace, at home; also four grandchildren. James Keen, Michigan; and Thomas Keen, Lewistown, are brothers, and Mrs. George Shook, of Spring Mills, is a sister of the deceased.

Mrs. Horner was a devoted wife and mother, her first concern always being her family. She was kind hearted and neighborly, never leaving an opportunity to serve go without rendering any aid she could.

Interment was made in the union cemetery, Tusseyville, Monday afternoon, Rev. R. R. Jones having been the officiating minister.

STOVER.—John Farver Stover, a life-long resident of Spring township, was found dead in the woods of Cambria county a short time ago by a huster out for small game. Mr. Stover, who was eighty years, seven months and twenty-nine days old, was born and spent practically all his life in the neighborhood of Pleasant Gap.

Mr. Stover was an old soldier having served with distinction during the Civil war. He was a carpenter by occupation and a good citizen in every way. He was married to Miss Sara Noll, of Pleasant Gap, who died seven years ago since which time he had made his home with his sons, four of which survive, as follows: George, of Jacksonville; William, of Boalsburg; Samuel and Jerry, of Marsteller. The son Samuel accompanied the remains to Centre county for burial in the Shilo cemetery, Rev. S. C. Stover, of Boalsburg, having charge of the services.

TOLBES.—The sad intelligence was received in Millheim of the death of Mrs. Ella Tolbes, wife of George E. Tolbes, which occurred at the Woman's hospital in Cleveland, O. She was aged thirty-five years and twenty-eight days. She had undergone an operation a few years previous for the removal of a cancerous tumor and apparently was recovering when peritonitis set in and caused her death.

She was born in Reading, and resided in Millheim for several years after her marriage, and she made a host of friends here who will be grieved to learn of her sudden death.

For the past several years the family has resided in Cleveland, and only a few months ago they spent a very pleasant visit in Millheim.

Besides the sorrowing husband and son, Robert, five brothers and two sisters, all of Reading, survive.

Ears of Corn With Uneven Number of Rows.

Have you ever seen an ear of corn with an uneven number of rows? The management of the International Grain and Hay Show, to be held November 29 to December 6, in connection with the Live Stock Exposition, Chicago, has a request from one of the states asking if there will be an exhibit of corn with uneven number of rows. The one inquiring also states that he would offer a premium for a real ear of corn that has grown in a natural state with an uneven number of rows. This word is being sent to the farmers of the various states, urging them to look for such ears and to send them to Chicago. If any can be found they will make an unique exhibit and will attract much attention. Nature seems to have provided that rows of corn should grow on the cob in pairs. Two rows of corn seem to feed through the same channel on the cob. Ears with uneven number of rows have not been exhibited heretofore. This presents an interesting question to the corn growers and, no doubt, many thousands of farmers will examine ears as they have never examined them before in the hope that they may find one with an uneven number of rows. Anyone finding an ear with an uneven number of rows should send the same to the International Grain and Hay Show, Union Stock Yards, Chicago, Illinois.

Items from Belleville Times.

Mrs. D. Geiss Wagner, of Centre Hall, Mrs. May Smith and son, of Spring Mills, spent a part of last week at the Dr. H. S. Alexander home.

The Taylor Alexander farm, near Kishacoquillas, was sold at public sale to Mrs. Peachey, of near Belleville, for the sum of $22,000.

Mrs. Lucy Henney, Wilbur Henney and son Ralph, of Centre Hall, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Crotzer, at Belleville.

Boy Badly Injured.

Samuel Kinsloe, aged 15 years, of Lewistown, was seriously injured by an explosion in a shanty at the rear of the Lewistown Y. M. C. A. building. In company with some other boys, Samuel gathered some shavings from the floor of the shanty and started a fire in the stove with them. A loaded cartridge in the shavings exploded when the fire began to burn and the missile was hurled through the open stove door and the cartridge penetrated the left lung of the boy.
