MARCH'S TWO BIRTHSTONES

Persons Born in That Month May Have Choice of the Bloodstone or the Aquamarine,

The month of March has two birthstones. The one sanctioned by ancient tradition is the bloodstone. As an alternate the aquamarine is given in the list of birthstones adopted by the National Jewelers' association. The bloodstone is a variety of chalcedony, dull green with blood-red spots. It is sometimes called heliotrope. The principal mines are in India, though it is found in Scotland, Brazil, Uruguay and Australia. It was supposed in old times to have therapeutic virtues and was used especially to cure hemorrhages and inflammatory diseases. Because of this fancied curative value it was widely worn cut in the form of a heart in Mexico in the days succeeding the conquest by Spanlards and Indians. The stone is still believed by the superstitious to be an amulet bringing good luck. An ancient Egyptian parchment says: "If anyone have this stone with him he will be given whatever he asks for and whatever the wearer says will be believed."

The aquamarine is a transparent variety of beryl, characteristically of a bluish green color. Its name, trans-Inted, means "sea water," and it looks like the green-blue water of the ocean frozen into a flashing crystal. Large aquamarines are especially beautiful as brooches or necklace pendants.

WALK MUCH AND LIVE LONG

Overwhelming Evidences That Pedestrienism is by Long Odds the Best Form of Exercise.

"Walk, walk, walk, every day, and while walking give the arms full play. By so doing the bones, blood, muscles, perves and brain will be kept in healthy activity. Moreover, never mind the weather. Take your exercise, be the day wet or fine, hot or cold. Above all, avoid sitting over Nothing is more conducive n fire. to scallity." This is the prescription of Sir Herman Weber, the eminent European physician, who died at the age of ninety-five -years. Certainly there could be no better recommendation of the virtues of walking than the life of Sir Herman.

Walking is something that cannot be overdone, and at the same time much out of fashion at the present In this day of automobiles the time. man who walks is the exception, and while the man in the motorcar derives a vast amount of benefit from his trips into the country and through getting his lungs pumped full of fresh air, he does not obtain the great variety of health-giving features that come with walking.

MAN'S EVER-FAITHFUL FRIEND

Evangeline Booth Eulogizes the Services Which the Horse Has at All Times Rendered.

Evangeline Booth, the gifted commander of the Salvation army, in Rider and Driver, pays a beautiful tribute to the horse. The horseless age which was predicted when the motor came, she says, has not arrived, and never will. She continues:

"From the very beginning of all things, through the march of the centuries in every sphere of life, the horse has occupied a significant place. In sport, in art, in literature, in war, in peace, in commerce, in romance, in tragedy, in drudgery, in love, in religion, in life and in death, this rellable, courageous, ever-ready-for-command servant of man has proved himself a most potent factor. His fleet hoofs have flashed light from the pebbled path of every poet; his arched neck and tossing mane have taxed the skill of the ablest sculptor's chisel; his attractive figure has made realistic the story of every class of literaturehistoric, fiction, fact and biblical; the delight of childhood, the willing slave of man, the sure trust of old age, this faithful ally through all time has plowed the fields and hauled the loads and penetrated the wilderness and waded the rivers and with boodstained flanks has carried the warriors in battle, and tossing snowy mane has some the victor home through triumbhal arch and a thousand times ten thousand when worn by tolls and lack of food to a mere skeleton, has pressed on with his task with a patience, perseverence and a sweetness of temper that one could almost call divine."

One often hears of "the glacial period" or "the ice age" of the earth, but, strictly speaking, this expression is not correct. It is now established beyond all reasonable doubt that this planet has experienced not one but a great many glacial periods. Evidence has been found which proves that the latest or Pleistocene glacial epoch, has several important subdivisions, and that all of the present continents have experienced glacial epochs at different ages. Great jee sheets were formed at different periods back to the Proterozoic age; that is, the age of the oldest known sedimentary rocks, 9 great many million years ago. One of the most recent discoveries of the old glacial deposits was made by Professor W. W. Atwood, of the United States geological survey, near Ridg way, in southwestern Colorado. These deposits were found beneath tertiary lavas of the San Juan mountains, and resting upon upper cetaceous beds They have, it is believed, been formed in early Eccene times.

Time and Watch on Shipboard. The bell on shipboard is struck every half-hour. In the morning one bell sounds at 12:30 a. m. and ev. ery half-hour increases until eight bells at 4 p. m.; then one bell again at 4:30 s. m. to eight bells at 8 a m.; one bell again at 8:30 a. m.; and eight beils at noon. In the afternoon one bell sounds at 12:30 p. m., and eight bells at 4 p. m., after which is the first dog watch (one bell 4:30, two bells 5, three bells 5:30, four bells 6), and the second dog watch (one bell 6:30, two bells 7, three bells 7:30, eight bells 8), and then one bell at 8:30 to eight bells at midnight.

The day is divided into seven watches, as follows: Afternoon watch, noon to 4 p. m.; first dog watch, 4 p. m. to 6 p. m.; second dog watch, 6 p. m. to S p. m.; first watch S p. m. to midnight; middle watch, midnight to 4 n. m.; morning watch, 4 a. m, to 8 a. m.; forenoon watch, 8 a. m. to noon.

"Swan" is Really Goose. The Chinese "swan" is not really a swan, but a goose. It has achieved a vicarious reputation as a swan merely because of an extremely long neck, not properly belonging to a goose, but altogether swanlike.

The lady swan, instead of pursuing the birdlike motherly habit of sitting on her eggs in order to transform them from mere eggs into baby swans. carefully covers them up with a mound of sticks and things.

The Chinese swan is known in highbrow circles as a Cygnopsis cygnoldes. It is a most peculiar bird with a large wart on its bill, which is as yellow as the royal dragon of China. It has a disposition as mild as that of the Chinese nation itself, is given to secret restrained, Chinese manner,
