FRECKLES WEARY OF "FOOLING 'ROUND"

Common-Sense Maid Decided It Was High Time Bashful Swain "Popped the Question."

A speaker declared that the old style bashful swain has ceased to exist since the war. "Proposals have no terrors for the boys now. In a young friend of mine, however, I must note an exception. "He had been going with the girl before war broke out, but even in the stress of going away had not mustered up courage enough to put the question. "When he came back he went to her, and though he had faced the terrors of the trenches and even the horrors of the Hun, yet he still hesitated. "Demurest," said the girl finally, "didn't you once say that you would do anything for me? Didn't you once ask me to put your devotion to the test? "Indeed I did," he responded warmly; "there is nothing in the world I would not do, no sacrifice I would not make to prove to you how much I think of you." "Well, then," said the maid, "ask me to marry you. We've fooled round long enough."

DRIVE FOR "BETTER SIRES—BETTER STOCK"

Better Dairying Results Where Sires Like This Are Used.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
The campaign which the United States department of agriculture, in co-operation with the state agricultural colleges and other agencies, will begin on October 1 against the scrub sire has created so much interest and has resulted in so many inquiries being received by the department that the following list of typical questions and answers has been prepared to inform more fully concerning the drive for "Better Sires—Better Stock."

Question—Need a person keep all the classes of live stock in order to take part in the crusade?
Answer—By no means. He may keep only one class or several classes.
Question—If a person has no live stock but wishes to join the campaign, may he be enrolled?
Answer—No; not until he becomes the owner of live stock. The person with even one breeding animal, however, is eligible. If a male, it must be a good pure-bred. If a female, it may be of any quality, but must be bred to a good pure-bred sire.

Don't Join Until Ready to Comply.
Question—If a person enrolls and then finds it too difficult to comply with the requirements, may he withdraw?
Answer—Yes; he may withdraw by returning the official emblem, with an explanation of the circumstances. But persons contemplating such a course are advised to defer enrollment until they can comply with the conditions.

Question—If a person has pure-bred sires in all classes of animals he raises to sell but intends to breed his work mares, for instance, to a scrub or grade stallion and to raise the colts for farm work, is he eligible to enrollment in the campaign?

Answer—No. Horses are included among the classes named and the mares must be bred to a pure-bred sire. (The classes are horses, cattle, sheep, swine, goats and poultry.)

Question—When poultry, for instance, are on range and a neighbor's inferior sires are with them, how is it possible to comply with the requirements?
Answer—The requirements are not violated unless chickens are raised from the eggs of hens sired by such males. It would be preferable, however, to induce the owner of the inferior roosters to dispose of them. In any case the breeding birds of a person enrolled in the campaign should be confined to his own premises, and other males fenced out during the breeding season.

Question—Who is to determine whether sires are of good quality as well as being pure-bred?
Answer—While the opinions of the Combination of Utility and Standard Quality.

owner and others who have examined the stock will be accepted, it is suggested that he consult also an experienced judge of live stock before filling out his enrollment blank. Sires which are diseased, undersized or otherwise inferior, even though pure-bred, should be avoided. Information on desirable types of live stock may be obtained from the department of agriculture.

Sires Should Be Registered.
Question—Need pure-bred sires purchased be registered?
Answer—Pure-bred animals bought or sold preferably should be registered as a proof of pure breeding.

Question—If a person has a grade sire, a bull, for instance, of exceptionally good type and which resembles a pure-bred and he intends to get a registered pure-bred bull later, can he be enrolled in the campaign?
Answer—Not until he stops using the grade bull as a sire. It is suggested ed that he sell the grade bull, and until he obtains a pure-bred bull of his own, breed his cows to a good pure-bred bull owned by some one else. In that case he would be eligible to enrollment.

Question—May children be enrolled and is there any age limit?
Answer—There is no age limit. Children who own live stock and who are able to sign their names and comply with the requirements may be enrolled. Children interested in live stock should be encouraged to enroll.

Briefly, a person must believe that the scrub rooster and the scrub boar are as objectionable, in principle, as the scrub bull. There must be clean sweep of inferior sires if the owner wishes Uncle Sam to officially enroll him in the "Better Sires—Better Stock" crusade. But the conditions are easily fulfilled by persons who, realizing the need for live stock improvement, are ready to put their beliefs into actual practice.

TO AVOID EXCESSIVE WASTE

Statistics Show That 80 Per Cent of Corn Fodder is Wasted Annually in Corn Belt.

(By R. W. CLARK, Colorado Agricultural College, Fort Collins, Colo.)

There is produced every year in this country sufficient forage to feed liberally all the live stock of the land, and leave a good balance besides. The shortage of supplies each year is due to the spoiling and wasting of forage already grown, and the means of preserving this forage will solve the principal problem of the country. The principal waste is now going on with the corn plant. It is most noticeable in the corn belt states where perhaps 80 per cent of the stalk and leaves of this most valuable forage is wasted annually. The silo furnishes a means whereby all farm forage can be preserved and placed in the best possible condition for feeding. The silo is too well known to require a description of this method, but its use is certainly sadly wanting. It can be safely said that a silo is a proper equipment, and of great economic value.

PRODUCTION OF CLEAN MILK

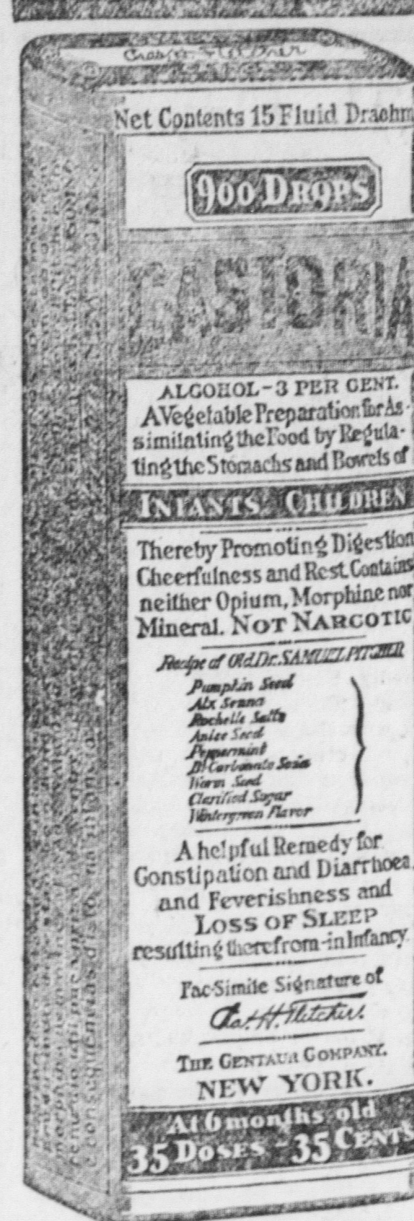

Comparatively Easy Matter in Spring and Summer, but Quite Different in Winter.

It is a comparatively easy matter to produce clean milk in the spring and summer months for the simple reason that the cow is generally on pasture during these months and when allowed to care for herself she will keep clean. In the winter, however, she is kept in closer quarters and it is then that the greatest amount of dirty milk is apt to appear on the consumer's table if producer has not given the proper attention to the cleanliness of his animals.

RAISE MORE FARM ANIMALS

Less Expense Incurred in Marketing Food Crops and Providing Meat for Table Use.

More live stock on the farm means less expense in marketing food crops and less cost in providing animal products for the family table. Every farmer who raises live stock is helping provide foods at low cost of production.
