

THIRTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Paragraphs of News Taken from the Files of the Reporter of 1885.

May 6, 1885.

Editor Ulrich and his bride took a trip west.

Miss Mary Duncan, of Spring Mills, accidentally broke an arm a few days ago.

Rev. Hewitt, eight years pastor of the Bellefonte Episcopal charge, goes to Nebraska.

Jacob Ripka is pushing the new house he has contracted to erect at the lower end of town, and will soon have it under roof.

Rails were laid from Oak Hall on Monday for the extension to Bellefonte and an early completion of the railroad to that point is looked for.

The stone grist mill of Col. Wm. McFarlane, a short distance from Boalsburg, was destroyed by fire on Wednesday night of last week. The mill was an old one but in good repair. The superposition is that it was set on fire. Insurance in the Penna Valley Company, on the mill, $2500.

Many towns have adopted the daylight saving plan, as have also many of the larger cities. The Pennsylvania railroad company officials are quoted as willing to change their schedule to conform with fast time, provided the larger towns along the main line are in favor of it. Altoona and Harrisburg are about to adopt the new time.

KEEP OLD TRAVELING BAGS

Salesmen Almost a Unit in Belief That There is Good Luck in Battered Grips.

Ever notice how worn and battered are traveling men's grips and bags? The knight of the road who tells you that he "made $5,000 out of commissions alone last year" is likely to have a grip that would cause shame even to a debt-hounded clerk.

The reason? Superstition. It's bad luck to change traveling bags. "A traveling man will cling to the same old bag as long as the handles stay on it and it will hold together," said a veteran traveling man. "I had only two traveling bags in 25 years on the road. You'll often see an old salesman with the same grip he started out with. He'll have it repaired and pieced together time after time, using strings or straps if necessary to keep it from falling apart."

Another superstition of the men who sell goods is that it is bad luck to be the first to sign a hotel register. If a traveling man comes in early in the day and finds nobody ahead of him on the register he will hang around the lobby, nervously waiting for somebody to come in and put down his signature on that register. Many hotel clerks know this trait of their patrons and will say: "You can sign later, Mr. So-and-so. We'll give you a room and remember it till somebody else comes in."

Few traveling salesmen like to do any work on Sunday. It's another superstition. If one sells a bill of goods on Sunday, the belief is, he will lose a day that week. He won't gain by it. Either he will find some of his expected customers away or his train will be late or something equally unfortunate will happen.

They believe, too, in the old adage that a "bad beginning means a good ending."

"If a traveling man starts out on his trip with some big sales he will be absolutely convinced that the finish will be poor," said the veteran. "And if he doesn't make any sales to speak of the first few days he will be the most hopeful and cheerful chap in the world. Means a big windup."

Return of the Golf Widow.

During the war the great majority of golfers who were ineligible or too old for military service gave up their golf, many because they were preoccupied with work, many because their golf courses were not kept up, many because they had not the moral courage to appear in public with golf clubs. Thousands of golf widows were thus married again to their former husbands, and foolishly hoped to live happily ever after, says "T. B." in the London Daily Mail. The remarried golf widows are again bereaved. Their late lamented husbands have once more departed for the happy hunting grounds—the little white ball. The corporeal shapes of their husbands indeed appear in their homes to eat and sleep (with a new heaviness) or to practice putting on the drawing-room carpet in frost-bound weather. But they are only phantom husbands. Their only mundane interests are the golf articles in the daily papers. Sometimes they bring other women's ghost husbands home to dinner, and then they talk golf.

Pneumatic Milk Tubes.

During a court inquiry into the high cost of milk at New York the suggestion was made that pneumatic tubes, formerly used in the mail service, be utilized to distribute milk to various sections of the city. The use of the pneumatic distributor was declared to be far more economical than the present methods, thus bearing directly upon the cost of milk, the subject of the inquiry. It is not the plan, however, of the persons suggesting the idea that the milk is to run through the tubes in streams. Instead carriers of metal are to be employed to convey under high air pressure several bottles of milk at a time. These carriers are to hold six quart bottles or ten pint bottles, and the capacity of a tube is said to be one carrier every six seconds.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Catarrh being greatly influenced by constitutional conditions requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Medicine is taken internally and acts thru the Blood on the Mucous Surfaces of the System thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in the curative power of Hall's Catarrh Medicine that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio. Sold by all Druggists, etc.

For Sale=

On my Farm, 3 Miles East of Centre Hall,
MY 8 16

I. H. C. Tractor

This is the tractor over whose title there was litigation. It cost us $1100.00 and will be sold for the highest bid. Anyone interested can look the tractor over. The tractor needs radiator repaired and a new gear to steering device. It has been exposed to the weather since May, 1919, and the paint is bleached.

Seller claimed tractor was good as new. Attorney for seller claimed it was better than a new one. Adding the two claims together and dividing them by two to get the average would still leave a net result that it is better than a new one.

We became the owner of this tractor by a claim of an unconditional sale being made, leaves it without any guarantee back of it, and I am not going to assume any responsibility, so tractor will be sold positively at buyer's risk.

We make one reserve—bids must be a reasonable amount above junk price. We will give accessories as they are. The instruction book is badly soiled and mutilated. I will furnish a new instruction book to a later model tractor.

Tractor was successfully used on my farm to draw disc harrow over five acres twice and one acre once.

If there are any dealers of other tractors that are in a position to make a good sale for us we would appreciate it. We cannot offer a large commission but for a sale that would be satisfactory to us we would divide up.

If there is a dealer that has a tractor to our liking, who can use our tractor as part pay, we might consider that. Dealer would have to sell tractor on approval and let us decide if it gives satisfactory service, or such service as is claimed for it. We do not want to get farm machinery for nothing, but at the present time there are the best facilities for making the best farm machinery the world has ever known, and I have no use for farm machinery that is not good enough to sell on its merits.

The tractor will have to be new and accompanied by a clean legible instruction book as I am not enough of a mechanical genius to learn the mechanical science of a tractor by looking at it, and unless I know my machine and the mechanical parts thereof I cannot expect to get the best and most efficient service out of any machine.

Seller must agree to agree not to desert his tractor as soon as he has effected a delivery, but must be willing and consider it his duty to give us all such friendly aid and assistance that we may need to learn to operate the tractor properly.

Some of the specifications seller's tractor must have are as follows: Must have either track laying traction or traction wheels of large diameter so they will pass over loose plowed ground without packing ground too firm and also have sufficient traction to pull a good string of implements on loose ground without traction wheels slipping and digging holes in soil.

Tractor must be as light in weight as practicable. Traction wheels must be wide in tread and tractor must be of the mushroom variety; low down so operator can see out over tractor to see the direction in which he is going without undue straining of his neck, or getting on his feet, or both. This also equalizes the weight more on both wheels while driving along a side hill on loose plowed ground and prevents the lower wheel from gouging into the ground and raising a high ridge of loose ground below wheel. Also lessens the danger of toppling over on steep hillsides pulling hay loader, etc.

Tractor must have a lubricating system that is under full control of the operator. If there are any sight feed lubricators they must be in full view of the operator while using tractor as a traction machine.

If there is any dealer interested you can look our tractor over any time, but don't call on us and keep us up days at a time from our work while giving us volumes of oratory and a lot of promises and claims you cannot fulfill.

Give us the manufacturer's literature so we can study what he has to say at our leisure, and if we become interested we will tell you.

John Snavely,
Centre Hall, Pa.

Children's Ailments

DISORDERS of the stomach and constipation are the most common diseases of children. To correct them you will find nothing better than Chamberlain's Tablets. One tablet at bed time will do the work and will make your child bright and cheerful the following morning. Do not punish your children by giving them castor oil. Chamberlain's Tablets are better and more pleasant to take.

Carrying a Ton a Mile for less than a Cent

Freight rates have played a very small part in the rising cost of living.

Other causes—the waste of war, under-production, credit inflation—have added dollars to the cost of the necessities of life, while freight charges have added only cents.

The average charge for hauling a ton of freight a mile is less than a cent.

A suit of clothing that sold for $30 before the war was carried 2,265 miles by rail from Chicago to Los Angeles for 16 1/2 cents.

Now the freight charge is 22 cents and the suit sells for $50.

The cost of the suit has increased 20 dollars.
The freight on it has increased only 5 cents.
Other transportation charges enter into the cost of the finished article—carrying the wool to the mills and the cloth to the tailors—but these other charges amount to but a few cents more.

The $10 pair of shoes that used to sell for $5 goes from the New England factory to the Florida dealer for a freight charge of 5 1/2 cents—only one cent more than the pre-war rate.

Beef pays only two-thirds of a cent a pound freight from Chicago to New York.

American freight rates are the lowest in the world.
