

END OF EIGHT YEARS MISERY

Used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Recovered.

Newark, N. J.—"The doctor said I had an organic trouble and treated me for several weeks. At times I could not walk at all and I suffered with my back and limbs so I often had to stay in bed. I suffered off and on for eight years. Finally I heard that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was a good medicine and tried it with splendid effect. I can now do my housework and my washing. I have recommended your Vegetable Compound and your Blood Medicine and three of my friends are taking them to advantage. You can use my name for a testimonial."

Consistency. "Why don't you go to work?" "It would be highly improper for me to do so," answered the communist. "My idea is that people should live without working, and I've got to set an example."

CAME NEAR DYING

Finally Used Doan's and Was Restored to Health. Has Been Strong and Well Since.

"Malaria fever weakened my kidneys when I was a young man," says L. W. Garrison, 23 F St., Anderson, S. C. "Finally, ten years ago, I was in such bad shape that I expected to die. Medicine wouldn't help me any more. My back pained as if it were pierced with a knife. Many times I have fallen in the street and didn't have any strength to move until the awful misery was eased up. I couldn't sleep in bed for two years. The kidney secretions passed every few minutes and scalding hot water couldn't have burned any worse. I thought I was doomed to die, but a friend pleaded with me to try Doan's Kidney Pills and I owe my life to his visit. Doan's helped me from the start and eleven boxes made a permanent cure which has lasted eight years. I have not had one sick minute since, nor missed a day from work." Sworn to before me.

MAKING TRAVEL BY AIR SAFER

Wireless Telephone Will Do Much to Insure Speedy Mail Deliveries.

BRITISH EXPERTS AT WORK

When New System is Working Properly Pilots Will Be in Constant Touch With Ground by Means of Wireless.

London.—Will the aerial mail service, when its organization has been improved, still continue to be interrupted by such adverse weather as during the past week prevented on several days the flying of the mail machines between London and Paris? Asked this question the other day by a representative of the London Times, Holt Thomas, whose high speed biplanes carry the London-Paris mail, replied with an emphatic "no."

At present, he explained, we are flying daily over what is, to a large extent, still an unorganized route; and it is no exaggeration at all to say that when all the organization which we are busily preparing is brought actually into play, as it will be before we have to encounter another winter, such conditions as prevented Lieutenant McMullin from getting through to Paris on the first day of the air mail last Monday will have no adverse effect at all on the flying of a machine, either from the point of view of safety or of adhering to scheduled time.

Wireless telegraphy will help us enormously and we have now the services of one of the most practical experts in this country, who is concentrating his attention exclusively on the question as to how directional wireless and the wireless telephone may be made to help us in regular daily flying and to overcome such difficulties as at present cause delay.

Information for Plane Pilot. When we have this system working properly it will mean that during our hours of flying, say from 12 o'clock to 4 p. m., every land operator will be listening for messages from the air and a pilot having set out say from Hounslow, and wishing to know exactly what the weather is like in the channel, will simply take up his receiver and call "Hello, Lyme." All the other stations on the airway will hear, but only Lyme will reply, and in a moment the pilot will be given the information he requires. It will also be quite easy for one pilot to speak to another while two machines are in flight.

In each machine, also, we shall place a light telescopic mast. This will be jointed and will lie in the fuselage without taking up any room. But should a pilot have to make a compulsory descent he will on alighting take out his mast, joint it together and place the "aerial" of his wireless telephone on the top of it. Then, when he has raised this mast and stuck the end of it in the ground—

New Remedy for Olive Poison

Experts Find Serum to Combat Botulinus Bacillus.

Experiments in Laboratories of University of Illinois Meet With Success.

Champaign, Ill.—The bacillus botulinus in the olives which caused the death of five persons in Detroit several months ago has been isolated by Dr. Robert Graham of the department of animal pathology at the University of Illinois.

"A different type of bacillus botulinus was associated with the olives in Detroit which caused the food poisoning there. Similar experience has been reported by bacteriologists at Stanford university in California, as well as by Belgian scientists," said Dr. Graham. "It constitutes, however, the first time this particular variety of his eye upon any horizon line, he cannot judge the altitude or inclination of his machine in relation to the ground below, with the result that he may get into a side slip or spin and find suddenly that his machine has passed out of his control—a condition of affairs which may spell extreme peril.

Then we expect very soon to have improved considerably the instruments in a machine which tell its pilot its altitude and inclination when he is deprived by fog or cloud of a horizon line. Then, as yet another point, we are working on the question of lighting aerodromes and landing grounds so that a pilot can make a safe contact with the ground even when the air is heavily obscured. This is, of course, a point of capital importance. It is not enough to guide a man accurately while he is flying in misty weather. You must be able to insure him also a safe alighting.

The point is now demonstrated very clearly that with a skillful pilot and a fast machine the only sort of atmospheric conditions which seriously interrupts flying is such as we encounter sometimes on a bad November day, when an opaque mist, beginning almost at ground level, may extend upward, in an unbroken mass, to an altitude of something like 10,000 feet.

Hurting Through the Fog. A pilot in an airplane, flying through a thick mist, is as unhappy as a pedestrian in a dense fog—only more so. Not only is there the question of finding his way, but he is faced also by the embarrassing fact that, through not being able to turn

NEEDS OF BINDER TWINE

Uncertainty of Supply Causes Anxiety in Washington.

Diligent Efforts Being Made to Find New Sources for the Material.

Washington.—The United States has long depended for much of its supply of binder twine on henequen from Yucatan. The uncertainty of the supply during the past several years has caused serious anxiety lest there should not be enough binder twine to harvest the increasing crops of grain in this country, and the United States department of agriculture has been making diligent efforts to find new sources of supply or new regions where binder twine fibers may be produced. The chief of the bureau of plant industry reports encouraging results. The conditions in limited areas, extreme southern Florida and on the larger keys, are regarded as suitable for the production of sisal and henequen fibers, provided the cost of land and labor is not too high to permit successful competition. Henequen has been cultivated successfully for several years in Cuba and the plantations are being increased, but thus far they produce scarcely enough fiber to supply the cordage mills on the island. Conditions are regarded as favorable for the production of binder twine fibers in limited areas in Haiti and over a much larger area in southern Santo domingo. Experimental plantings in Porto Rico have resulted in the establishment of a commercial plantation near Yauco and trial plantings near Quebradillas and on Mons Island have given promise of growth. In the Virgin Islands excellent conditions for the cultivation of sisal have been found on St. Croix. In the Philippines the introduction of modern fiber-cleaning machines has resulted in increased plantings of sisal and private capital has bought and installed machines to develop the industry on a larger scale.

IRON OUTPUT DROPS IN 1919

Total Production of 60,466,000 Tons Is a Decrease of 13 Per Cent From 1918.

Washington.—Iron ore production was reduced by the shutting down of blast furnaces last year during the steel and coal strikes and the total output was only 60,466,000 gross tons, a decrease of 13 per cent compared with 1918, according to preliminary estimates announced by the geological survey. Shipments were valued at $203,274,000, the average selling price at 33.30 cents a ton, compared with $3.59 in 1918. Stocks of ore at mines at the beginning of 1920, mainly in Michigan and Minnesota, were 12,980,000, an apparent increase of about 53 per cent.

COAL MINED BEYOND NORMAL

Bituminous Pits in Pennsylvania Reach High Mark in Month of January.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Production of anthracite coal in Pennsylvania in 1919 was the lowest in seven years. There were mined 86,200,000 tons, compared with 98,826,000 tons in 1918. Bituminous coal production reached the lowest level since 1915, with 458,063,000 tons, nearly 21,000,000 tons less than last year. The soft coal mines in the first week of January reached normal for the first time since the miners returned to work after the strike agreement. Production was 107 per cent of normal.

"What is that, sir?"

"Whenever you see me retire to my cellar for—ahem—prayer and meditation, no matter who calls you must say I'm out. Do you understand?"

"Perfectly, sir," replied the maid, with a knowing smile. "At the last place I worked, sir, the gentleman of the house—ahem—prayed and meditated so much my mistress had half a dozen doctors in to see him, sir, and I was told they had to put him into a kind of jacket."

THOSE WOMEN WHO DREAD MIDDLE LIFE

Charlottesville, Va.—"When I was going through middle life I became very weak and nervous. I would have heat flashes and dizzy spells, backaches and pains in my side. Jones, Douglas Ave., Fredericksburg, Va.
