Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Fisher attended the thrift conference at Altoona, on Saturday.

Mrs. James P. Herring, of Altoona, visited her sister, Mrs. Laura Lee, for a day last week.

The Bible class of the local Reformed church held a social in the church on Friday evening.

Robert Neff resumed teaching in the intermediate grade, on Monday, after a two weeks' illness.

Mrs. C. F. Emery and daughter, Miss Lillian, spent Sunday with the family of Rev. F. H. Foss, at Howard.

Miss Elizabeth Boozer left on Saturday for Chicago, Ill., to visit her brother, Ralph C. Boozer, and family.

Mrs. Minnie Richards, who has been spending some time with her sister in Altoona, has returned home.

Mrs. Virgie Keller was a great sufferer from stomach trouble for a few days last week, but is now greatly improved.

Parties holding empty gasoline drums are kindly asked to return them to the station as early as possible.—Wm. McClenahan.

Mrs. M. E. Strohm, who spent the winter with her daughters in Phillipsburg, New Jersey, has returned to Centre Hall and opened her home.

The Boy Scouts have been asked to co-operate in seeing that the fishing laws of the state are enforced. The trout season begins this month.

"To my friends and patrons: I expect to be in Centre Hall April 5th with a line of samples of the "Hose That Wears."—Mrs. C. E. Royer.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Runkle last week. The Runkle family moved from Tusseyville to near Milesburg a month or more ago.

Mrs. Robert Snyder and daughter of Altoona, arrived at the home of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James S. Stahl, on Friday, for a short visit.

Miss Adeline McClenahan, who is finishing a business course in a Baltimore school, has already been tendered and has accepted a good position in that city.

Rev. William L. Steel, of Galitzin, will fill the Presbyterian pulpit next Sunday morning. An annual congregational meeting will be held immediately following the service.

Mrs. (Rev.) J. M. Rearick, of Williamsburg, is required to spend nearly all her time in bed, and suffers a great deal. Her many friends in Centre Hall trust she may speedily recover.

The farm sale of J. Earl Crust, near Fillmore, on Monday, was probably the largest in the county this year. One horse sold for $325, and others around the $200 mark. Cows sold extremely high.

Miss Edna Neff, daughter of Prof. and Mrs. C. R. Neff, will leave this (Thursday) morning for Philadelphia to take a course in nursing in the University of Pennsylvania hospital. Her friends wish her success.

Miss Carriebell Emerick, who has spent the past year with her uncle, Oscar Emerick, at Freeport, Ill., is expected home to-morrow (Friday). Her sister, Miss Lena Emerick, has gone to Altoona to meet her.

This is "fitting day", and Centre Hall finds no families forced to leave town because of no place to go, as is the case in many, many towns. However, the housing situation, here, as elsewhere, is far from comforting, and many more houses are needed.

A colored man threw a handful of pepper into the face of C. W. Owens, a Phillipsburg merchant, on Saturday night, and grabbed a package containing two new suits and ran from the building. He was captured and held in $300 bail for his appearance at court.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Baird are paying a short visit to their only son, Prof. L. E. Baird, at Lapeer, Michigan. While it is understood that they are visiting their son, yet we have a sort of a hunch that the little granddaughter had much to do with their visit just at this time.—State College Times.

Samuel Klinefelter, of near Tusseyville, had the misfortune, one day last week, to cut himself severely on the right foot with an axe while cutting wood at his home. The axe fell on the top of the foot, severing a large vein. He bled profusely and was assisted to the house by his daughter and James Swab, who summoned a doctor.

If you are looking for an honest man, go to see A. B. Ballore, Hopewell, Va. The reason the Reporter makes this statement is that just a few days ago he wrote Kerlins, proprietors of the Grand View Poultry Farm, that he was sending to them a Masonic ring of considerable value, the same having been found in a crate of fancy eggs he received from them. It develops that C. E. Flink packed the eggs and while doing so the ring slipped from his finger. He knew he had lost the ring but had not the least idea where.

THE DEATH RECORD.

SLAGEL.—The death of Mrs. Mabel Emma Slagel, wife of Norman F. Slagel, at Boalsburg, on Friday afternoon, occasioned profound sorrow on the part of her many friends. Mrs. Slagel gave birth to a son Monday previous to her death, but the child failed to survive. The mother contracted pneumonia, which proved fatal. She was the daughter of Daniel and Emma Myers and was born at Boalsburg twenty-seven years and eight days ago. The husband, a little daughter, Margery, and the father, survive, as do the following brother and sisters: Alvin Myers, Mrs. J. P. Wagner, of Altoona, and Mrs. Harry Lonberger, of State College.

Mrs. Slagel was a consistent member of the Lutheran church and was an active worker therein. She also held membership in the Rebekah lodge.

Funeral services were held on Monday in the Lutheran church and burial made at Boalsburg, Rev. E. F. Brown, her pastor, officiating.

State Agricultural Notes.

Before anti-hog cholera serum and proper sanitary measures were used in the control of hog cholera in Pennsylvania, the losses in infected herds amounted to from 95 to 99 per cent. The use of serum, the proper disposal of infected carcasses of animals that died of the disease and the thorough cleaning and disinfecting of premises has reduced the losses to less than 20 per cent.

Reports indicate that the farmers of Pennsylvania are holding 43.5 per cent., or 3,969,401 bushels of their 1919 wheat crop, as compared with 3,758,831 bushels held on March 1, 1919.

The farmers of Pennsylvania still held in their possession 6,660,536 bushels of potatoes on March 1, or 23 per cent. of the last season's crop, as compared with 29.5 per cent. held a year ago.

ALASKAN BOAT BEATS SUBMARINE

"SUB" HAS ONLY ONE EYE, THIS HAS MANY.

Here is the original camouflaged or floating art gallery — an Alaskan family canoe. The designs on the sides of this red cedar craft were painted there purely for decorative and advertising effect and not for concealment or deception as we came to understand the use of camouflage during the world war. The designs shown are the totemic figures of the chief of this particular tribe of Hydahs, who are not Indian or Eskimo, but of distant Japanese origin. The fact that there are four great divisions of natives to be ministered to in Alaska as well as whites of all nationalities complicates the task of the missionaries there. This is recognized in the surveys made for the Inter-church World Movement. This canoe has eyes,—many eyes lavishly scattered from prow to stern, in the totemic decorations. Eyes figure ubiquitously in the totemic symbols of these peoples on land or afloat,—eyes, eyes everywhere, the all-seeing eye. Its significance is a carefully guarded secret of those who know — the mass of the natives not being admitted to this esoteric phase. This is one of the interesting mysteries of a kindly, industrious people who have welcomed the teachers, physicians and missionaries sent to them by the evangelical Protestant churches.

Flock No Longer Put to Sleep 'By Pulpit Voice' of Preacher

You wouldn't think of applying the word "jazz" to a church sermon. Yet that bit of modern slang is the word which most adequately describes the new manner and voice in which pulpits messages are delivered. Jazzed music is fundamentally simple and easy to understand. And that is also a description of the modern sermon. The old style minister, with his intoning, rhetoric and oratory, too often talked over the heads of his congregation. He lulled them into Christianity and sleep at the same time. His sermons were apt to be complex and obscure. The modern minister presents his message in clear, concise English, and in a natural voice. He talks directly to his congregation and brings them to Christianity thoroughly wide awake. This change in pulpit method was uncovered in an Interchurch World Movement survey and is one of thousands of interesting side lights disclosed in its work to bring the Protestant churches into closer co-operation.
