Lee Frazier, son of Mr. and Mrs. Foster W. Frazier, and who is finishing a pre-legal course at Penn State, was a member of the "State" debating team which defeated Princeton, at Princeton University, Saturday evening a week ago. The question debated was one on the Mexican situation and "State" was returned a winner on the affirmative side with three Princeton men acting as judges. Lee is considered one of "State's" best debaters and in nearly every instance was chosen to lead off in the debate. His natural ability in this line is well known among his many friends, and the experience he will gain on the debating team of his alma mater will serve him well in his future legal practice. Lee expects to finish his legal course at Michigan University.

The pulpit of Trinity Reformed church, Altoona, was supplied for three evenings of Holy Week by Rev. S. C. Stover, of Boalsburg. Large and attentive audiences greeted him every evening. Many friends, some of them former parishioners or pupils in school forty or more years ago, came especially to welcome him and listen to his able exposition of scriptural truths. Trinity is sometimes spoken of as the "Centre county church". This is true in fact as well as in sentiment. Two of her pastors were native Centre countians—Revs. Louis Robb and G. E. Lambert. Rev. R. R. Jones on his way to the Ridgeview missionary conference last year, supplied the pulpit on the first Sunday of the pastor's vacation. His pulpit ability was highly commented upon by the people and officials. The congregation is without a regular pastor at this time.
