

What Women Say

Danville, Va.—"From my earliest childhood Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets and the Golden Medical Discovery have been used by my people. My mother depended upon these remedies whenever her children seemed listless or sluggish, and I am sure they saved her many a doctor bill.

"When I was developing into womanhood I took the Favorite Prescription, and I have used the Golden Medical Discovery and Pleasant Pellets whenever I have felt the need of a tonic, and when constipated or distressed with sluggish liver.

"I consider Dr. Pierce's medicines the very best remedies on the market."—Mrs. J. H. Kime, 780 Patton St., Fredericksburg, Va.—"At one time I became all run-down, weak and nervous, suffered with nausea. My mother advised me to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and it soon stopped all nausea and built me up, and I felt well during the remainder of the time. I also had a very fine, strong, healthy baby.

"We have also used Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Pleasant Pellets in the family. They are very excellent remedies."—Mrs. W. T. Layton, 909 National Boulevard.

Indigestion, Pain In Heart

Danville, Va.—"I used to suffer with dreadful spells of indigestion so that my heart would pain me, I would bloat up so with gas. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets relieved me at once and eventually cured me of this suffering. At the same time I was bothered a great deal with woman's trouble, for which I took Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and was entirely restored to perfect health and relieved of all pains."—Mrs. Alice Ferrell, 703 Green St.

Suffered for Years

Miserable From Kidney Trouble Doan's Made Mr. Barnett Strong and Well.

"I suffered untold agony with my kidneys for years," says John Barnett, 30 Virginia Place, Buffalo, N. Y. "Sometimes I felt that I would burn up with fever, but every now and then would have a severe chill. Often my clothes were wringing wet with perspiration. The kidney secretions were unnatural in color and odor and burned terribly. At night my shoes were so tight on my feet that I could hardly get them off and my hands swelled so I couldn't hold a teacup. My back! Oh, how it ached! I walked with two canes and was all bent over like an aged man. When the terrible pains shot through my kidneys my knees would give way, and many times I had to be lifted to my feet by people on the street. I didn't care whether I lived or died, it was so miserable. I finally used Doan's Kidney Pills and they cured me of all kidney trouble. Doan's made me strong and well."

PROBLEMS FACING STRICKEN WORLD

Shall Chaos or Reconstruction in Europe Follow the Great World War?

RUSSIA'S TRIAL OF SOCIALISM

Ultimate Good to the World Looked For From the Practical Test Now Being Made in That Country.

Article XIV.

By FRANK COMERFORD.

The "red flag" remedy has been demanding a trial, a test. The demand has been growing. Before its advocates can be silenced they must be shown. Out of the test of socialism in Russia is bound to come good. Whether the theory is a practical one or not, putting it to the test will answer a question, satisfy a demand, and tend to quiet unrest.

The fair-minded investigator cannot deny that there was justification and reason back of the effort to try the remedy. That the world has been suffering from poverty cannot be denied. I have found few men, even among the conservative, responsible leaders of business and governments in Europe, who did not admit that conditions in the world before the war were not right; that some change in the order of things was inevitable; that the dissatisfied elements in society were coming together and that unless men were given better lives, they were determined to fight. The working man was deteriorating physically under the strain of brutal working conditions which exacted too many units of physical energy for the number of calories of food he was getting. The haemoglobin count, the red corpuscles, were disappearing from the blood of the working people. It was not a theory; one could see it in the faces and movements of the people. Medical men recognized the fact. A walk through the poorer district of any industrial city in Europe furnished plenty of evidence of this alarming condition. Men, women and children were resorting to false stimulants to keep up. Tea, coffee and alcohol were being used in increasing amounts.

Always on Verge of Want.

Men were stretching their arms and yawning. Squallor and filth furnished the homes. Many lived in abject poverty, many more lived on the border line of the garbage alley. Few were able to accumulate even the smallest surplus. They could not get by scraping and denial get a week ahead of the game. It had become a hand-to-mouth existence, a weekly, monthly fight to meet the grocery bills, buy stockings, shoes, and the scant amount of clothes to cover their bodies. It was bread and coffee for breakfast, bread with jam and tea for dinner, tea and cheese for supper. Sausage sometimes took the Sunday repast, a great stew, a few vegetables and a bone. In the Latin countries it was the same, except that diluted cheap wine was substituted for tea. The great majority of men found themselves poorer and older at the end of the week than they were at its beginning. Over the workman's head was suspended night and day by a thin, weak thread, the dreaded sword of poverty. Men feared that the thread might break any minute. It was the thread by which he held the thing called a "job." What did they care about the rights of private property? They didn't have any private property. The socialists had willing listeners when they ranted about communism. It promised to give these people property, to give them a common ownership of everything. It wasn't hard to convince them that this was better than ownership of nothing.

The bolsheviks of Russia are entitled to the presumption of good faith in selecting the Marxian formula. It is only fair to them, and to the remedy, to examine the experiment with a mind free from prejudice. In admitting the good intentions of the bolsheviks I am not conceding that bolshevism is practicable, workable; that it has succeeded or can succeed. For the present I am trying to fairly give the whole story of the effort. It is as foolish to try to answer the bolshevik propaganda by calling the bolsheviks ugly names, as it would be stupid to accept bolshevism because its advocates are sincere.

Need for Calm Consideration.

Russia is the patient. If we are to intelligently judge the treatment called bolshevism, it is necessary to get a complete history of the patient and examine the conditions under which the experiment was tried. Any doctor who is a scientist would follow such a procedure in handling a medical case. If a doctor announced to the scientific world that he had a remedy for cancer, which at the present time is an incurable physical disease, just as poverty is a social one, the scientists would give a hearing to his theory, seek a fair test for it, keep their minds open, and judge the efficiency of the remedy by the results it produced. Communism, as a treatment, a cure for poverty, has never been put to the test on a scale and in circumstances which justify any positive judgment as to whether or not the plan is a practical one. As I have written, the Russian bolsheviks insist that if every one owns everything in common there can be no poverty. They base this statement on their faith that communism will increase production. They claim that competition shackles production. They say that the competitive system takes from the individual the inducement to work—that communism would give him an incentive to work; that it would be a stimulant; that under it men would work better and produce more. They add that the present system is bound to provoke an increasing number of strikes and that strikes stop production, cause waste, increase poverty. There is no doubt about the fact that there could be no poverty in the socialist state if communism succeeded in stimulating men to work harder, thus greatly increasing production, because there would be more to eat, more to wear, more to use, and as the distribution would be controlled by the state, all of the people would receive an equal share of the great abundance, all would have enough. For the sake of fairness to them, I am conceding that the distribution program would be honestly and justly carried out, but a better distribution, a more equal and just division would mean nothing if the first, the fundamental promise of bolshevism—greater production—is not fulfilled. Any plan which decreases production causes a shortage of the things necessary to life. If the bolsheviks are wrong in their belief that communism will increase production, then bolshevism would make poverty general, universal, and instead of bolshevism curing the cancer on the body of civilization, it would make the entire body of civilization a cancer. If the claims of bolshevism are well founded, sound in common sense, capable of fulfillment, communism would be the greatest blessing ever conferred upon humanity. On the other hand, if the bolsheviks are wrong, and communism took from them the inducement to work, then notwithstanding the good intentions of the bolsheviks, their communism would be the greatest scourge the world has known. This is the simple issue in the case. If bolshevism is the good thing its advocates say it is, it will bring the millennium, and every human being should be in favor of it; but if it is not practical, and will not work out, then it is a danger, the red flag is its proper signal, and the world should avoid the danger signal as an engineer charged with the safety of human life would avoid running by a red light on the track ahead.

SENT DOWN WATER

Example of Golden Rule in Western Utah.

Farmers of the Sevier Valley Gladly Deprived Themselves of Precious Liquid to Save Crops of the Less Fortunate.

It had been the hottest and driest summer ever recorded on the Pahvant plains in western Utah. More water than ever before was needed for the Pahvant crops; but as the previous winter had been recorded as having an extremely light snowfall, the late summer flow of the Sevier river (pronounced "severe") from the snow-stores of the Wasatch mountains, was at a minimum.

Therefore in spite of rigid water economy there was an insufficient supply to mature the crops in that region. Early in the season it became apparent that if some good rains did not come at timely intervals there would be widespread devastation of the crops; and despite the earnest hopes of the people, the windows of the sky remained sealed so far as the rain was concerned, and the brass skies drank up every speck of moisture everywhere, even draining the reservoir dry a month before the potatoes and beets were matured. The apples fell to the ground withered, and the alfalfa stubble could not send out the shoots for the third crop of hay, the drought was so thorough.

After experts had been consulted with no good result, an official of the state farm bureau, with a few other citizens, made an inspiring ride in automobiles up through a small range of mountains into the Sevier valley, where the crops had not suffered greatly, owing to the fact that the farmers in this region held primary rights to the water of the river. The modern Paul Reveres, coming to the rescue of the unfortunate farmers farther down the stream, appealed to the irrigation company officials in this region, and requested the loan of the river for 24 hours.

They were assured in response that the Golden Rule reached not only across the Sevier valley, but on down to the Pahvant as well, and a vote taken was unanimous in favor of closing the Sevier valley head gates by midnight that very night and leaving them closed as requested.

The returning midnight riders reached Pahvant valley many hours before the water, which began to arrive late the next forenoon. The mammoth Sevier river, no longer full and turbulent at this time of the year, but flowing abundantly, nevertheless, went bounding joyfully down through the stony canyons, carrying good tidings of the genuine friendship of the Sevier valley farmers. That afternoon every Pahvant farmer was in his fields guiding the precious water across the lands, where it kissed back into liveliness and hope the despondent crops; and all that night and the next day the men labored on in gratitude, until the water began to dwindle, and then finally ceased. But it was enough; 2,200 acres of crops worth hundreds of thousands of dollars, were saved and a community was made happy.—Christian Science Monitor.

An African Pompeii.

During the war archaeological excavations were continued at the Italian colony of Cyrenaica on the North African coast, and now comes the news that what has been found already promises the uncovering of another ancient city as important as Pompeii. Once upon a time the spot was a Greek colony, with the civilization of Greece transplanted to the soil of Africa. The work has been carried on during the war under the supervision of Lucio Mariani, director of the archaeological services of the ministry of colonies, and the prediction is now made that the newly discovered city will eventually prove actually richer than Pompeii in its evidences of a past civilization. Here have been already found statues of the Graces, a Hermes, an Eros, an Alexander the Great, and most impressive of all, the Aphrodite of Cyrene, which is said by certain connoisseurs to be a fair rival in beauty of Venus of Milo and the Venus of Chidus. The discoveries have extended over many years.

Monarchs Tire of Switzerland.

Former Emperor Charles of Austria and Empress Zita are tired of remaining in Switzerland, according to a telegram from Prague, and have applied to the Czech-Slovak government for permission to reside in Prague. The request was refused for political reasons.

One Reason Given for the Request Is That Owing to the Low Rate of Exchange in Switzerland the Former Royal Couple are Receiving Only One-Tenth of Their Income from Vienna.

Empress Zita is reported to have been forced to sell more of her jewels. An American newspaper is understood to have offered the former emperor $500,000 for his reminiscences, but although financially embarrassed, he refused.

Child Victims of the War.

In Jugoslavia there are 500,000 fatherless children of whom 150,000 are absolutely destitute. Among them tuberculosis, eye and skin diseases are rife. Of these children, up to July, fewer than 2,000 had been provided for, largely because of the tremendous difficulties attending the work in an utterly disorganized community. The government at Belgrade and the great American and English relief organizations are now working in thorough harmony in their efforts to carry these children safely through the winter. They can only succeed if there is no slackening of effort on the part of the American and British publics.

EAT LESS AND TAKE SALTS FOR KIDNEYS

Take a Glass of Salts if Your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers.

The American men and women must guard constantly against kidney trouble, because we eat too much and all our food is rich. Our blood is filled with uric acid which the kidneys strive to filter out, they weaken from overwork, become sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys; to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water beverage, and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time.—Adv.
