"GILLETISM" IN THE HOUSE.

"Gillettism" is the Republican dynasty's newest fad. It is more up to date than "Cannonism," and goes farther. It is not dissimilar to "Czarism in the old Russia, or Bismark's "blood and iron" policy.

As applied by the Republican Speaker, from whom it takes its name, at the direction of the Republican "millionaire steering committee," it is most effectively used in the House of Representatives to silence those who would say such things as Speaker Gillett and the "steering committee" do not wish to have said. By the application of "Gillettism," the Speaker, who though he is but one of the 435 members of the House, may refuse to recognize a gentleman on the floor, regardless of whether it is the will of the other 434 members that the gentleman be heard.

"Cannonism," "Czarism" and "blood and iron" have all run their evil course and are no more, which ought to be a lesson to the Speaker and the "steering committee," although, as former Speaker Champ Clark says, a Bourbon forgets nothing—and learns nothing.

U. S. Supreme Court Upholds Prohibition.

Late Monday afternoon the constitutionality of the prohibition amendment to the constitution was upheld by the United States Supreme Court.

The court further declared the constitutionality of the Volstead enforcement act limiting the per cent. of alcohol in beverages to 3/4 of one per cent.

The rigid enforcement of the Prohibition measures is upheld by the court. The decision nullified all state laws permitting the sales of high contents of alcohol in beverages upon the formal declaration of peace such as were passed in Wisconsin, New Jersey and Rhode Island.

Plan Busy Summer At State College.

With the annual June commencement at the Pennsylvania State College, which this year will extend from the 12th to the 16th, one is naturally led to believe that the work of the college is completed until the reopening of the regular courses in September. However such is not the case, as evidenced by the following program planned by the college for this summer, the biggest of its kind ever undertaken:

June 19 to 24—Young Farmers' Week.
June 22, 23 and 24—Annual June Farmers' Week.

June 28 to August 6—Summer Session for school teachers, attended each year by more than one thousand public school teachers from all parts of the state.

June 6 to 19—School for boy scout leaders, with camp and instruction for boy scouts.

July 12 to 30—A session for county preachers with conference on rural church conditions, in cooperation with the Interchurch World Movement committee.

July 19 to 30—School for supervisors of agricultural schools; a school for superintendence and administration for executives, both in cooperation with the State Department of Public Instruction.

July 26 to 28—School directors session, according to a resolution adopted by the State Directors Convention, February 5.

State Agricultural Notes.

The value of the commercial grape crop in Erie County, Pennsylvania, last year was estimated at $3,000,000.

More than half of the plant food contained in manure is wasted by careless and inefficient handling.

All grain, hay, fruit, and animal products sold from the farm carry with them a certain amount of plant food. This must be replaced or the farm deteriorates in fertility.

TOTS LOST IN WOODS FOUR DAYS FOUND BY SEARCHERS; ONE STARVED TO DEATH.

Miner's Little Girls Went to Hunt Teaberries, Near Osceola, and Found After Long Searching.

Clutching in her baby fingers a few teaberries which instinct had prompted her to gather to fight off starvation, little Annie Tokarchek, aged four and one half years, was found in the woods near Osceola late Monday, seated by the lifeless body of her little sister, Julia, who had died from starvation. The children were located by a searching party after having been missing from their home near Osceola for over four days. The little girl, aged two years and nine months, had been dead about six hours when found. Exposure and exhaustion had caused her death.

The following story of the wandering away of the children is taken from Monday's Williamsport Sun, and the article was in type before the news of the finding was reported:

Two little girls, barefooted and thinly clad, have been lost in the woods near Osceola, this county, since last Thursday morning, and hundreds of searchers have not been able to find a trace of them.

The children are Annie and Julia Tokarchek, aged respectively four years and six months and two years and nine months, the children of Andrew Tokarchek, a Slav miner, employed at a mine at the headwaters of Trout run, near Osceola.

Thursday morning they started out from home, attired in red calico slips, without shoes, stockings or hats, to hunt teaberries in the heavy second growth timber. Little Annie is partially paralyzed in one leg. Some time later when they did not return, the mother hunted for them unsuccessfully. When the miners quit work they hunted for them. It was found that they had been a mile from home about 11:30 o'clock. The search continued far into the night.

Friday morning all work at the mines was suspended and the men sent out in the search. Volunteers from Osceola joined them. Twenty-five automobile loads of men went to the mine to aid in the search and the Pennsylvania railroad ran a special train for volunteers. Every mine hole, brush pile and pool of water was investigated. A member of the state constabulary brought a bloodhound, but were unable to follow the scent.

The search was continued Saturday Sunday and Monday, with no success. It is thought by some that the children have been drowned in the reservoir which supplies Osceola and the reservoir may be drained.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

Report was current that the M. A. Sankey farm at Potters Mills had been sold to Frank T. Royer for the sum of $12,250, but later the report was denied by one of good authority, the statement being made that no sale had been consummated prior to Wednesday. This farm has been in the Sankey family since 1790, and is one of the reasons why Mr. Sankey hesitates to part with the homestead. The place contains approximately one hundred forty-four acres, twelve of which are timbered.

Mrs. Margaret Loyd Robinson, of Bellefonte, and Mrs. Elizabeth Kirk, of Reading, have been stopping at the Centre Hall hotel. These ladies, back in 1871, attended school in Centre Hall, and naturally find many changes have been made here since then. The Centre County Normal school was in full swing then, Superintendent R. M. Magee being in charge and Hon. Henry Meyer, later his successor as county superintendent, was an assistant instructor. The former lady was then Miss Margaret Cross, of Stormstown, and the latter Miss Elizabeth Johnson, of Milesburg.

Miss Verna Lingle came home from Virginia to attend the funeral of her brother Harry, which took place on Saturday. His untimely death was caused by a tree falling on him while working on the lumber job for Miller and Kline.

Mrs. George Breon returned home on Saturday after spending a week at the home of her son, Reuben Breon, at Port Clinton. The main object of her visit was to see her little grandson, which she took with her on Monday, it being the first in the family. It was voted A No. 1.
