Harry C. Hassinger, another of Millheim's young men who was partially disabled in the World war conflict, has been granted vocational training at the expense of the government. He will be given a twelve-months electrical course at Williamsport to which place he was ordered to report on Wednesday. It will be recalled that while Hassinger was stationed at the Edgewood arsenal, Md., and engaged in filling gas shells that his eyes were damaged to such an extent that it was fearful he would lose sight.
The state road from Old Fort to Millheim borough line is to be treated to a coat of road oil, the work being scheduled to start on the 15th inst. The Mill town council has been in communication with the state road authorities concerning the oiling of the borough streets, and on Tuesday Mr. McCullough, of Bellefonte, who has charge of the road work in Centre county for the state, was in Millheim and interviewed several of the councilmen and offered what the councilmen consider a very fair proposition, the state offering to apply the oil free of charge and the residents to clean the roadways and to pay for the oil.

Penn State Students To Work on Farms.

Over seven hundred students in agriculture at the Pennsylvania State College are prepared to strike out to the aid of as many farmers needing labor for the summer months, and will leave at the close of college, June 16. While the farm labor situation in Pennsylvania is such that this number of men is comparatively small, their willingness to decline chances for higher wages in the industries is highly commended by their instructors.
In the various courses there are 109 Seniors, many of whom will become permanently attached as farm managers and assistants; 143 Juniors, 183 Sophomores, 163 Freshman and 176 from the two year course, most of whom will go directly to general and truck farms and work for $50 or $60 a month and board. The demand for summer farm help this year has been greater than before. Thirty-five per cent of these students have been reared on farms and will spend the summer on the home farm. Practically all have had experience, necessary now for entrance to the school.

Of Interest to Timber Owners.

The timberland owners of Centre county have been offered the assistance of the Pennsylvania Department of Forestry in order to get the largest possible return from their lands. To encourage this work, Gifford Pinchot, the State's Chief Forester, last week declared he was ready to co-operate with private owners of woodlots so that they will practice forestry.
Free service is offered by the forestry department, and upon request by the owner any farm woodlot will be examined and report on its condition will be given without charge by representative of the department. Large commercial timber tracts, park s, and ornamental plantings will be examined and recommendations will be made, the applicant paying the expenses incurred.
Commissoner Pinchot explained the co-operative plans as follows:

- "A representative of the Department of Forestry will go over the ground with the owner and learn his desire, the kind of material he wishes to produce and the amount he is willing to invest to bring the results, and will explain the work that should be done. He will designate trees for cutting and make such measurements as are necessary to furnish the owner with information he may desire and advise him how to improve his woodlot. These instructions will include:
- "1—How to put the timberland in the best condition for yielding the largest returns.
- "2—How much material should be cut, its condition, the product into which it should be manufactured and where it should be sold.
- "3—How to bring about valuable new growth. If planting is necessary this advice will include the species, age, manner of planting, etc.
- "4—Plans for protecting the forest against insects, diseases and fire."

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured
by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surface. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.
We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Medicine. Circular free. All Druggists. T. C. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.
