A PUPPET CANDIDATE.

From the New York World.

A more respectable figurehead than Warren G. Harding has never been nominated for President of the United States by either party.

Nor has either party, since the Democratic National convention of 1856 named James Buchanan, selected a candidate so little qualified to grapple with the nation's problems.

Senator Harding is a perfect flower of Old Guard politics. He is an Ohio politician, with the mind of an Ohio country politician, and he sees the world through the eyes of an Ohio country politician. Being weak and colorless and mediocre, he appealed powerfully to the managing politicians who control the Republican organization, most of whom are senators themselves. They know Harding, and they know he will be a faithful agent of the organization. They have worked with him, and they can prove that he never had an original idea or entertained a thought that was outside the routine of a well-trained and well-disciplined party servant.

The Republican platform adopted at Chicago is perhaps the best index to the Harding mind. Whoever is curious to know the mental processes of the Republican candidate has only to read that platform. Those are the very terms and phrases in which Senator Harding thinks and in which he expresses himself.

The Senator's friends are fond of comparing him with McKinley, but the resemblance is mainly superficial. Both came out of Ohio, but if Harding is a McKinley he is a McKinley without McKinley's personal charm, a McKinley without McKinley's extraordinary skill in managing men, a McKinley without McKinley's wide experience in public affairs.

The Republican candidate has been a member of the United States Senate for more than five years, but his name is not identified with any important act of legislation or with any public service of consequence. He has voted as Penrose and Lodge would have him vote, and he has never displayed anything that could be regarded by the most liberal interpretation as independence or courage. His conscience and his convictions are simply the routine conscience and convictions of a professional Ohio politician.

Of all the candidates whose names were presented in the Chicago convention or who were within the range of the convention's choice, Harding with the exception of Johnson and Poindexter, fell the furthest short of measuring up to the requirements of a President in this critical time. Lowden and Wood were eliminated by their campaign-fund scandals, but with Hoover and Hughes and Taft and Knox and even Coolidge and Sproul and Butler to select from, what more pitiful choice could have been made, in view of the colossal questions with which the next President of the United States must deal.

Senator Harding was nominated, because the Old Guard Republicans want a President who will take orders. Accordingly they present their puppet candidate in the person of Warren G. Harding, of Ohio.

The Lock Haven mayor has sworn in fifteen additional policemen in a crusade to break up auto speeding, which has become such a nuisance in Lock Haven as to have got beyond the control of the regular police force.

Sad Death of Rebecca Cox Grove.

The death of Mrs. Rebecca Grove, wife of Chester Grove, on Monday afternoon at two o'clock, at her home near Zion, was particularly sad and has filled with grief the hearts of many young as well as old friends of a young lady who lived and grew to womanhood in the village of Tusseyville. Mrs. Grove was about to become a mother and it was seen that an operation was imperative for the child to be born into the world, and the arrangements to this end had been practically completed when the angel of death summoned the young woman home.

Before her marriage to Mr. Grove, which occurred a year ago last March, the deceased was Miss Rebecca Cox, who from childhood was reared in the home of James Spangler, at Tusseyville, her parents having been dead. Her endearing qualities made her a favorite among her young friends, who now mourn her untimely death. In church work the young lady was ever ready to do her full duty, and as a member of the Lutheran church she was loyal and steadfast in its faith.

Besides her husband, the deceased is survived by three sisters and three brothers, namely, Mrs. Mrs. Edward Norris, of State College; Mrs. Bloomard Shutt, of Bellefonte; Miss Christina Cox, of Zion; George Cox, of Zion; Fred, of near Pillmore, and Robert, a U. S. service man stationed in South Carolina.

The body will be brought to the home of the husband's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Grove, in Centre Hall, where funeral services will be held this (Thursday) morning at 10:00 o'clock. Rev. Shultz, Lutheran minister from Snydertown, will officiate, and burial made at Centre Hall.

Thousands of Farmers at State College Next Week.

All roads for Pennsylvania farmers will lead to State College and the annual June Farmers' Week within the next ten days. Young farmers will assemble there for special activities June 19 to 24, and their fathers will join them on June 22, 23 and 24 for what promises to be the most successful occasion of the kind ever held by the college School of Agriculture. Preparations are being made to receive between five and eight thousand farm folk in that period, and the event will mark the highest point in such service rendered the farm people by the agricultural college of the state.

Out-door demonstrations to groups of farmers interested in a particular one of the great variety of projects undertaken by the college will make this Farmers' Week different from any other. The class-room talks have been eliminated and actual visits to the experimental plots, orchards and gardens will be conducted by the men directly in charge of each. First hand information concerning the latest scientific discoveries and methods will be given right in the field.

Actual demonstrations will be given in the following sections, weather permitting: soils and fertilizers, farm crops, farm machinery, livestock, poultry, dairy husbandry, vegetable gardening, fruit growing, plant pathology and entomology (plant diseases and insects), home economics, floriculture and landscape gardening. All demonstrations will be open to women. Governor Sproul, Secretary of Agriculture Rasmussen and Dr. T. E. Finegan, superintendent of public instruction will speak on Tuesday evening June 22; Gifford Pinchot and Dr. E. E. Sparks, president of the college, will speak on Wednesday evening, June 23.

GIVES HIS LIFE IN SAVING SWIMMERS.

Lock Haven Youth Meets Death in Bald Eagle Creek After Rescuing Two and Going After Third.

After saving two young women from drowning in Bald Eagle creek, Ernest Weir, aged 19 years, a popular Lock Haven youth, met death as he went back after a third woman who was struggling in the water.

The accident occurred Saturday afternoon about 3 o'clock. In company with Herman Probst, Hogan Seasholtz, Caroline McGinness, Bertha Brown and Laura Darow the young man went to Bald Eagle creek, at a point midway between Lock Haven and Mill Hall, to go swimming.

The young women went in the water first. Miss McGinness and Miss Darow started to wade to land, followed by Miss Brown, who slipped on a rock and plunged into deep water. Miss Darow went to her assistance. Miss Brown clung to her and both were in such serious plight that they called for help. Weir had not removed his shoes or clothing but he plunged into the stream and brought Miss Darow ashore after a hard struggle.

Miss McGinness had meantime gone to assist Miss Brown and had become so exhausted that she had to be assisted to shore. Young Weir then went back and dove twice to try find Miss Brown, who had disappeared. The other young men, who were at some distance from the stream and did not know what was taking place, reached the scene about this time and located the unconscious body of Miss Brown. She was taken to shore and resuscitated.

Mr. Weir had disappeared and it was one and a half hours before his body was located, a short distance below the scene of the drowning.
