Sugar Collapse Due.

Look for lower priced sugar! This is the good news which greets the housewife in a report on the sugar situation as contained in an article in the Philadelphia Record on Monday.

Imports of raw sugar continue to be large. Since the beginning of the year 975,000,000 pounds of dutiable raw sugar have been landed at the Philadelphia port, which does not include the sugar free from duty from Porto Rico, the Philippine Islands and Hawaii.

European markets are glutted with refined sugar exported from the United States, so much so that dealers have called to this country to send no more, as all warehouses are filled to the top. What to do with the stock now on hand puzzles both the refiners and speculators who have been keeping the price in this country at the top notch.

Raw sugar prices began to slump on Saturday, and the traders say that the end of the slump is not in sight. Fifteen cents a pound is predicted this fall, with a probable further reduction, as the new sugar crop, due in December, will be the largest ever known.

The sudden collapse of the boom is due to the big Cuban sugar crop. United States marines are on guard in the sugar-growing plantations of Cuba and at the grinding plants to prevent them being destroyed by fire in order that a deliberate shortage might be created and the consuming public robbed again by the club of high prices as they have been in the past.

The beet sugar crop is large this year, particularly in California, where it is the largest in history and is now being harvested. By October there will be more than enough beet sugar to supply the Middle West and the Pacific States, with some left to send east of the Alleghenies for consumption.

SPRING MILLS.

Blake Bartley, a lad of five years, fell into the cess pool at the Aiken home. The accident was seen by Mrs. T. M. Gramley, who summoned Luther Musser and he rescued the boy as he was sinking the third time. There was five feet of water in the pool.

George Gentzell, wife and daughter Carrie are attending camp meeting at Bald Eagle Valley.

The Aiken silk mill is being tested and will begin operation in a few days. Dr. Braucht took Mrs. George Tressler, of Centre Hall, to the hospital at Danville on Tuesday.

Charles Royer is visiting his son, Rev. J. Victor Royer, at Petersburg.

Philip Long and family, of Uniontown, are spending a few days with his aged father, J. D. Long.

Mabel Allison has several girl friends visiting at her home.

Corman Reunion Postponed.

The Corman reunion has been postponed to Saturday, August 28th, on Grange Park. Everybody is invited to the park on that day and join in the festivities of the Cormans.

North Carolina poplars will be planted under State auspices in a half-dozen counties this fall to test their availability for pulp wood.

Observe the game laws. Even in fishing for compliments you should return the undersized ones.

GRANGE ENCAMPMENT & FAIR.

Opens on Grange Park, Saturday, September 4th.—A Week of Complete Enjoyment.

This promises to be the best fair ever held at Grange Park and the committee asks you to help make it the best by bringing your finest fruit, vegetables and cereals to place on exhibition.

Premium of ten cents will be paid for every worthwhile article. In addition the interest shown in this department last year has induced the committee to pay cash prizes, 1st, and 2nd, this year, for the first time. Competent judges will award the prizes.

The needlework department will be more interesting than usual. Premiums will be paid only on articles exhibited for the first time, so much new work will be shown. Premiums will be paid on all live stock. Special prizes will be awarded by competent judges in the live stock department.

Some new tents have been bought and since the tenters of 1919 are again coming this year, this popular feature of our Encampment and Fair will be larger than ever.

Harvest Home services will be held in the Auditorium on Sunday, Sept. 5th, at 2:30 P. M. The services will be conducted by Rev. M. C. Piper, pastor of the Methodist church of Milesburg, and Chaplin of the Centre County Pomona Grange.

Wednesday, September 8th, will be given over to the annual Reunion of the Centre Co., Veteran's Club.

Thursday, Grange Day, John A. McSparran, Master of the Pennsylvania State Grange and other Grange speakers of note, will be with us and deliver addresses on subjects of vital interest.

Bands have been secured for Wednesday and Thursday.

Friday a tractor demonstration at the west end of Grange Park will take place, and the stock department is planning for a big stock sale on that day, the closing day of Encampment and Fair.

Conley Farm Sold.

The Conley farm, east of Centre Hall, was sold a few days ago by Mrs. Catharine Conley to Clayton Musser, of near Linden Hall. The farm contains seventy-two acres, with good buildings. The place is a very desirable home. Mr. Musser several years ago moved from near Aaronsburg to the Lieb farm, east of Centre Hall, and from there to where he now lives.

The original Conley farm contained but sixty-two acres. The other ten acres is a part of the William Keller (Homan) farm, and purchased by the late James A. Keller and sold and deeded to the late J. W. Conley. The tract is comprised of a woods and a few acres of cleared land and lies to the front of the building.

The price paid was $4750, $1500 being the sum apporportioned to the J. W. Conley heirs.

Notice to Campers on Grange Park.

The price of old iron has grown too high for the 'Encampment to keep up the supply of stoves as in former years. Two or three dollars is not an attractive price for a stove, as for old iron the junk dealer pays much more, and this year as a consequence we find our supply of stoves almost exhausted.

The committee requests where possible campers furnish themselves with oil stoves. Oil can always be bought on the ground.

Timely Reminders from The Pennsylvania State College

Watch for moth in stored wheat. Thrash the grain early to avoid injury in the stack or mow. If grain begins to heat in the bin, fumigate at once with carbon bisulphide. Use one pint of material to 100 bushels of grain.

GARDEN—Sweet corn is at its best when rushed from the stalk to the table. At all events it must not be left to heat in baskets or bags. Keep it cool.

PASTURE—Second growth of meadows may be used for pasture to keep up the milk flow. Do not pasture too closely.

POULTRY—During hot weather pests of various kinds are often found in the hen-houses. For lice, use sodium fluoride or blue ointment around the affected parts. For mites, paint the roosts and nests with crude oil. Coal oil will answer the purpose and may well be applied every three weeks during the summer and fall months.

SILO—It is during the hot dry days of August that the wood silo staves very often dry out and the structure becomes loose and shaky. See that the hoops and guy wires are made tight so as to make the silo firm and rigid and lessen the possibility of its being blown down.

FLIES are usually very bad at this time. Young calves and colts should be kept in the barn during the day and out on pasture at night. A mixture of two parts talc and one part sodium fluoride dusted on the animal is a very good repellent. It should be obtained for about ten cents a pound.

Biliousness

WHEN you have a bilious attack your liver fails to perform its functions. You become constipated. The food you eat ferments in your stomach instead of digesting. This inflames the stomach and causes nausea, vomiting and a terrible headache. Take Chamberlain's Tablets. They will tone up your liver, clean out your stomach and you will soon be as well as ever.
