Items from the Millheim Journal.
Prof. B. M. Stover, formerly of Millheim, recently purchased a fine buff brick residence on Barnard street, State College.

Charles Brown and Elery Overdorf, both farmers of near Millheim, each lost a cow on Sunday forenoon. The cows both died from the effects of being bloated.

Mr. and Mrs. Sameul K. Ulrich and son Lawrence, of Cleveland, O., were arrivals last Thursday at the home of Mrs. Ulrich's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Maize. Mr. Ulrich departed for his home Tuesday, but his wife and son will make a more extended visit.

The reservoir which supplies pure mountain water to the residents of Millheim was thoroughly cleaned out last week. Besides cleaning out the accumulation of leaves and mud, a space of about eighteen feet wide in front of the breast of the dam was concreted. It is expected that the concrete will very materially protect the breast of the dam and make it easier to clean in the future.

On Saturday evening about 6 o'clock when a heavy electric storm was progressing in this section, John Bair, of near Penn Hall, was returning from Millheim, where he had come for a load of chop at the McMullin mill. When he was in the vicinity of Elmer Smith's home, near Millheim, lightning shattered five electric light poles and pieces of the poles were thrown all around. One of Mr. Bair's horses was knocked down and Bair was thrown off the wagon seat and was considerably stunned, but he was able to proceed on his journey. Mr. Bair was in town again Monday evening and says he still feels the effects of the shock.

FRUITTOWN.
Charles Fye, of State College, is spending a few weeks' vacation with his family in this place.

Mrs. H. C. Gettig and children returned one day last week to their home in Braddock after spending a few weeks with friends and relatives in Centre county.

Mary Catharine Sarson, of State College, spent last week at the home of her grandparents.

Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Wert and children, of Aaronsburg, spent a day last week at the F. J. Fleisher home.

Rush Dippery, who is employed at Milton, spent Sunday with his family.

Alfred Reiber, of Johnstown, visited at the home of his father on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ramer, of Millroy, were callers at the Calvin Bodtolf home on Sunday.

Six baby girls and three baby boys were born to as many families in State College during the past ten days, which leads the State College Times to say that "this will surely be the metropolis of the county by the time the census enumerators makes his next rounds."

This is the last call for the 25 per cent. reduction sale at the Nieman Dept. Store, Millheim. See adv.

HEALTH SCHOOL

Pennsylvania State Department of Health.

Questions.
1. How can decay in teeth be prevented?
2. What diseases may be caused by decayed teeth?
3. What action should School Boards take?

TEETH

"The Walrus and the Carpenter
Were walking close at hand;
They wept like anything to see
Such quantities of sand;
'If this were only cleared away.'
They said, 'It would be grand!'"

"If seven maids with seven mops
Swept it for half a year,
Do you suppose," the Walrus said,
'That they could get it clear?'"
'I doubt it,' said the Carpenter,
And shed a bitter tear."

It was this fragment of Carroll's poem that Dr. Black quoted to Mrs. Walter, the Chairman of the County Health Committee, when she said that because of the rotten teeth of the children of today, the men and women of tomorrow would be a set of invalids, dyspeptics, and rheumatics; and proposed that the dentists should so work with the school authorities that every child in every school of the county should have his teeth put in perfect order and kept so.

The Doctor continued thus:
"In one county of Pennsylvania there are about 456 school houses and 27,000 children; those 27,000 children have at least 100,000 rotting teeth. There are in this county fifteen competent dentists. Allowing one hour for each child, it would take those fifteen dentists, working eight hours a day, two hundred and twenty-five days to give a first treatment to each of these children."

"But that is a gross exaggeration, their teeth cannot be in that dreadful condition."
"It is no exaggeration, but under states the facts."

"A survey of 150 children in two cities, showed 825 cavities; an average of 5.20 cavities a mouth; this fairly represents the State at large."

"Then there is no hope of doing anything except for the people who can afford to pay for a dentist?"
"On the contrary," replied the Doctor, "there is not only hope, but a determination to do much."

"But how can that be?"
"By preventing the rotting of teeth."
"But it is natural for teeth to decay; I have seen it in little babies."

"Teeth decay only and solely because the mouth is filthy. In this mouth filth grow the germs which eat away the enamel."
"Do you mean that there wouldn't be any toothaches, any abscesses, any fillings to be done, if the teeth were kept clean?"

"Yes."
"Do bad teeth cause disease?"
"Yes, children with rotten teeth catch diseases, are sickly, have sore throats, sore gums, bad stomachs. Bad teeth are the starting points of rheumatism, heart disease, and many crippling forms of sickness."

"How can you get rid of what you call mouth filth?"
"By washing and brushing the teeth every time food is taken into the mouth, using plenty of water and removing all of those fragments of food which remain between the teeth and on the irregular grinding surfaces. These fragments of food in the warm, moist atmosphere of the mouth quickly decay, and start that eating away of the enamel which exposes the teeth to rotting. This is especially true of all forms of sugar."

"Coming back to the school children, Doctor, what can we do for them?"
"There are not enough dentists to go around, therefore some other means must be sought. We can use women trained to clean the teeth thoroughly and properly, and to map out conditions which require the care of a dentist. One such woman can thoroughly clean, twice a year, the teeth of eight hundred children; her salary should be $100 per month. Where there are a number of small schools within fairly easy reach of each other, she can divide her time among them."

"The children must be taught how to keep their teeth clean and must be inspected daily to see that they are doing so. Those who require further attention should be referred to the dentist, and children too poor to pay should be sent to the school dentist, who should be given a fair salary for this type of trying and exhausting work."

"Where this has been done not only health but scholarship has shown an astonishing improvement."
"It is better for Pennsylvania that her coming citizens should have sound teeth, than that they should know how to extract cube root; also, it costs less, and is a proper charge against the school fund."

Twenty-five automobiles are to be sent to Burma by the American Baptist Foreign Missionary Society. The result will be to triple the work of the 68 American missionaries there, as the British government has excellent roads.

One of the biggest publishing plants in the Orient is the Baptist Mission Press at Rangoon, Burma, which is quite modern and self-supporting. As 28 per cent of the people of Burma can read, the plant is a valuable aid to the mission workers.
