Evidence that Governor Cox has profoundly stirred the West continues to crop out, notably the coming over to his support of the former Republican papers and ministers of the gospel of Republican affiliation. Every day some accession of this kind is noted in the news. Nor is all the Democratic gain confined to the West; the East is showing a strong drift toward Cox as the issues of the campaign become clearer and more widely known.

From every section of the country and from the leaders of the rank and file of the people there come every day indications that the tide has turned, and now sets steadily towards Democratic success in November. The signs are such as cannot be ignored.

BOALSBURG.

There will be services in the Reformed church Sunday afternoon, at 2:30.

Mrs. Ellen Stuart and Miss Margaret Lytle, of State College, were guests of Mrs. E. A. Fisher recently.

Mrs. Paul Stairs, of Greensburg, and Miss Trout, of Washington, were recent visitors with relatives and friends here.

Rev. S. C. Stover is attending Synod at Norristown.

Mrs. Annie Kreamer, of Altoona, was an over Sunday visitor with her sister, Mrs. Charles Johnsonbaugh.

George Stuart, of Pittsburgh, spent part of Sunday with his mother, Mrs. Emma Stuart.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Fisher and son, of Sunbury, visited at the Fisher home from Saturday until Sunday.

Mrs. Harry Lonebarger and Mrs. Helen Snyder, of State College, spent Thursday at the D. W. Meyer home.

Mr. Mobis and daughter, Mrs. Margaret Rudy and son and granddaughter, of Huntington, spent Sunday at the H. M. Hosterman home.

Mr. and Mrs. Meck and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Coxy and daughter, accompanied by Mrs. Nannie Coxy, who had spent a week at the Harold Coxy home, autoed to Boalsburg on Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Meck and Mr. Coxy returned the same day while Mrs. Coxy and daughter remained at the Coxy home.

AARONSBURG.

Mrs. Sara Harper, eighty-five years old, is visiting friends at Lewisburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Guisewite and two daughters, Mary and Florence, of Woodward, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. John Grenoble.

A. S. Musser, the dentist, wife and daughter Irene are spending some time with Rev. Weaver, at Everett.

Mrs. Jennie Sylvis sold her home to Rev. Jacob Stover, a Lutheran minister, whose health is not the best.

Arthur Weaver and William Hatley are employed at Lewisstown and like their work.

Employed at Milton, Harry Eisenhower received a bad cut on the hand and is now under Dr. Musser's care.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bell, of Mt. Union, and the former's mother, Mrs. Kate Bell, visited Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hull on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Sinus Stamm, of Millmont, were guests of Miss Cora Haines for a short time.

COMMUNITY DAY A BIG SUCCESS AT SPRING MILLS.

Various Schools Vie With Each Other in Exhibits.—Many Cash Prizes Awarded.

Fair skies and ideal weather combined to make the second annual Community Day at Spring Mills, held under the auspices of the Gregg Township Vocational School last Friday, the most noteworthy celebration in this part of the county. The scene that greeted visitors after two o'clock was beautiful indeed. On the wide-spreading lawn and playground of the school hundreds of children were playing group games under the leadership of the older girls and boys of the institution. In the background, tied to whitewashed rails, stood 26 of the finest pure-bred dairy cattle locally owned, while in nearby white pens were 11 pure-bred pigs and a pure-bred Shropshire ram. In the building four large rooms were entirely filled with a comprehensive exhibit including dressmaking and canning in the Home Making Department, and every conceivable variety of agricultural products. Two rooms were given over to the exhibits of the elementary schools, the display from which was remarkably fine, especially in the case of Farmers Mills School, to which the first prize, ($5.00 in cash) was awarded by judges. The decorations excited warm praise. The tables displaying apples and other fruit were attractively covered with green moss surrounded by trailing pine. Great festoons of this green hung overhead, while doorways and walls were adorned with branches of evergreen and colored autumn leaves. The rooms of the Home Making Department were also very tastefully decorated. "Everywhere were the signs of the splendid efforts of the pupils and teachers. Special interest was shown in the admirable exhibit of Biron Decker, who was one of the three Vocational students who was sent to Springfield, Mass., recently to represent Pennsylvania at the celebrated cattle judging contest. The others on the team were Sara Rishel and Sara Goodhart.

At 3:30 athletic contests for older boys started when the Vocational school defeated Centre Hall High school in Dodge Ball. The Centre Hall boys showed fine sportsmanship in entering the contest with almost no training for it. Then the married men under the captaincy of Ex-Sheriff Lee put the single men to flight by defeating the latter in Dodge Ball. The main event of the afternoon was the road relay race in which teams from High Schools at Centre Hall, Aaronsburg, Millheim, and the Vocational School took part, each contestant running 1100 feet. To the delight of the local supporters the Vocational School runners won this race also, Centre Hall finishing second, and Aaronsburg third. The married men next faced the dodge ball team of the local school in the final effort for championship. Here youth with its vigor and speed got the best of age with its wisdom and weight, and the married men yielded the medals of victory to the Vocational School boys.

With the falling shadows came supper; and an excellent meal was served by the girls who are in the cooking classes of the school. In spite of the great preparations made, the girls were not able to serve all who desired to get supper. The speakers of the evening and the judges were guests of the school, twenty being seated at a long table. A very beautiful centre piece on this table was a basket of handsome snap-dragons presented by Dr. Musser of Aaronsburg.

At 7:30 the meeting in the Grange Hall was opened by singing by the students led by their instructor of music, Miss Welsh. Mr. Dennis, Director of the School, then introduced Mr. W. L. Taylor as chairman of the meeting. His genial and happy remarks delighted the audience all through the evening. Before a crowded house, where nearly one hundred stood for want of seats, Mr. C. A. McBride, State leader of Boys' Club work, awarded the prizes to the boys and girls in pure-bred pig clubs and calf clubs; and Mr. Grover Walker presented the winners with cash prizes in behalf of the First National Bank of Spring Mills. Mr. J. D. Blackwell, of Harrisburg, in charge of agricultural education in Pennsylvania, and Professor Borland, who is head of the Animal Husbandry Department at State College, followed with delightful talks which were greatly appreciated by the enthusiastic audience. Dean R. L. Watts, of State College, delivered the speech of the evening, in which he urged the development of the agricultural policy, manifesting all through his speech his keen interest in and sympathy for the many problems of the farmer. Some 200 people were unable to get into the building to hear the speakers. So closed a memorable day in the life of Spring Mills.

In the Agricultural Department prizes were awarded as follows: (In each instance first mentioned took first prize; second mentioned, second prize, etc.) Cabbage—J. Decker, O. Barger, R. Braucher; beets—L. Kline, J. Gramley, J. Decker; cucumber—L. Vonada; carrot—K. Rearick, B. Wolfe, A. Barger; celery—Bessie Wolf, J. Decker, Bessie Wolf; endive—R. Hagan; Bessie Wolf; cauliflower—Lodie Vonada, Ethel Musser; turnip—Katherine Rearick; strawberries—Bessie Wolf; peppers—Renna Heckman, Biron Decker; parsnips—Mary Foreman, Lynn Meyer; onions—R. Braucher, Katherine Rearick, J. Gramley; peas—Grace Neese, J. Decker; Guy Vonada; quinces—Marian Neese, Mary Bright, Delsey Morris;

Third Prize: Catherine Rearick 2, Alma Zerby 3, Vera Sinkabine 1, Bessie Wolfe 2, Delsey Morris 2, Sara Rishel 1, Marguerite Krape 1, Ida Rearick 1, Grace Bower 2, Katherine Lynn 4, Marian Neese 1, Lodie Vonada 4, Sarah Goodhart 2, Tacey Smith 1, Grace Neese 1, Mary Miller 3, Elizabeth Dennis 1, Rachel Hosterman 1.

For girls having the highest number of points in the above contests a special prize of $2.00 was awarded; and when it was discovered that Bessie Wolf and Grace Bower had 30 points each, the prize money was doubled so that each one received $2.00. The contest was close, as Sara Rishel won 26 points and Alma Zerby 25 points.

Winners in other departments will be published next week.

REBERSBURG.

Quite a number of our people attended the Milton fair on Thursday.

Harry Garrett is building a stable on the premises which he bought of C. M. Gramley.

Farmer Charles Bierly had the misfortune the other day to cut a deep gash in his foot while cutting wood.

Mrs. George Brachbill left on Friday for Pittsburgh where she will spend several weeks visiting relatives.

Henry Gilbert, of Washington, D. C., spent over Sunday at the J. N. Moyer home.

Samuel Gephart and wife left on Monday for Illinois. Mr. Gephart shipped a car load of apples a week ago to a point in Ill. and will dispose of them when they arrive.

On last Monday Howard Krape and wife locked their house and left for State College where they are employed in a restaurant.

George Showers, merchant at Wolfs Store, has rented a farm a short distance west of Madisonburg. Mr. Showers will quit the mercantile business and move on the farm next spring.

GEORGES VALLEY.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Ripka spent Sunday at the home of Wm. Musser at Zerby station.

Miss Sara Reeder is visiting at the home of her niece, Mrs. J. C. Krader.

A. C. Confer moved on Tuesday from Yeagertown to his home near Zerby, which he purchased from Elias Confer.

E. L. and C. W. Lingle were business visitors at Lewisstown last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. McClennahan, of Potters Mills, spent Sunday at the home of the latter's mother, Mrs. Carrie McClennahan.

HEALTH SCHOOL

Pennsylvania State Department of Health.

Questions.

1. What danger may arise from sneezing?
2. Name two diseases which may be transmitted by sneezing?
3. How should a sneeze be covered?

SNEEZES

A-Choo—A-Choo—A-Choo.

"God Bless you," they used to say. Now it's "Confound you," or something worse. The sign in the street "Cover a Sneeze," had been there a long time, but no one paid attention to it, until an epidemic of influenza took the lives of 47,000 people of Pennsylvania in one month.

The following letter from one teacher to another tells a story of its own.

Brallsburg, Penna. 20.

Dear Jennie:

Your remark in your last letter, "You can't sometimes always tell," had its exemplification in my school today. Tony Morell was the exponent and the cause, a health lecture. Tony appeared to be paying attention to everything except Dr. Strong, our School Medical Inspector, who was telling the class how certain diseases are borne from one person to another. He laid special stress upon tuberculosis and explained how germs of that disease were almost always present in the sputum (spit, he called it) of persons having it, that when the sputum dried the germs were liberated and could be breathed in by others. He said that common colds were often contracted by breathing in germs which had been expelled by the coughing or sneezing of others who had colds. That this danger was greatest in crowded, ill-ventilated quarters. He said of the great outbreak of influenza, that its extent might have been lessened if all persons had followed the practice of covering coughs and sneezes.

When the Doctor finished, I allowed ten minutes for each pupil to write the points of the talk they had just heard. Here's where Tony came in. The rest of the papers were good, bad or indifferent, as such papers in a school room average, but Tony, with apparently little effort, produced this: "Coughs and sneezes spread diseases."

And O, that spit! Beware of it!"

I have completely reorganized my opinion of Tony and, while I should scarcely class him as a budding Kipling, I give him credit for quick perception and brevity of expression, and he has demonstrated to me the value of school instruction in health.

They say "It's hard to teach an old dog new tricks," and as a rule the conclusions of the "They" are the deductions of experience, but let us set the young generation straight.

While the two great political parties are contending as to the best way to save the world and make it safe to live in—let u. School Teachers, save the people from being weaklings and cripples by teaching of practical lessons of health.

Yours as ever,
ELLA.

Diphtheria—Scarlet Fever—Measles—Spinal Meningitis—and other diseases, in addition to influenza and the common cold, are transmitted by the secretions of the nose and throat.

Did you ever shoot at a barn door with a shot gun?

Do you remember how the shot from a muzzle less than an inch were scattered from edge to edge?

There is a similar occurrence when a pint or more of air is propelled violently through a pair of small calibre nostrils—except that instead of leaden pellets, are usually active, living disease germs, riding upon tiny, ofttimes invisible droplets which spread fan like to a distance of six feet or more.

A sturdy unobstructed sneeze from the rear row in the movie house, may project its vanguard of infective germs two, three or even four seats ahead, while the rank and file, mounted upon invisible droplets, hover in the air to be breathed by occupants of the intervening chairs. Often no harm results because nature's resisting power overcomes the germs before they can establish permanent lodgment.

Sometimes, however, the resisting power fails, or is insufficient, and then comes infection and disease—which might have been avoided had the sneeze been covered.

A cough or sneeze should be covered by the handkerchief, or if there be no time for that, by the hand, which should be immediately washed.
